CHICAGO IS FLYERS' NEXT GOAL

SUSTAIN VETO, THEN PASS NEW VETERANS' BILL

House Hurries Law Favored by Hoover.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—After sustaining President Hoover's veto of the world war veterans' bill, the house today passed a new measure aceptable to the administration and sent it to the senate.

The vote on the question of overriding the veto was 182 to 188, supporters of the original legislation not only failing to obtain the required two-thirds vote but falling short even of a majority.

With members faced by the alternative of passing the substitute administration bill or obtaining no veterans' legislation at this session they swung into line for its passage by almost a unanimous vote. The vote on a roll call was 365 to 4.

The senate finance committee late today commenced consideration of the new house bill and will meet again tomorrow morning. Administration leaders believe the committee will approve the bill promptly, but fear opposition on the floor of the senate, whose attempts may be made to add amendments which would increase the cost and make it objectionable to President Hoover.

Expect Senate to Fall Into Line.

It is regarded as likely, however, that after a lively debate of a day or two the senate will fall into line.

Adjournment of the regular session of congress not later than next Wednesday is the goal toward which the leaders in both houses are driving.

President Hoover in his veto message denounced the original veterans' bill as discriminatory, unsound and involving costs "beyond the capacity of the government at the present time without increased taxation." New estimates show, the President said, that the bill would cost 110 million dollars the first year and ultimately 235 millions annually.

"In sentiment and in sympathy I should desire no greater satisfaction than to support just measures which are proposed for their benefit," the President said. "But I want a square deal between veterans—not unjust discriminations between special groups—and I do not want wasteful or unnecessary expenditures."

The substitute bill passed by the house was sponsored by Representative Royal C. Johnson [Rep., S. D.], chairman of the veterans' committee.

Features of Substitute Bill.

Important features of the bill follow:

Cost to government—Approximately $50,000,000 the first year and reaching $80,000,000 the third year.

Number of veterans benefited—Expected to give pensions to 200,000 veterans the first year and to an indefinite number thereafter.

Scale of payments—Authorizes pensions to veterans who served 90 days in world war and who are 25 per cent or more disabled, whether or not as a result of service. For 25 per cent disability, $12 a month; for 50 per cent disability, $18; for 75 per cent disability, $24; for total disability, $40.

Veterans excluded from benefits—No pensions shall be paid to men accepting disability since leaving service as a result of "willful misconduct," nor to men paying a federal income tax.

Special benefits—Men suffering from tuberculosis, active or arrested, shall be considered 25 per cent disabled. Men losing one or two limbs in combat shall receive $25 a month independent of any other compensation without present requirement of need of nurse or attendant.

Miscellaneous provisions—Sets minimum payment of $20 a month death compensation to dependent parents, although widow and children also survive. Permits payments to guardians of incompetent or minor beneficiaries. Due regard shall be given nonmedical evidence in adjudication of claims.

Time effective—Bill becomes effective when signed by the President.

Contrasted with Old Bill.

Contrast of new and vetoed bills:

Cost of new bill first year, $50,000,000, as compared with 102 million dollars for vetoed bill. New bill benefits 200,000 men; vetoed bill, 75,000 to 100,000. New bill pays pensions up to $40 a month to all disabled veterans; vetoed bill paid compensation up to $150 a month only to men with disability contracted prior to Jan. 1, 1920. Disability under new bill requires no service connection; under vetoed bill service connection presumed if ailment contracted before 1920. New bill excludes men paying

ALCOCK SHIFTS 587 DETECTIVES TO PATROL DUTY

Trace Lingle Check to Police Captain.

$55,825 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,825 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter. The information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in Room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street; telephone State 3729.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock yesterday transferred 587 men from plain clothes duty at the detective bureau to patrol duty in uniform in districts through the city. His order reduced the personnel of the bureau from 874 to 287, which includes the chief, the deputy chief, 7 captains, 18 lieutenants, 62 sergeants, 163 patrolmen, 14 police operators, a policewoman, 8 girl telephone operators, 5 civil service clerks and 7 civil service stenographers.

The order was part fulfillment of Alcock's promise to the city council last week to increase the number of men traveling beat from 1,100 to 3,300. That was the whole purpose of the transfer, Alcock explained—to put the men on the street in uniform rather than having them touring the city in high powered cars.

Lingle Check Is Found.

Meanwhile investigators for State's Attorney Swanson announced the discovery among the effects of Alfred Lingle, slain TRIBUNE reporter, of a $500 canceled check, made out by Lingle to cash and indorsed by Capt. Daniel A. Gilbert, commander of the central police district.

Capt. Gilbert, recalling the circumstances, said he would be willing, if subpoenaed, to tell the grand jury how he received the check. He said he had encountered Lingle one night in a downtown hotel and that the reporter appealed to him for a loan, saying he was temporarily short of cash.

"I happened to have $500 with me, and as a friendly act gave it to him," Gilbert explained. "Some time later he repaid the loan with the check in question. I kept it for some time and finally cashed it to meet an insurance premium."

Other officials listed by the investigators as having made loans to Lingle were Corporation Counsel Ettelson, Ald. Bert Cronson, a nephew of Ettelson, and Maj. Carlos Ames, president of the civil service commission. Ettelson denied having loaned Lingle anything, while Cronson and Ames recalled having advanced the reporter sums of money.

Hero Detectives Shifted.

In furtherance of the Alcock police shakeup many detectives who have been cited for heroism and important arrests are among those who will don blue uniforms, or khaki for the rest of the summer if they prefer.

Alcock's order in effect abolished many of the special departments of the detective bureau—the confidence man detail, the bomb squad, the stolen automobile division, the major crime bureau and the pawnshop section. Besides adding to the man power of each district, Alcock ordered his captains to cancel all possible special details and put the men in uniform and walking beats.

A special order to the captains said: "You will make a thorough investigation of the members of your respective commands who are in the habit of using profane language and who perform whatever police duties they do perform while abusing and swearing at citizens. Whenever I find that condition existing the person guilty will be immediately removed from the department through methods provided by law."

Posts to Be Rearranged.

The captains were also ordered to rearrange the posts of patrol sergeants so they will have smaller territories to cover and thereby will be able to keep closer watch of the activities of the patrolmen. The practice of furnishing gasoline for sergeants and patrolmen using their own automobiles on police duty was ordered discontinued and the use of the machines stopped.

Acting Commissioner Alcock said he planned to have but twelve automobiles used by detective bureau squads. Heretofore thirty-five cars have been in operation. With five men to a squad and working three shifts, the squads will require but 180 men, as compared with 550 used formerly.

The lieutenants transferred from

PUBLISHERS ASK RETURN OF BOOK ON ROOSEVELT

Boston, Mass., June 26.—[Special.]—Owen Wister's life of Theodore Roosevelt, issued last week by the MacMillan company, has been recalled by the publishers who have "formally demanded" the return of all complimentary copies as well as books sent out for review for publicity and for literary purposes, in addition to stocks sent to booksellers all over the United States. An author's correction is given as the reason for this action.

The hurried and insistent demand for the return of all the books, which are expensively bound and will cost a considerable sum to revise, has led to wild surmise as to the cause. It is believed that some serious blunder has been made.

The favorite reason ascribed for the withdrawal of the book is that President Roosevelt is quoted as having said something about the late ex-President Woodrow Wilson which was highly distasteful to the Wilson admirers and to the Wilson family.

Col. Herbert to Get Post of Yellowley

Col. J. F. J. Herbert, prohibition administrator for the Montana-Idaho district, will succeed E. C. Yellowley as director of enforcement for the Chicago area, dispatches from Washington reported last night.

Col. Herbert's appointment, expected to be announced soon, is to become effective after the transfer of enforcement from the treasury to the justice department on July 1. Col. Herbert, who formerly was administrator for the Maryland-Delaware-District of Columbia district, is reputed to be a close friend of Amos W. W. Woodcock, United States attorney at Baltimore, who has been appointed director of prohibition by Attorney General Mitchell.

Praised by Yellowley.

"Col. Herbert has a fine record as an enforcement officer, and I know him as a man of the highest type," said Mr. Yellowley.

The Chicago area, under the new enforcement plan, will embrace Indiana, Wisconsin and Illinois, or the seventh federal judicial district.

Col. Herbert, whose title was acquired through service with the American army in France, was appointed assistant administrator at Baltimore on Dec. 1, 1926, by Lincoln C. Andrews, then assistant secretary of the treasury. He soon became administrator, which place he retained until Nov. 1, 1929, when he was transferred to the Montana-Idaho district.

Attacked by Senators.

On Jan. 28 of this year Senators Borah and Wheeler attacked Col. Herbert on the floor of the senate. Wheeler charged that the transfer of the administrator and the discharge of his assistant, John J. Quinn, were the results of an investigation by the department of justice. Borah declared that a department of justice agent supplied him with the record—"a record of malfeasance and corruption"—of Herbert and Quinn.

The department of justice denied having made any such investigation and it was asserted Senator Borah's informant probably was a former dry agent named Flynn, whom Herbert had dismissed.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran defended Col. Herbert as "an honest, able enforcer." During his régime in Baltimore Col. Herbert was regarded by federal officials as efficient in his line of hardboiled enforcing.

Reports were current at the federal building yesterday that Mr. Yellowley will be retained in the treasury department, where he has expressed a wish to stay, after 31 years of service. The alcohol permissive department will be headed by Doran, and Yellowley would remain under him.

CALLS BOOTLEG TURNOVER THREE BILLIONS A YEAR

Forest Park, Pa., June 26.—[Special.]—Racketeering was described as a national industry with a three billion dollar annual turnover from a single facet of one of its multiple operations—bootlegging—and involving the activity of 5 per cent of the nation's population, at the annual summer conference of the League for Industrial Democracy at Camp Taiment here tonight.

Paul Douglas, professor of economics at the University of Chicago, speaking on "Shot Guns and Politics in Chicago," blamed the continuous gang warfare of that city on the absence of a monopoly among bootleggers and old party politics.

"The failure of any political machine to assume a predominating position comparable to Tammany in New York further complicates the picture of Chicago's gang life," Prof. Douglas said.

SEMI-CONSCIOUS 4 WEEKS AFTER AUTO ACCIDENT

Semi-conscious for four weeks following an automobile accident, John A. Williamson Jr., 21 years old, a sophomore at Michigan State college, was brought back to his Chicago home at 233 North Lorel avenue yesterday from Benton Harbor, near where the accident occurred.

Physicians differ as to whether he is suffering from concussion of the brain or nervous shock, his mother said last night. She has been at his bedside constantly.

"He cannot speak or move," she said, "but his eyes are open. Sometimes he smiles as he gazes around the room. He seems to recognize us. His system functions normally. He responds to the liquid diet we feed him, and his temperature has been reduced."

SPORT HERRMANN RESCUES MAN IN BELMONT HARBOR

John C. McDonald, 30 years old, 5555 Sheridan road, an electrical engineer, was rescued from drowning in Belmont harbor early this morning by U. J. (Sport) Herrmann, owner of the Cort theater, and a party of friends who were entering the harbor on Herrmann's yacht Swastika.

Herrmann, assisted by Walter Gough, 619 Maple avenue, Wilmette, a real estate dealer with offices at 140 North Dearborn street, lowered a dory and went to the assistance of McDonald. He was revived and taken to the American hospital, where a friend, B. A. Halperin, 412 South Grove avenue, Oak Park, said he had fallen in the water from the deck of the yacht Elizabeth.

Two Policemen Scalded When Still Blows Up

Two county highway policemen, lying in concealment beside a moonshine still they had discovered in a garage at 159th street and the Governor's highway in Markham, late last night, in hopes of trapping the distillery attendants, were scalded, one perhaps fatally, when the still exploded.

Patrolman Walter Remillard, 29 years old, 1667 Buena Vista avenue, Chicago Heights, was reported near death early this morning in the Ingalls Memorial hospital at Harvey. His companion, Sergt. John Orgel, 45 years old, of Midlothian, escaped with less serious injuries.

Find Still in Bungalow.

Cruising along Governor's highway about 11 p. m., the policemen sniffed the odor of mash and, following the scent, found the still of about 150 gallon capacity in the garage, situated behind a neat brick bungalow in a secluded spot, well off the road and beside the drainage canal, which cuts through the district.

The bungalow was darkened and repeated knocks on front and rear doors went unanswered. Using their flashlights, the policemen searched the vicinity and found no one. They decided to entrap the alcohol cookers.

Finds Hiding Place.

Remillard went in first and found a hiding place behind a barrel of mash at the rear. Sergt. Orgel took up his post just inside the door, prepared to block the escape of any one entering. From subsequent incidents it became apparent that the still tenders lay concealed in the brush across the road, awaiting the explosion they anticipated.

For 20 minutes the policemen waited in the garage while the still bubbled and simmered and a red glow from the fire box threw eerie shadows upon the walls. Without warning came the explosion, which showered them with boiling liquid.

Sergt. Orgel got outdoors first, tore his scalding coat from his back and stood by to assist Remillard, who was groping through the steam, seeking the door and shrieking with pain. When Remillard gained the exit the sergeant jerked off his uniform, helped him into his car, and sped to the hospital, only a few blocks north across the village boundary.

See Car Pull Away.

A Harvey police squad, speeding to the scene on hearing the blast, which reverberated through police headquarters, saw a curtained car pull away from a lane across the road from the bungalow and speed south. This car, they surmise, contained the still tenders, who had waited to witness the fate of the sergeant and patrolman.

An hour after the first blast and before the police dared enter the garage the still exploded again, spreading a geyser of crude alcohol around the premises, but without extinguishing the fire. The garage walls took fire and the structure was destroyed within fifteen minutes.

John Kut, 44 years old, and his son, Joseph, 18, who live nearest the deserted bungalow in the sparsely settled neighborhood, were taken in for questioning by the Harvey police. They admitted knowing the still had been in operation several months, but denied knowledge of its ownership.

BOMB 2 GARAGES; SMALL BREWERY IS FOUND IN ONE

Bombs burst at the doors of two private garages in the Canalport police district at short intervals last night. In the bombed garage at 2021 South Racine avenue the police found a miniature brewery. The police sought Emil Berkin, reputed owner of the garage. In the second bombing the garage at 1650 Alport street was found empty but the condition of the premises indicated it had recently housed a brewery, the police said. Damage in both cases was slight.

CONQUERORS OF ATLANTIC LAND SAFELY IN N. Y.

Announce Plan for Coast Trip.

Chicago aviation leaders were enthusiastic last night when told of Maj. Kingsford-Smith's plan to fly the Southern Cross to Chicago.

An invitation to visit the National Air races to be held here beginning Aug. 23, already has been wired to the intrepid quartet of flyers by Earle H. Reynolds, president of the Air Race corporation.

The Tribune, which, with the New York Times, is publishing the flyers' story, sent Maj. Kingsford-Smith a wire last night assuring him and his companions of Chicago's pleasure at their coming.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Roosevelt Field, L. I., June 26.—[Special.]—The Southern Cross, with its crew of four, ended its flight from Ireland to Long Island at 7:34 [eastern daylight time] tonight when Maj. Charles Kingsford-Smith brought the giant tri-motored Fokker down at this airport before a cheering crowd of 5,000 persons who fought the police to greet them. An hour and a half later the tired trans-Atlantic flyers were safely quartered in a New York hotel.

They will be given an official reception by the city tomorrow, and Saturday they hope to fly to Chicago on the first lap of their trip to the Pacific coast to give the Southern Cross a round-the-world record with its same commander and same Wright whirlwind motors.

Only fogs, darkness, and an erratic compass was able to block the Southern Cross from a nonstop flight, and the famous old Fokker looked fit for another 3,000 miles as she floated down to earth at the airport after a thirteen hour and twenty-nine minute flight from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, where the plane was forced to land on the first leg of her trans-Atlantic flight because of low fuel supply.

Circles Manhattan Island.

The Southern Cross slipped by to the north of Roosevelt field at 6:45 p. m. and nine planes leaped from the earth to join her in flight over Manhattan.

At 7:25 the Southern Cross reappeared. Three times the eager crowd waved and shouted to the bottle green monoplane as it roared around the field, sideslipping and tipping its wings in a sharp bank of salutation. A moment later it rolled across the field, its three motors kicking up a cloud of dust that hid the plane from view.

Its pilot wheeled the plane about and with an escort of motorcycle policemen taxied up in front of the grandstand, where two rival welcoming committees—Nassau county and New York City—were jockeying to be the first to greet them.

One Look and He Waits.

Maj. Kingsford-Smith crawled out on the wing of his plane, took one look at the fighting, struggling crowd of official welcomers and crawled back into the cabin.

"Here we are," he shouted from the cabin. "And we sure are glad to be here."

Evert Van Dykz, the co-pilot, could be heard shouting to Maj. Kingsford-Smith.

"Hey, Smitty, how do we get out of here?"

J. W. Stannage, the radio operator who kept the plane in touch with the world on its record crossing, peeped out a window and pulled in his boyish head like a turtle.

Capt. J. P. Saul, the navigator, was yelling something or other at a tall lean man in the crowd—his brother, W. H. Saul.

Main Crowd Behind Fence.

The main crowd remained respectfully behind the heavy fence, but there were almost a thousand official welcomers. They got out of hand and swarmed over, under and about the plane, dislodging everybody from Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, to Grover A. Whalen, New York City's ambassador.

The carefully planned, dignified reception developed into a young riot. Grover Whalen was thrust aside, but by some chance, William Ennequest, Nassau county's head greeter, was bounced into the door of the plane.

Sir Donald Lindsay, who flew up from Washington to extend a greeting to his countrymen, was elbowed and pushed about by the police and crowd alike. The Nassau county delegate, with a huge basket of roses, which he hung on the right engine, did all of the official welcoming. The ambassador even had a narrow escape from a ducking when the throng upset the basket of flowers and spilled a couple of quarts of water.

Crew Finally Alights.

With the "official welcomers" almost ready to pick the plane apart for souvenirs, Capt. Saul leaped out with a portfolio of papers in his hand. They were the records of the flight.

From the other side of the plane, Kingsford-Smith, his co-pilot and his radio operator jumped lightly to the ground, grinning figures in flying togs and fur lined boots, the only clothes they brought with them on the trip. Police formed a cordon about them and they were safe at last. But for thirty minutes after the ship landed the air voyagers, the first ever to complete a flight across the north Atlantic and on to New York in their own plane, were virtually at the mercy of the crowd of "welcomers" and the photographers who climbed over the wings, on top of the cabin, and under the engines.

Through a lane of pushing, clawing men and women—some with babies in their arms—and all wearing badges of some kind or other, the four men fought their way into the operations office, where a room had been fitted up for the customs and immigration inspection required for the first time at Roosevelt field. None of the aviators had any baggage, so customs men had nothing to do.

Weather Poor Over Entire Trip.

Once inside the building Mr. Whalen courteously gave way before Sir Ronald and Mr. Enequest, the energetic Nassau greeter, in whose particular territory the ocean flight had ended. Anyhow, Mr. Enequest had beaten Mr. Whalen to the field and the cops were his.

They had had only six hours of decent flying weather on the whole 44 hour trip, Maj. Kingsford-Smith said. Fog blinded and lost just as success was in sight, he said, only the strong plane and radio saved them from disaster.

"On the flight down the coast from Harbor Grace," smiled the major, who is a sharp eyed, red haired, and weather beaten fellow, "conditions were almost as bad as over the ocean. Fog and strong winds made it necessary to fly by instruments the greater part of the way and head winds cut our speed greatly.

Due in Chicago Saturday.

Maj. Kingsford-Smith said the Southern Cross and its crew would remain here for "several days" before flying on to California with Chicago as the first stop, but Van Dyk a few minutes later said, "We have definitely planned to leave here early Saturday for Chicago."

Both the major and Van Dyk said there would be no nonstop flight to the Pacific coast as it already has been done and they want to visit Chicago.

Maj. Kingsford-Smith was asked if the Atlantic was harder to fly than the Pacific.

"The Pacific is harder to navigate," the major replied, "but the weather is worse over the Atlantic."

"A real east to west trans-Atlantic plane route from Europe to America," Van Dyk said, "is impossible. It is the devil, head winds all the way and fog, fog, fog. Perhaps, some day, a southern route by way of the Azores, but the north; no, no, no. I'll tell you, blind flying through fog is no fun."

More Crowds at Hotel.

Another milling mob met the flyers as they left their automobiles at Roosevelt hotel. Walking through the lobby in their fur boots and suede jackets they looked as if they had just climbed down from the cabin of the Southern Cross. They bathed and dined and went away to fulfill a radio engagement. Mr. Whalen still was with them, talking over plans for the reception.

The men previously had spoken to a vast radio audience for when they finally stepped from the cabin of the Southern Cross microphones linked with coast to coast hookups in this country and the broadcasting facilities of Great Britain and Australia were waiting for the sound of their voices.

After paying tribute to the men who flew with him Maj. Kingsford-Smith leaned closer to the "mike" and spoke a personal message. "I know some one will be listening in for me in Australia." The major's bride-to-be, Miss Mary Powell Hawthorne is in Melbourne, Australia. The other fliers spoke jokingly about the hardships they had endured and told briefly of incidents of the trip.

The Southern Cross has one of the most interesting histories of any plane still flying. It is the first trimotored Fokker and, despite stories to the contrary, is the original plane, although at times the fuselage and the wings were separated while being used by Sir Hubert Wilkins in his arctic exploratory flights. The motors being used are the original ones, retained because Maj. Kingsford-Smith said he had got used to their song.

MONTREAL ASKS SEA FLYERS TO PAY VISIT THERE

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 26.—(Special.)—Montreal today sent an invitation to Capt. Kingsford-Smith, commander of the Southern Cross, to visit Montreal during his stay in North America. A telegram was addressed to him at Roosevelt field, New York, by the Canadian Aero club, asking him if it would be possible to visit the Canadian metropolis before he starts for the Pacific coast.

CHIEF OF OCEAN FLYERS WRITES OF TRIP'S START

Clouds Hid Erin's Green from Sight.

New York, June 26.—In the first place I want to say to every one that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE reaches how glad we are to get here and how sorry we are that we were delayed on the way. It is a dream long dreamed and finally realized.

But let us get to the flight itself.

I will try to tell you as best I can how I felt as I opened up the motors on the beach there at Port Marnock. Beside me, perched in the front of the big Fokker, was our Dutch pilot, Van Dyk. Directly behind us there were four tons of gasoline and behind that Capt. Saul, our Irish navigator, and Stannage, the radio man.

Takes Off Handily.

I opened up the engine and we started with our seven and a half ton load, very, very slowly. In split seconds the big ship picked up speed and at the end of thirty-five hundred feet we were in the air.

We went straight out to sea to the south, climbing slowly in a sweeping left hand turn that must have been five miles across. At 1,200 feet we had come around into the west and were at last on our course, bound for America.

It took us an hour and a half to cross Ireland and we saw very little of it. There was rain and fog, white clouds below and black clouds above, with here and there a break through which we saw the greenest of green fields cut off by dark hedgerows and white roads.

No Time for Scenery.

But I was not paying much attention to the scenery. Neither was Saul. From the very start Stannage, the radio operator, was connected with stations from which we were getting our course. Saul would make a calculation and turn a dial in front of him, which would set my reading right on the earth inductor compass in front of me.

It was humpy flying, and I was busy enough keeping the big plane on its course, conserving every bit of gasoline and flying as economically as possible.

We were out to sea before we knew it. The storms lessened. A slight head wind began to play against us, but we were on our way and were happy. A hundred miles out we saw the fisher boats, the trawlers, the sturdy schooners and the small boats tossing on the white capped waves, and when we left them we felt very much alone.

Radio Bearings Kept Course.

I have referred before to Stannage and I expect to refer to him many times again before this story is told. His steady radio bearings were all that kept up on our course. The clouds thickened up mile after mile, climbing in high mountains ahead of us, blotting out the sea and sky. There was no chance really to correct our drift, and it was the radio bearings and the calculations of Capt. Saul alone which kept us on our course.

It seemed funny to Van Dyk and me to be taking orders from two men we couldn't see or talk to save by him, which would set my reading right messages. As a matter of fact, we in the front of the ship got no glimpse of Stennage and Saul until we set her down at the airport at Harber Grace.

I must say this! The weather all the way across bore out the forecast, but we did not expect to meet quite so much heavy fog or see it pile up quite so high.

Personal Messages Sent.

We had just got out over the ocean when I turned over to Van Dyk. I took a bit of a rest, writing up some of my log and personal messages to friends in Australia, America and England. We stuck these messages on a stick with a paper clip on the end of it, shoved them back over the big gas tank, and Stannage did the rest. Now and then he sent us a message the same way. We had a push button and a red lamp in each compartment to attract each other's attention.

We were hungry when we started, even after a good breakfast, but, surprisingly enough, once on our way, we did not think of eating for several hours. We were perhaps four hundred miles from land before we brought out some sandwiches, made by the wife of the general officer commanding the Curragh camp, the biggest army post in the Irish Free State. These we washed down with hot coffee.

Night found us about two-thirds of the way across, and as darkness came down the fog increased. Then there was no ocean underneath, no sky overhead, just the black night, lightened by the blue-white flames from our engine and the luminous dials of our instrument board. At times we tried to go under the fog and once or twice suddenly our radio went out. We knew that our antenna had struck the water. If that had kept up we would have very soon had no radio and perhaps no airplane.

We climbed up sometimes to a mile altitude. Skipping along across the cloud peaks and through them, we glimpsed the stars, twinkling low on the horizon. There was no chance for Capt. Saul to take a celestial observation. Those stars, as cheering as they were, were few and far between.

We should have been over Newfoundland before we were. We were still 200 miles off, we learned later, when we thought we were over land. We flew another hour and still there was no land, but there was plenty of fog.

Still Another Hour.

We flew another sixty minutes and there was still no land. Then it began to get light. The fog was thick as usual and our gasoline supply getting low. Stannage was working faithfully and steadily on radio bearings and finally had us pointed toward Harbor Grace. We knew that we could not reach New York. We hoped there would be a rift in the fog to let us through at Harbor Grace. Suddenly, when we were right over the city, the rift came. We swung down through it and landed.

Today's flight was simple in comparison. We had had a good night's sleep, glorious care from the hospitable people of Harbor Grace, and we were getting on. There was the same belt of fog part way down, but we were well over the top of it, with a bright sun and a good horizon to fly by.

[Maj. Kingsford-Smith will continue his narrative in tomorrow's issues of The Tribune.]

BROTHERHOOD BANK AT CINCINNATI CLOSED; MAY MEET ITS DEBTS

Cincinnati, O., June 26.—(AP)—The Brotherhood of Railway Clerks National bank, one of the largest of labor banks, failed to open for business today.

Haveth E. Mau, United States district attorney, said the closing was a result of the $1,000,000 check kiting operations of A. W. Shafer, district manager of Henry M. Doherty, investment house, is under indictment for embezzling $210,162 of his firm's money and is also charged with having caused the closing of the Cosmopolitan Bank and Trust company sixteen days ago.

Fifty-one per cent of the Brotherhood stock was owned by 122,000 United States and Canadian members of the brotherhood of railway and steamship clerks, freight handlers and station employés.

The directors voluntarily closed the institution after depositors withdrew $1,000,000 and a run followed the resignation of three high bank officials last Monday.

Two of those former officials, Lyman E. Norris, vice president, and Harry Rosenvium, cashier, arrested, charged violation of the national banking act, pleaded not guilty and were held under $25,000 bond each.

FIRST DIESEL MAIL PLANE REACHES CITY

The first Diesel powered, oil burning airplane to be used in regular commercial service in this country landed at the Municipal airport last night at 9:50 p. m., completing its first flight. Pilot Forrest Kelch brought a full cargo of mail from Detroit over the mail line of the Thompson Aeronautical corporation.

The Thompson company, after flying more than a million miles with gasoline powered airplanes, is now testing Diesel engines. The new motor has been used successfully in flight for the last year.

Included in last night's cargo were thousands of letters bearing special envelopes which were posted by philatelists from all over the world to be carried on the first flight from Detroit to Chicago.

BRITAIN BARS U.S. APPLES; SEE TARIFF REPRISAL

Winchester, Va., June 26.—(AP)—Virginia apple growers and shippers ready to start early export trade next week, today were informed by the agents of an order in council of the United Kingdom prohibiting importation of certain grades of American apples from July 7 to Nov. 15.

Leading growers said they believe the order in council "was a direct reprisal against the new American tariff measure."

Growers, who estimated the loss would amount to millions of dollars, said never before had British dealers objected to green and otherwise immature fruit being shipped to English markets from Virginia and other eastern states.

SPONSOR BALKS AT WICKERSHAM BOARD EXPENSE

Glass Opposes Further Appropriation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Sheer waste and even illegal expenditure of the fund appropriated by congress for a study of prohibition enforcement was charged against the Wickersham commission in the senate today by Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], fighting a proposal to appropriate another $250,000 to the commission in the pending deficiency bill. Senator Glass sponsored the original appropriation for the commission.

As the bill came from the house it contained no provision for the commission. At Glass' suggestion the senate appropriations committee included a $50,000 allotment, restricting the expenditure to a study of prohibition. Senator W. L. Jones [Rep., Wash.], chairman of the senate committee, offered an amendment on the floor proposing to give the commission the $250,000 requested by President Hoover.

Get Nothing for Money, Says Glass.

Senator Glass, one of the driest of senate drys, said the original $250,000 appropriation was voted for the sole purpose of "a searching inquiry into the abuses of prohibition" promised by President Hoover in his preelection speeches, and asserted that after nearly two years of investigating and expenditure of nearly $165,000 the country is no nearer a solution of the prohibition problem than before.

The commission's energies, he declared, have been devoted to studies of "a host of incidental problems," most of which do not concern the federal government and over which congress has no jurisdiction. He emphasized the fact that the commission's official report last year shows it spent only $8,025.59 of the total expenditures in investigating prohibition.

Analyzes Commission's Actions.

Comparing "the munificent sum of $8,025.59 spent in a searching inquiry into prohibition" with expenditures for other phases of the commission's study of all law enforcement, Glass came upon an item for the study of juvenile delinquency.

"What has congress or the federal government to do with juvenile delinquency, no matter what this commission finds out?" he asked. "That is a matter exclusively for the police jurisdiction of the respective states. And what has this commission to do with a revision of the judicial systems of the several states. It is an inconceivable proposition.

"I point out that the first $250,000 appropriation was made before the President was inaugurated," declared Glass. "It is a question of what congress intended when it made the appropriation, not what the President said in a subsequent address. The fact that Mr. Hoover subsequently said prohibition enforcement was a mere segment of the problem does not alter the fact that congress thought it was THE problem."

Says Problem Is Evaded.

In spite of the evident intention of congress and the belief of the country, congress, Glass said, has "been treated contemptuously" and the commission has "deliberately evaded the prohibition problem."

"Had this commission taken its obligation seriously," he said, "and instead of evading it applied to it the energies applied to other activities, we might have been well on the way to a solution of the prohibition problem."

"I'm not willing," he concluded, "to stand here and vote to waste $250,000 more in addition to the $88,000 on hand. The appropriations committee was not willing. Only the chairman was willing, and he, in his excess zeal, is willing to commit to this miserable commission more than $330,000 from the federal treasury.

Criticizes Expenditures.

"I thought that Mr. Hoover meant what he said in calling prohibition 'a noble experiment,' and that he meant it when he added that 'abuses have grown up,' and that he meant it when he said he would investigate, and for that reason I suggested the original appropriation."

"Why," he continued, brandishing a copy of the commission's report, "they have spent twice as much for railroad and Pullman fare as in investigating prohibition, nearly three times as much for office furniture as for investigating the 'abuses which have grown up,' and twice as much for subsistence of its members here in Washington as on prohibition."

He pointed out that the report showed a payment of $560.63 to Amos W. W. Woodcock, federal district attorney at Baltimore and newly appointed director of prohibition.

Doubts Legality of Payment.

"My impression is," said Glass, "that Mr. Woodcock is a fine gentleman and a loyal and efficient servant of his government. But that expenditure may be a law violation. My understanding is that it is contrary to the United States statutes for a United States attorney to receive any other compensation from the federal treasury."

Senator Jones appealing for the $250,000 appropriation to save the commission asserted its activities were fulfilling the pledge made by President Hoover in his inaugural address to investigate the enforcement of all laws.

The fight over the Wickersham commission appropriation will be resumed tomorrow.

Class Sets Record

The 1930 school year was brought to a close yesterday when 30,645 students were given diplomas at exercises in the various public schools. The number of graduates this year showed a marked increase over 1929. School officials explained the increase by saying the lack of employment allowed many students to finish school who otherwise would have been forced into gainful employment.

At the Haugen Grammar school, 4540 North Hamilton avenue, M. G. Hogge, district superintendent, and Miss Sarah A. Fleming, principal, handed diplomas to 170 pupils. Last night fifteen nationalities were represented when 125 students were graduated from the elementary division of the adult night school of the Dante school, 840 South Des Plaines street. Superintendent William J. Bogan addressed the graduates, commending them on their efforts to gain an education.

MITCHELL TELLS PLANS FOR DRY LAW ACTIVITIES

Will Seek Support of Local Authorities.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Attorney General William D. Mitchell, whose department takes over prohibition enforcement on July 1, today announced his dry reorganization plans. He also stated that there have been and will continue to be "grave deficiencies in enforcement" in those states which do not have state dry laws.

Repeals Balk Enforcement.

"In those states," Attorney General Mitchell said, "which have repealed enforcement statutes and whose authorities do not perform a proper share of the work there have been and will continue to be grave deficiencies in enforcement.

"Where such conditions exist they are a matter of choice with the states."

Mr. Mitchell added that once in control of the prohibition situation, his department would seek to obtain a greater measure of coöperation with the authorities of each state, "or at least those who have enforcement statutes of their own."

Announcement of the Mitchell reorganization plan disclosed that the number of administrative district has been reduced from 27 to 12.

Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator at New York, becomes permit supervisor at Boston under the new orders, and Thomas E. Stone is shifted from Baltimore to Richmond.

Under the reorganization plan a prohibition administrator and a permit supervisor will be maintained at the headquarters of each of the districts.

Will Seek State Coöperation.

Greater activity and effectiveness on the part of state and local government agencies in enforcing liquor laws will be sought, Mr. Mitchell said.

"The department will put forth a special effort to confer with authorities of each state, or at least those who have enforcement statutes of their own, relative to the part the states may play in the performance of this difficult task and to secure that degree of law observance and enforcement which can only come through the united efforts of the state and federal governments supported by the large body of citizens who, whatever their views toward the object of the 18th amendment, believe that the law of the land should be respected and obeyed."

Campbell Spurns Boston.

New York, June 26.—(AP)—Maj. Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator here, who has been ordered transferred to Boston, tonight laconically announced, "I'm not going to Boston."

He telephoned his announcement to the Associated Press. When asked whether he meant the treasury department list was incorrect he said "No."

He refused to say whether he intended to withdraw from the service.

$10,000,000 BOY, NOW GROWNUP, TO WED REPORTER

Engaged to Maryland Newspaper Girl.

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—John Nicholas Brown, fifteen years ago the "millionaire baby" and now the "world's richest bachelor," is to be married in the autumn to Miss Anna Seddon Kinsolving, niece of former Senator Bruce of Maryland and one of the most prominent members of the younger set of Baltimore, it was announced today.

For several years Miss Kinsolving has been employed in Baltimore as a reporter.

Because of the great fortune he inherited, young Mr. Brown has been in the public prints since the time of his birth. He is the son of Mrs. John Nicholas Brown and the late Mr. Brown. The father died nine weeks after the birth of his son, leaving a fortune of about $5,000,000 to him. Ten days later the child's uncle, Harold Brown, died and left him approximately $5,000,000 more. In 1911 the $25,000,000 estate of John Carpenter Brown, his grandfather, was divided between Mrs. William Watts Sherman of New York and young Brown.

At the age of 4 the "$10,000,000 baby," as he was known then, owned three residences and a yacht. His food was prepared by a special cook, the milk he drank came from a cow that fed on a $100,000 clover field, and squabs and chickens were bred specially for him on a farm that the family owned. This child of fortune had fifty pairs of boots at that time, it is recorded, and a valet to take care of them. He also had three maids, two trained nurses, a special physician, and a governess in attendance on him.

Young Brown became of age in 1921 and entered Harvard despite the fact that Moses Brown, his ancestor, had founded Brown university. At Harvard he studied hard and earned a scholarship, which entitled him to travel and study, but without stipend.

REP. STEPHEN PORTER OF PENNSYLVANIA IS DEAD AT AGE OF 52

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 27 [Friday].—(AP)—Representative Stephen G. Porter, chairman of the house foreign affairs committee and internationally known figure in diplomatic circles, died in Allegheny General hospital here today. He was 52 years old.

Mr. Porter came into national prominence while congress and the nation groped for a solution of problems growing out of the world war. After the Versailles treay had failed of approval in the senate, Mr. Porter took a leading part in the conferences out of which grew the plan by which the United States terminated the state of war with Germany and her allies.

Elected to congress in 1910 from the 32d Pennsylvania district, a Republican stronghold, Mr. Porter was returned to Washington at each succeeding election for many years.

He was born at Salem, O., May 18, 1869. He was a widower. A daughter, Mrs. R. S. Barrow of Newport, R. I., survives.

JAPANESE WANT PEACE, PRINCE TELLS ROTARY

But Must Have Adequate Navy, He Adds.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, president of the Japanese house of peers for the past 27 years and nephew of the last Shogun, or military ruler, told the story of Japan's development as a nation at the Rotary International convention at the Chicago Stadium yesterday.

The prince is a short, rotund figure, of benign appearance, and a man of great politeness. While the Rotarians were singing, just before his address, he held the song book with great gravity, although puzzled to know whether the song was a hymn or something else. He read his speech in English, betraying at times a British accent, for he is a great traveler and has been in England and the United States many times.

After telling how Japan had come out of a period of Arcadian peace, which lasted for 200 years, to take her seat with the great powers, and how the new imperial government was founded on the basis of education and public opinion, he discussed the aims and needs of the new Japan, and gave his views on the London treaty. This may be regarded as the official Japanese view.

Says Japan Wants Peace.

"Japan's foremost aspiration today," he said, "is to cultivate the arts of peace and to live at peace with all her neighbors, near or distant, great or small. Her absorbing thought is to put her financial and economic structure upon firmer foundations, curtailing expenditure, promoting efficiency, advancing industry, and seeking markets overseas for her manufactures and products.

"It is self-evident that this end can be attained only by a policy of peace, good will and friendliness in dealing with foreign governments and peoples. As a natural corollary she is in favor of any proposal which looks toward the advancement of international peace, whether it be naval reduction or a political pact such as was signed at Paris two summers ago at the instance of the American and French governments.

"Peace is a continuous process. Like liberty, peace demands 'eternal vigilance' as its price. To the goal of peace there can be no short cut. It is in this light we welcome the naval treaty of London, a result of three months' hard work by the delegates of the five powers concerned. It is a signal step toward the goal the powers have in view.

Commends London Treaty.

"The treaty of London has moved the world to a stage where we may regard international disarmament not as mysterious and far away, but as a goal which further and more assiduous labors will in time bring within human reach. In that sense we consider the London treaty as a distinct success—as a remarkable contribution towards disarmament, towards the peace of the world.

"And as for Japan, the navy she needs is a navy adequate only for defense—to defend her own corner of the Pacific, and not to carry on any offensive campaign in distant waters. We desire peace. We cherish no territorial ambitions. We have no intention to impose any national policy upon any of our neighbors. Only—I want you to remember that we are a people of the sea. The sea is our security. To the sea we look for food and other essential supplies. Upon the sea depends our national existence, our national life.

"NatioN Depends on Navy."

"Our country is but a cluster of small islands, exceedingly small, devoid, as you are aware, of raw materials essential to human existence and to industry. A few week's blockade would starve us all and would bring our factories and shops to a standstill. Such is our misfortune.

"I wonder if you can visualize with what mingled attachment and fear, what mingled hope and awe we look to the sea that surrounds our small islands, some of them but specks of land. And so, in a sense, our navy is our life.

"I hope and trust you will not suspect me of preaching the doctrine of a big navy. I am far from it. I believe, and I know all my countrymen believe, in making the navies as small as possible. I only wish to present before you a picture of Japan's peculiar difficulty in dealing with her naval problem."

Prince Tokugawa was driven from the Stadium to the east plaza of the Union station, where he was received by the Black Horse troop and band and a troop of the Chicago mounted police. The band played the Japanese national anthem, the Black Horse troop, commanded by Capt. Chauncey McCormick, presented sabers, and the mounted police saluted. The prince returned the salute standing in his car. Prince Tokugawa and a party of Rotary leaders were escorted in a parade east on Jackson to Michigan avenue and thence to the Blackstone hotel.

Guest of Rotary Leader.

Prince Tokukawa was the guest of honor at a luncheon at the Blackstone hotel given by Floyd L. Bateman, president of the Rotary club of Chicago, and attended by many prominent non-Rotarians. The speakers were Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Century of Progress exposition, and Allen D. Albert, past president of Rotary International. Mr. Dawes presented a formal invitation through the prince to the Japanese people to participate in the 1933 exposition, asking particularly for an exhibit of Japanese art. The prince thanked him and said he felt certain that his country would be among the exhibitor nations.

The prince left last night for Ottawa to visit his son, who is Japanese minister there. From there he will go to Geneva for international discussions.

Discuss International Service.

A series of international service assemblies were held in the afternoon. The theme of these was that international service begins at home. Those attending the sessions were instructed how to make a study of their own communities for this purpose. One method is to study residents born in other countries, their children, occupations, and special needs. The necessity of weighing problems that arise between nations with broad tolerance and balanced judgment was emphasized. The discussion included plans for obtaining competent speakers for club work.

Arthur H. Sapp of Huntington, Ind., was the only other speaker at the plenary session, at which all the resolutions were voted on. One of the most important resolutions adopted was that creating past service memberships for those who have served five years in Rotary and then retire from their business. The balloting on the presidency and the directors went on during the day. The results will be announced today. Almon E. Roth, Palo Alto, Cal., and Raymond E. Knoeppel, New York, were the nominees for the presidency.

Stresses Golden Rule.

"If Rotary has accomplished anything," said Mr. Sapp, "it is because the dominant note has been character.

"Without the principle of the Golden Rule as a practical rule of conduct Rotary would not have been born, nor would it have had this amazing growth. Men of Rotary are active men and they have compelled Rotary to vitalize those ideals that have meant so much to us."

Ald. Guy Guernsey, past president of Kiwanis International, presented to the Rotary convention a resolution of congratulation and brotherhood adopted by the members of seven organizations.

JOBLESS FEWER THAN BELIEVED, SAYS LAMONT

Census Survey Shows 2 Per Cent Unemployed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Preliminary unemployment figures announced by the census bureau today tend to show that there is much less unemployment in the United States than is generally estimated, in the opinion of Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont.

After inspecting the report, which showed that 574,647 persons in a territory covering about one-fourth of the country, or approximately 2 per cent of the total population of that area, were unemployed on April 1, Secretary Lamont expressed optimism over the situation. As viewed by him statements exaggerating the numbers of persons out of work are unfounded.

"I have inspected returns from the localities from which these figures originate," Mr. Lamont said. "They appear to be a representative sampling of the country.

"The figures applied to the whole population would indicate much less unemployment than was generally estimated; these unemployment figures also include normal unemployment of persons shifting from one job to another. Since the time of this census there has been the usual isncrease in employment in various seasonal occupations."

The census bureau report, containing the first official unemployment statistics announced in Washington, presents statistics covering 756 counties and 75 cities not included in those counties, representating a total population of 29,264,480.

The average of unemployment in cities was 3 per cent, slightly ahead of the average.

The high for a state was Nevada with 4.5 per cent of its population indicated as unemployed.

Another high figure came from a partial count in Chicago, where 4.3 per cent of workless people were found in a census of less than half of the city's total inhabitants.

Pennsylvania was listed as indicating 2 per cent unemployed; New York, 1.9 per cent; Massachusetts, 3 per cent; Michigan, 2.7 per cent, and Illinois, 1.6 per cent. Ohio had 3.3 per cent unemployed.

Retail stores had a larger number of workers employed during April this year than in April last year. The survey covered 44,000 retail establishments.

Eleven hundred and eighty-five retail stores in Indiana have reported to the bureau of the census that they employed 10,261 persons in April this year, compared with 10,038 in April, 1929.

Nevada Gains; Still Last.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—Nevada, reporting a 1930 population of less than 100,000, made certain that she would retain the position of last on the list of states ranked by population.

But the 1930 census of 90,559 inhabitants showed a 16.9 per cent gain from 1920 to 1930, as against a 5.5 per cent decrease for the previous decade.

Ninety-four cities thus far reporting in the 1930 census have populations larger than the state of Nevada, which can still offer more than a square mile of space to each of her citizens.

Arkansas Gains 99,884.

Little Rock, Ark., June 26.—(AP)—A final tabulation of census enumerators today placed the population of Arkansas at 1,852,088, an increase of 99,884 since 1920.

Indiana's Residents to Total 3,227,522; Lake Gain Leads

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., June 26.—[Special.]—Compilation of official census figures indicated tonight that Indiana's present population will reach 3,227,522, an increase of 297,132 persons over ten years ago.

Sixty rural counties showed decreases, all of which were overcome by increases in the thirty-two other counties. The sixty counties having decreases lost 79,575 persons, the other counties gained 376,782.

Lake's Greatest Gain.

Lake county, next door to Chicago, experienced the greatest gain in the ten year span, 98,956, giving it at this time 258,920. Cass county, in north central Indiana, suffered the greatest population loss, 5,860.

Marion county [Indianapolis] continued to lead the other ninety-one counties in the state, with a population of 420,255. Allen county [Fort Wayne] with a gain of 32,529; St. Joseph [South Bend], with 56,624, and Vanderburg [Evansville], with 20,627, were other counties which experienced large increases in population.

TREE CRASHES ON PASSING AUTO AND THREE DIE

Argonne, Wis., June 26.—(AP)—Two Alvin, Wis., men were killed and the seven year old daughter of one was fatally injured when a huge tree crashed through their sedan on Highway 55 near here today. The men's wives were injured seriously.

The dead: Taylor Ingram; Frank Harris, and Ingram's daughter.

The wrecked machine was found by a passing motorist. One of the injured women said the tree toppled just as they passed under it.

U. S. WAR MOTHER BRAVES DEATH TO SEE SON'S GRAVE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 26.—Mrs. Annie Raymond, aged 76, of Riverside, R. I., is the second American gold star mother to undergo a blood transfusion here.

This time the transfusion was not to save a life. Mrs. Raymond came here to visit her son's grave in Romagne cemetery despite the fact she is suffering from cancer of the stomach in an advanced stage. The doctors tried the transfusion at the American hospital in the hope of restoring the woman sufficiently to permit her to return to the United States.

"It is all right now," she told a nurse. "Since I have seen my boy's grave nothing matters. I can die in peace now."

QUARRELS WITH BRIDE: HANGS SELF.

Danville, Ill., June 26.—(AP)—Following a quarrel with his bride of less than a month, George Ritter, 22, owner of an auto top repair shop, hanged himself today.

EXECUTED MAN'S BROTHER, 17, IS HELD AS ROBBER

William Walz, oldest of three brothers, was shot to death in 1925 when he drew a pistol against a policeman. Charles, the second brother, was executed in the electric chair in 1929 for the murder of a policeman in a hold-up.

Yesterday the surviving brother, Edward Walz, 17 years old, made his third appearance this year in Boys' court. Paroled to a farmer after his last offense, Edward had run away and, returning to the city, was caught by police after he had robbed a 13 year old boy of his watch.

"Incorrigible, I'm afraid," Judge Allegretti said to the sullen defendant. "I'll hold you to the grand jury on a robbery charge. It's the only way."

As a bailiff led him away, Walz glowered at the boy he had robbed, William Sime, 4346 Berkeley avenue, and muttered: "I'll get you for this—wait and see."

FLYING BROTHERS IN AIR 371 HOURS; PLANE DRONES ON Ground Crew Explains Family Affair.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

The Hunter brothers, Kenneth and John, were still aloft in their plane over Sky Harbor last night, loafing about the sky waiting on time, trying to stick it out for another three days in order to beat the world's refueling endurance record.

At 3:40 this morning their plane, the City of Chicago, had been 371 hours in the air. It circled the horizon, wabbling a little when tired, unsteady hands loosened on the controls. One wing of the orange and blue Stinson cabin monoplane sagged a bit and the Wright J-6 motor idled in the manner of a plane preparing to land, for the engine has been throttled down to save wear and tear.

Effort to Repair Tank Fails.

A grease smeared note dropped from the endurance plane yesterday brought word that the flyers intend to keep on without attempting to use the empty gas tank in the left wing. The tank sprung a leak Wednesday and drained. This caused the right wing to drop a little with the extra weight of its full tank. Attempts to repair the leaky tank failed.

Just before sunset Walter and Albert Hunter, two red faced, swarthy lads from Sparta, Ill., went aloft in the refueling plane "Big Ben" to deliver a package of chicken sandwiches for their brothers' supper and 100 gallons of gasoline to keep the plane going through the night.

Albert, who is 33 years old and the eldest of the quartet of flying brothers, was confident last night that his younger brothers would "make the grade without a bobble." Waiting to make another refueling contact, he revealed for the first time how the Hunter boys came to fly.

Story of Their Flying.

Back in 1923 the brothers went to St. Louis to buy a motorcycle, changed their minds, pooled their funds and made a down payment on an old Standard biplane. They worked in a coal mine near Sparta and while they paid for the plane they studied aviation in the evenings. John went to St. Louis, received three hours of instruction, soloed, and came home to teach his brothers, one by one, how to fly.

"Some might think it isn't right to say anything about that part about working in the coal mine," said Albert, "but I think it's kind of funny—working down in a coal mine all day and coming out at night to fly in the air." Albert's father died 20 years ago and since then, he says, he has been "kind of looking after things."

"When John and Kenneth started this flight Walter and I dropped our work and came up to help and make it sort of a family affair."

Brother Is Sound Sleeper.

From time to time the plane swoops low over the airport to drop a note. One of these from John Hunter read:

"The toughest time I have is getting "Beans" [Kenneth] awake once he falls asleep. Last night I turned the wheel over to him and went back to sleep. In about a minute the ship nosed over into a spin. It made one and a half turns before Kenneth woke up. I'm going to wear my parachute after this."

Another note signed by Kenneth, read:

"A plug in the reserve fuel tank busted and spilled oil all over the place. It took us all afternoon to get it cleaned up. I sure was disgusted."

Maj. Luke Christopher, chairman of the contest committee of the National Aeronautical association, flew up to visit the flyers yesterday and lower a congratulatory note to them.

"Stick with it," the note said. "You have a good chance to break the world's record.

At 5:50 Sunday morning the Hunter brothers, if they are still up, will pass the present record of 420 hours 21 minutes held by the St. Louis Robin.

Record Holders Plan Flight.

St. Louis, Mo., June 26.—(AP)—Plans for another endurance flight by Forest O'Brine and Dale Jackson, co-holders of the present record, in the event the Hunter brothers set a new record at Chicago, were discussed here today. Officers of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane and Manufacturing company, who promoted the record flight, have telegraphed Curtiss-Wright headquarters at New York for an expression of sentiment on a second flight.

Flying Against Time

The hands point to the number of hours the City of Chicago has been in the air at Sky Harbor and to the 420 hour mark established by the St. Louis Robin which the pilots are out to beat.

SPECTACULAR AIR BATTLE AT WAR SHOW PROMISED

Maj. Gen. Frank R. Parker announced last night that one of the greatest "air battles" of peace times is to be staged at the military show at Soldiers' field tomorrow afternoon.

Two large army observation balloons will be raised to the height of 3,000 feet and the observers in the swinging baskets will send information to the infantry, artillery, and machine gun battalions who will be advancing on an "enemy" city. This will open the air fight, in which "enemy" planes will battle those defending the observation balloons.

Anton J. Cermak and John A. Cervenka, representing Czecho-Slovaks of the city, and more than 4,000 members of Czecho-Slovak organizations were marched in review before Gen. Parker. Tonight Belgians will give exhibition drills in the arena.

The BOND Half-Yearly SALE of Two Trouser Suits Starts today!

We have an old-fashioned idea that these regular half-yearly sales should, above all, make new friends——and retain the business and regard of our old ones. That's why we refuse to artificially "dress up" our price reductions with "special purchases" of "odds and ends" and inferior merchandise. We think style perfection is just as necessary during a sale as during a season. We believe fabric quality is as important to men who buy their clothes in July as to those who buy in April.

And so, only suits from the regular Bond stocks are sold in these half-yearly events. There are light patterns, medium patterns, dark patterns. There are London-Designed sack suits, American-Designed collegiates, and an abundance of smart conservatives. There are sizes for all builds.

You'll like the way we do business during a sale. Our friendly service and dependable merchandise aren't put away in "moth balls"! And you'll like the cash savings, too! They match any we've ever given since our first half-yearly sale, 17 years ago.

Use Bond Ten Payment Budget Service!

We have not added one cent to our regular cash prices. This is a thrifty service!

We exact no interest or carrying charges of any kind. This is a friendly service!

We do away with expensive old-time charge account and credit methods. This is a modern service!

1 KILLED WHEN LIGHTNING HITS DYNAMITE SHIP

1 Saved in Blast on St. Lawrence River.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BROCKVILLE, Ont., June 26.—Forty-one members of the crew of the dynamite laden drill scow, John B. King, are believed to have been driven to death this evening when a lightning bolt struck the craft about four miles west of here in the St. Lawrence river.

A flash of lightning, a deafening roar of explosives and the scow was blown to bits. Members of the crew of 42 were hurled, many of them stunned and bleeding, into the river. Some of them were asleep in their bunks beneath the water line. Eleven men were rescued.

U. S. Coast Guard to Rescue.

When the pall of dense smoke had lifted from the floating sticks, which had comprised a work scow, river observers saw a few men in the water clinging to broken planks and boxes. Capt. S. G. B. Lok of Olcott, N. Y., with Commander S. M. Rasmussen of the Buffalo district coast guard, passing in the U. S. revenue cutter on an inspection trip, helped pick up survivors, who were rushed to a hospital here.

E. A. McNeill, day foreman of the crew, stated the bottom seemed to fall from under the scow and he found himself floating on some planking in the water without knowing precisely what had happened.

G. L. Brown of Ottawa, another survivor, said he was sound asleep with others of the crew when the blast wrecked the ship.

Dove Through Window.

"I dove through a window and clung to some wreckage until picked up," he said.

The scow was engaged in blasting rocks from the Brockville narrows to make a deep channel to the new Prescott great lakes terminal.

Nine of eleven survivors are reported as only slightly hurt. Two others are suffering from cuts and concussion, with possible internal injuries.

The drill scow was the largest in Canada, 140 feet long, with 50 foot beam. She carried twelve drills, machinery, and a large supply of dynamite. The exact amount of explosive on board at the time of the blast has not been determined.

The famous dog, King, recently awarded a United States Humane society medal for saving the life of Jack Wylie, a member of the crew, at the local wharf here last March, also is believed to have been killed.

POPE PIUS BUSY ALL DAY DESPITE DOCTORS' ORDERS

VATICAN CITY, June 26.—(AP)—The pope, undaunted by the advice of consulting physicians and the entreaties of such of his few intimates as are privileged to counsel him, put in a busy day today filled with public and private audiences.

The pope, after giving audiences to pilgrims, said farewell to 47 graduates of the French seminary at Rome who are about to return to their native dioceses. This evening the pontiff will give two important audiences to Vatican administrative officials.

SUSTAIN VETO, THEN PASS NEW VETERANS' BILL

House Hurries Measure Acceptable to Hoover.

income tax or with "willful misconduct" diseases; vetoed bill included these men.

The Johnson bill was introduced at the start today, members being provided with copies when it was called up for action. It came up under a suspension of the rules, requiring a two-thirds vote, prohibiting amendments and limiting debate to 20 minutes on each side.

New Bill Finds Critics.

Supporters of the vetoed bill criticized the bill as failing to provide adequately for all disabled veterans. Friends of the Johnson bill countered by asserting that the new measure would take care of many cases which would not have been covered by the other bill.

Representative J. E. Rankin [Dem., Miss.], who led the fight for the vetoed bill, told the house that he was opposed to the Johnson bill, but that he would ask his colleagues to vote for it in the hope that the senate would amend it.

When the house convened it first adopted a special rule making passage of bills in order under a suspension of the rules until the end of the session. This action was adopted by a vote of 227 to 139. President Hoover's veto message then was read. There was an immediate vote.

There were loud cheers from the Republican side when Speaker Longworth announced the vote upholding the veto.

Following this vote Speaker Longworth recognized Representative Johnson, who offered the necessary motion to suspend the rules and pass the substitute bill. At the conclusion of the forty minutes of debate it was obvious that the bill would be passed almost unanimously, but the Republicans insisted upon a record roll call.

How They Vote in Final Test.

The 182 voting to pass the original bill over the President's veto included 136 Democrats, 45 Republicans, and 1 Farmer-Labor member. The 188 voting to sustain the veto included 185 Republicans and 3 Democrats.

The 45 Republicans voting to override the veto included 14 from Pennsylvania, 5 from Illinois, 5 from Wisconsin, 7 from Iowa, 1 from Indiana, 4 from California, and others from scattering states. The 3 Democrats who voted to sustain the veto were Representatives W. A. Ayres [Kas.], J. J. Cochran [Mo.], and W. M. Whittington [Miss.].

TEXT OF PRESIDENT'S VETO MESSAGE

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(A)—President Hoover's message vetoing the world war veterans' relief bill says:

"I am returning herewith house bill 1,035, without approval.

"One of the most repugnant tasks which can fall to this office is to disapprove of measures intended to benefit our sick or disabled men who have served our country in war. Perhaps as much as any other person, I have full realization of the task, the hardships, and the dangers to which the nation ordered its sons.

"But I want a square deal between veterans, not unjust discriminations between groups, and I do not want wasteful or unnecessary expenditures.

"The country already generously provides for the 280,000 men whose health or earning power is shown to have been impaired by their service in the war, and for 91,000 dependents of the men who suffered or bled. That is, and should be, a first charge upon the nation.

"Is a Radical Departure."

"This measure, except for a small part, adds nothing to the aid of veterans wounded or disabled in the war. It is a radical departure from our full commitment to provide compensation to men for war disability, into the field of pension to men who have incurred disabilities as the incident of civil life since the war, and having no valid relation to their military service.

"It provides that in respect to veterans who between the years 1925 and 1930 shall have become afflicted with any one of the extensive category of diseases and thus disabled, there is established 'presumption' that these diseases originated from their service and that they should be 'compensated' or pensioned upon the basis of men who suffered as the result of actual military service.

"This provision would give war disability benefits to from 75,000 to 100,000 men who were not disabled as the result of war.

"Fictitious Basis."

"I am informed by the director of the veterans' bureau that the medical council of the bureau, consisting of most eminent physicians and surgeons, supported by the whole experience of the bureau, agree conclusively that this legal 'presumption' that affliction from diseases mentioned in the bill between 1925 and 1930 is not a physical possibility and that the presumption constitutes a wholly false and fictitious basis for legislation in veterans' aid. This is confirmed by a recent resolution of so eminent a body as the American Medical association.

"The spectacle of the government practicing subterfuge, in order to say that what did not happen in the war did happen in the war, impairs the integrity of government, reduces the respect for government, and undermines the morale of all the people.

Long Train of Injustices.

"The practical effects of this enactment of fictitious 'presumption' into law are widespread. It creates a long train of injustices and inequalities. The first is to place men of this class who have in fact been disabled in civil life since the war upon the same basis as the men who were wounded in battle and suffered the exposures of the trenches.

"But a second injustice immediately arises. The veterans' bureau estimates that there are somewhere in the neighborhood of 380,000 possible cases of disability incurred in civil life since the war amongst the 4,300,000 living veterans. By this legislation all except somewhere between 75,000 and 100,000 of these men are excluded from this aid by the government except for benefits which they already received by hospitalization, the bonus, and insurance. This bill would, therefore, create a preferred group of one-third among the men who are suffering from disabilities incurred in civil life since the war.

"The further injustice of this bill may become more apparent when it is realized that men who were enrolled in the army who remained but comparatively few days or weeks in service, without ever leaving their home states, will receive aid upon the same basis as those men who passed through the battle of the Argonne. They may come upon the government pay roll for life in case of total disability at rates from $80 to $200 per month.

"Beyond this again, under the provisions of this bill as it affects the existing law, many thousands of men who have in fact incurred their disabilities in civil life may receive larger allowances from the government than the men actually wounded at the front.

"It has been contended that the government has the right to disprove the 'presumption' that any of the long list of diseases enumerated in this bill are not of war origin. But the burden of such proof is placed upon the government and all the experience of the veterans' bureau shows that such rebuttal is ineffective, as the evidence surrounding such questions as a rule cannot be secured or made clear and conclusive.

"Many Not in Need."

"There is no provision in this bill against men of independent means claiming benefits from the government for these disabilities arising in civil life. Surely it is of vital importance to the taxpayers, who directly or indirectly include all veterans themselves, that they shall not be called upon to contribute to such men of independent means.

"Moreover, it is equally important that the amount the nation can find for this burden should not be dissipated over those without need, but should be devoted to those who are in actual need. A declaration of destitution and pauperism from veterans is not necessary. I have never advocated such a declaration. It can, however, easily be provided in any legislation that the secretary of the treasury should return to the veterans' bureau a statement of the men who are exempt from income taxes at some level to be determined by congress.

"Reward for Bad Habits."

"I have already protested to congress in other connections against the inclusion of compensation for disablement due to vicious habits. This bill contemplates compensation for some misconduct disabilities, the whole conception of which must be repugnant to decent family life.

"No government can proceed with intelligence that does not take into account the fiscal effects of its actions. The bill in a wasteful and extravagant manner goes far beyond the financial necessities of the situation. Gen. Hines, after renewed examination, reports that this bill as finally passed will cost $110,000,000 the first year; that this will increase during the life of these veterans. The provision in the bill for review after three years in my view will never relieve us from commitments once entered upon. And this is but a portion of the costs, because the bill as enacted contains indirect liabilities to the government of uncertain but very large possibilities.

"The amendments to section 19 of the world war veterans' act will increase the liabilities of the government by a total of over $40,000,000 and the amendments to section 206 or 209 of the act will increase liabilities to a substantial but uncertain amount.

"Beyond Capacity of Government."

"These costs are beyond the capacity of the government at the present time without increased taxation. They are larger than the veterans have themselves proposed.

"Beyond this, and of vital importance, are the potential obligations created. For instance, if we attempt to set up a system of relief to veterans suffering from disabilities incurred in civil life by establishing the 'presumptions' of this bill, then we cannot with fairness stop with a preferred group of 75,000 to 100,000 men. We shall have to extend step by step over the entire group of 380,000. If we are going to make cash allowances to men disabled from sickness or accident arising in civil life now in government hospitals, together with cash allowances to their families, we must consider the fate of others in the same class who are so unfortunate as not to be able to find an empty bed. There are approximately 13,000 such cases of illness arising from civil life in the federal hospitals at the present time.

Hospital Requirements.

"The medical council of the veterans' bureau states that there are at least 89,000 such cases that will eventually have a right to hospitalization if beds are available.

"In addition to hospitals now building, we should need to expend another $140,000,000 in construction to take care of such further cases, and then be faced with an annual maintenance cost of about $60,000,000, all in addition to what we are providing now. To this gain must be added the cash allowance to the further number of men for whom we make additional beds available to hospitals, and the allowance to their families, which will in itself aggregate a further great annual sum.

"It is disagreeable to point out these potentialities lest it be thought that the government begrudges its veterans. I am not presenting these reasons in any such sense, but in order that congress and the country may be apprised of the real magnitude of the burden imposed and of the injustices arising from this legislation.

"Even if I were able to overlook these burdens, for monetary considerations are indeed secondary, I cannot overlook the discriminations and injustices which this legislation creates, together with its failure to meet the real need that exists today among our veterans in a fundamental and sound manner."

O'DONNELL TO TRIAL MONDAY AS GUN TOTER

Bernard O'Donnell is to be the third well known gangster to be placed on trial in the criminal courts on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Judge E. I. Frankhauser decreed yesterday that O'Donnell must face a jury in his court on Monday, and said he would accept no excuse for delay.

O'Donnell was arrested during the anti-gun toting campaign at the same time that George (Red) Barker and William (Three Fingered Jack) White were taken into custody at the Cafe Barsotti, 4654 West Madison street. O'Donnell was tried several months ago in Judge Harry B. Miller's court, but the jury disagreed.

Assistant State's Attorney Wilkie Ham, who prosecuted and won a conviction of Jack McGurn in Judge Frankhauser's court on Wednesday, will have charge of the prosecution of O'Donnell, Barker, and White. They will be tried separately, it was said. The other gangsters convicted besides McGurn in the last two weeks was Anthony (Red) Kissane, who according to the police, said he was working for Alfred (Jake) Lingle, slain TRIBUNE reporter.

CRIMINAL COURT.

William Boynton, burglary, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Stanley Norris, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Philip Finnegan.

Charles Albin, burglary, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Ossie Hunter, malicious mischief, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; Alex Sadukas, assault with a deadly weapon, sentenced to 1 year in the county jail by Judge John P. McGoorty.

"TOO BUSY TO REPORT ROBBERY."

Appearing at Grand Crossing police station yesterday morning to report that a robber had taken $7 from her the previous night, Mrs. Mary Berg, 7420 Kenwood avenue was chided for not making a complaint more promptly. "Oh, I didn't have time," she replied.

Boy Hunted as Slayer Killed Fighting Posse

Duluth, Minn., June 26.—(A)—A 19 year old youth, who with his father, has been the objective of a man hunt in the wilderness of northern St. Louis county for the last week as a murder suspect, was shot and killed early tonight by a posse that surrounded the two fugitives 21 miles northwest of Gheen. The youth, Charles Heath, of Hibbing, was killed when he failed to obey a command to surrender, and opened fire. The boy's father, Gould Heath, 40, obeyed the command to drop his gun and was arrested.

$748.41 SAVED

on fuel bills in 5 years in this 7-room home

The owners of this 7-room home at 524 North Harvey Avenue, Oak Park, have just returned from a glorious trip to California. Their savings on fuel during the past five years went a long way towards paying for it.

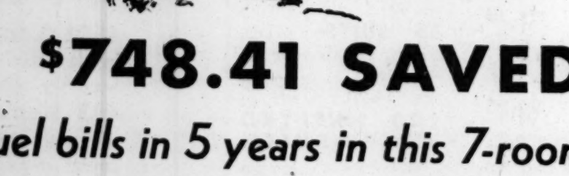
Their coal bills — which include heating water seven months of the twelve — averaged only $119.76 a year . . . totaled $598.79 for five years. The same number of B. T. U.s (heat units) from fuels other than coal would cost $1347.20 in one instance and $2139.00 in the other.

They have saved in five years $748.41 over the cost of fuel B and $1540.21 over the cost of fuel C.

With this saving, they have enjoyed the safest, the evenest, the quietest heat that money can buy. And their automatic control wakes the fire in the morning while they still sleep.

A member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association delivers them clean coal, truthfully graded, honestly weighed. You can have the same advantages if you buy coal from a merchant who proudly displays the Association symbol on his trucks and in his offices. The Association guarantees full weight by every member.

The Chicago Coal Merchants Association presents weather reports every weekday at 12 noon and 7 P. M. over WGN.



(More Heat Units per Dollar)
One dollar's worth of fuel A (Coal) delivers 1,740,012 B.T.U.s (HeatUnits)*

WALTER FISHER REPLIES TO FOES OF TRANSIT BILL

Declares City Ownership Is Impossible Now.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Attorney Walter L. Fisher, who was influential in the drafting of the indeterminate transportation franchise, replied to some of its critics yesterday.

"The Rev. Carl D. Thompson, author of 'How to Conduct a Socialist Campaign,' tells us that the only remedy is municipal ownership," said Mr. Fisher's statement, "although he well knows that this is impossible under the present debt limit, and that there is no prospect of amending the constitution.

"Newton Jenkins, however, is also for municipal ownership, and suggests that we could use the traction fund to make what he calls 'a down payment.' Of course, as a lawyer, he knows quite well that the city cannot buy the street cars on the installment plan.

Fires Blast at Prof. Mott.

"It may be well to make brief reference to a mass of misinformation which is being disseminated by an assistant professor of political science at the University of Chicago, named Rodney L. Mott. He is the most amazing melange of misinformation I have seen in a long time."

Turning to former Mayor Carter H. Harrison, Mr. Fisher said:

"Carter Harrison has endeavored to drag into the discussion his long discredited scheme for a comprehensive subway system. His is a voice from the political tombs. He repeats what can be properly described in his own pet phase as 'the same old ballyhoo' raised by ex-Gov. Dunne and other chronic objectors." Referring to Harrison's subway plan, Mr. Fisher commented: "The whole scheme was a fantastic illusion based on a misunderstanding of the Chicago transportation situation."

Makes Reply to Richberg.

"Donald R. Richberg," the statement continued, "says that the extensions will be built only if they are profitable, because there are no effective provisions requiring their construction.

"That is ridiculous. In addition to the general provisions of the ordinance and of the statutes under which the company may be required to build not only the extensions specified in the ordinance, but also all other extensions that public convenience and necessity may require, there are the explicit provisions under which the common stock holders will be deprived of all dividends in case of default in building the specified extensions, and those dividends will be applied to making good the default without adding a dollar to the capital account of the company."

Bowers Criticizes Ickes.

In another statement, John C. Bowers, president of the Central Uptown Chamber of Commerce, criticized Harold L. Ickes, an opponent of the ordinance. He said:

"I never could understand why it is that whenever any one tries to do anything constructive in Chicago, Mr. Ickes or some one like him pops up and begins to yell thief, liar, scoundrel, and robber. Mr. Ickes now screams 'gray wolves.'"

Other indorsement by civic, labor, and business organizations yesterday brought to 207 the total number of groups which have approved the ordinance.

"That is probably 20 times as many organizations as are opposing the ordinance," said Ald. J. B. McDonough, chairman of the nonpartisan committee. "If the opposition has 10 organizations their names have not appeared in the newspapers."

BUCHANAN LAUDED BY HOOVER IN CEREMONY DEDICATING STATUE

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—President Hoover today dedicated a memorial bronze statue of James Buchanan, fifteenth President of the United States, referring to the Democratic executive as a man who played his part in the nation's history "with a dignity and courage that only now are receiving the recognition they deserve."

A few moments before the President spoke a cousin of the bachelor President, Mrs. Francis H. Denny, unveiled the Buchanan memorial in the presence of a distinguished assembly gathered in Meridian Hill park.

The fund for the memorial was contributed by Mrs. Harriet Lane Johnston, the President's niece and the "first lady of the land" during the administration of Pennsylvania's only chief executive.

President Hoover accepted the monument on behalf of the nation and Roland S. Morris, former ambassador to Japan, reviewed Buchanan's career.

"James Buchanan, whom we honor here today, occupied the presidency at a moment when no human power could have stayed the inexorable advance of a great national conflict," President Hoover said. "His career was rich in achievements, deserving the gratitude of his country."

ICKES CHARGES MONEY TALKS FOR CAR PLAN

Coffers of Transit Lines Opened, He Says.

Harold L. Ickes, opponent of the transportation ordinance, which will be voted on by the public at a referendum on Tuesday, made a new charge yesterday.

"The money bags of the traction barons are being opened," his statement said in part. "No expense is being spared to put over the perpetual ment said. "No expense is being spared to put over the perpetual franchise that was drafted by Walter L. Fisher, counsel in chief of the Insull interests. Money is being poured out like water and the stream will not run dry until the polls close.

"Expensive headquarters are being maintained in various downtown office buildings. Literature by the ton, attractively printed on expensive paper, is being distributed. This literature is being produced in such immense quantities that it is being literally wasted.

Asks Source of Money.

"Postage stamps are being lavishly used. The newspapers are beginning to carry full page advertisements. Money is going out in quantities to certain foreign newspapers and community publications.

"The party organizations are becoming active. Bernard W. Snow, the Thompson-Insull chairman of the Republican county central committee, is already calling in the members of his organization. He is giving them orders to line up for the ordinance and discussing with them the amount of money they will need on election day.

"Committeemen who object to the amount of money Mr. Snow tells them will be available for work at the polls are referred to Daniel J. Schuyler, political and personal attorney of Samuel Insull and the partner of Samuel Ettelson when the latter is not serving Mr. Insull as corporation counsel.

Says Democrats Are Busy.

"It is understood that the Democratic organization is equally busy. Mr. Insull, as is well known, is strictly uni-partisan in politics. He favors any party, even any faction of any party, from which he may expect a return favor. In his fight to put over his perpetual franchise he is no less liberal with the Democrats than he is with the Republicans.

"Three years ago, with the financial aid and moral support of Samuel Insull, William Hale Thompson became mayor of Chicago. Formerly against a perpetual franchise, he is now strong for the Insull perpetual franchise. He is willing that Samuel Insull should have all he wants, even at the price of his own self-stultification. . . .

"Do the people of Chicago want to turn their streets over forever to Mr. Insull? Do they want to give their approval to the sinister and corrupt alliance between business and politics that is represented by Mr. Insull? Do they want to deprive themselves for all time of the right and power to manage their own traction affairs? Do they want to put the seal of approval upon the administration of William Hale Thompson, the Insull mayor?"

Writes Letter to Jarecki.

In a letter to County Judge Jarecki Mr. Ickes write: "I am persuaded that failing to put over the traction ordinance by means of false representations, or by the power of money, it is the purpose of the traction interests to steal the election next Tuesday.

"This would sound more shocking if other elections in the past had not been stolen. To prevent this crime it is necessary that able and disinterested men, armed with full authority of the election commissioners, be placed on guard in the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-seventh, and Forty-second wards."

Mrs. Hoover's Secretary Passes Through Chicago

Miss Helen Greene of Rochester, Minn., recently named social secretary to Mrs. Herbert Hoover, passed through Chicago yesterday en route to Washington, D. C., to assume her duties. She left here on the Capitol Limited of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. She is the daughter of Prof. and Mrs. C. W. Greene of Columbia, Mo., and a graduate of Leland Stanford university.

LA FOLLETTE OUT FOR GOVERNOR AGAINST KOHLER

Madison, Wis., June 26.—[Special.]—Criticizing the administration of Gov. Walter J. Kohler from several angles and contending that the only state business expansion that can be attributed to the governor is the chain system, Philip F. La Follette today announced his candidacy for governor.

In the announcement, the 33 year old son of the late Senator Robert M. La Follette and brother of the present United States senator, laid down a plank against excessive utility rates as well as against the chain system, and charged that conservatives "betrayed" their pledge to strengthen the corrupt practices act before it was written by spending $100,000 in their campaign.

DIES OF FALL DOWNSTAIRS.

Injuries incurred on June 17 when he fell down a flight of stairs at 2315 North Kedzie avenue resulted in the death yesterday in St. Elizabeth's hospital of Emil De Bare, 49, a janitor living at 3144 Lyndale avenue.

SENATORS STILL CONSIDER QUIZ OF GOLDHURST

Bucketeer Interviewed in Prison.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Some of the evidence which may lead members of the senate judiciary committee to demand an investigation of the trial of Harry L. Goldhurst, operator of Kable & Co., the New York bucket shop through which Bishop James Cannon Jr. speculated, became public today.

Goldhurst now is serving a five year sentence in the Atlanta federal penitentiary for using the mails to defraud. Following a denial by the department of justice that a leniency for Goldhurst had been asked or granted, Senator G. W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], chairman of the judiciary committee, asserted he was considering the introduction of a resolution authorizing an inquiry into Goldhurst's case.

An Exchange of Letters.

Among the documents in possession of members of the judiciary committee is an exchange of letters between District Attorney Tuttle and a prominent New York business man and politician whose name is withheld for the present. The exchange occurred early in October, 1929, shortly before Goldhurst was brought to trial and Cannon had sailed unexpectedly for South America.

In one of the letters Mr. Tuttle's correspondent demanded to know if Cannon's influence in Washington was shielding Goldhurst. Tuttle quickly denied the insinuation.

AWAITS SUBPOENA

Atlanta, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]—The inside story of the bucketshop speculations of Bishop James Cannon Jr. will not be told unless Harry L. Goldhurst, now serving a five year sentence in the federal penitentiary here for using the mails to defraud, is called as a witness in some congressional investigation or court proceeding.

Apparently willing to tell what he knows under oath, Goldhurst, who entered the penitentiary last October, declined today to clear the mystery which surrounds his relations with Cannon, the long delay in bringing him to trial, or his wholly unexpected plea of guilty.

"Get me a subpoena and I'll talk," he insisted over and over again during the interview.

It is reported Goldhurst has been encouraged by the policy of a senate committee investigation to determine why the indictment returned against him in April, 1928, was not brought to trial until October, 1929, and how it chanced that Federal District Attorney Tuttle assigned the case for prosecution to an assistant, Miss Etta Marye Failor, a student at the Blackstone college for girls at Blackstone, Va., when Cannon was president of that institution.

Declines to Answer.

"Did any one promise to secure for you a nominal sentence and commutation of that if you pleaded guilty?" Goldhurst was asked.

"What about the plight of my wife and three children—who cares for them?" he asked, ignoring the question.

Briefly, by way of review, it will be recalled that Cannon's relations with Goldhurst were first disclosed when attorneys for the trustee of the few assets held by Goldhurst's bankrupt Kable & Co. appealed unsuccessfully to District Attorney Tuttle for access to the impounded correspondence between Cannon and the bucketeer.

A few days before Goldhurst's trial Cannon sailed for Brazil. Goldhurst subsequently pleaded guilty. He was obviously astounded by the severity of the five year sentence imposed on him, but refused to comment or complain. His friends have insisted that he was persuaded to plead guilty in order to spare Cannon the necessity of taking the stand and was promised, these friends have declared, that he would receive only a nominal sentence and that that would be speedily commuted as a result of political influence in Washington.

More Questions Unanswered.

"Was there a conference between you, Cannon, and others in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York shortly before you went to trial?" Goldhurst was asked today.

"Did Cannon or any one else suggest the policy of political influence in your behalf at Washington?"

"Why in his correspondence with you did Cannon repeatedly refer to 'our venture'?"

"Where did you secure the money to reimburse the witnesses who appeared against you before the grand jury?"

"Did Cannon ever mention E. C. Jameson to you?"

"Has Cannon ever visited or written to you here?"

His Mind Made Up.

But Goldhurst's mind was made up. He would answer no questions now.

"There is a proper place and a proper time for me to talk and this is not the place nor the time," he asserted once, while to the others he merely shook his head or repeated, "get me a subpoena and I'll talk."

MICHIGAN CHERRY QUEEN PRESENTS PIE TO PRESIDENT

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Miss Signe Holmer, recently chosen queen of the Michigan cherry festival to be held next month called at the White House today and personally presented a cherry pie made of Michigan cherries to President Hoover. Later she motored to the residence of the Japanese ambassador and presented another cherry pie to Ambassador and Mrs. Katsuji Debuchi.

The cherry pies baked in Michigan for the White House table were wrecked when her plane landed in Cleveland last night and fresh ones were baked in Cleveland.

Miss Holmer left this afternoon by airplane for New York. Tomorrow another Michigan cherry pie will be presented to Mayor James J. Walker.

Woman Smashes Taxicab Meter with Her Slipper

"It's too much," cried Mrs. James J. Wallace early yesterday when a cab driver, Mike Czerniak, 5420 South Sawyer avenue, presented her husband a bill of $3.65 in front of the Wallace home at 7130 Princeton avenue. Then Mrs. Wallace took off her slipper and pounded the taximeter until it was out of commission. In Grand Crossing court Wallace, an employé of the board of assessors, promised to pay the taxi bill and the damages.

U. S. CHARGES 4 SOURCES OF OLIVER INCOME

Lists Tax Fixing, Race Book and Bets.

County Assessor Gene G. Oliver went on trial before Federal Judge Woodward yesterday on charges of evading income taxes. In his opening statement, Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green said that Oliver had four businesses—one of them fixing taxes—which brought him a gross income of about $500,000 for 1926, 1927, and 1928.

"The evidence will show," said Mr. Green, "that the defendant had four businesses. As a county assessor, he draws a salary of $9,000 a year, which is not taxable. The second business was that of gambling on horse races. The third was keeping a handbook in partnership with another man. The fourth was what is commonly known as fixing taxes, particularly during the quadrennial reassessment."

Defense Denies Tax Fixing.

"Fixing taxes will not enter into this case," said Oliver's attorney, State Senator James J. Barbour. "He didn't fix taxes in the first place, and in the second place he is not being tried for that. The only thing that matters is income."

Senator Barbour said that Oliver acted as a "utility man" for his neighbors, received checks from them with which to make various purchases, pay their taxes, or to be used for political campaigns. He declared that Oliver lost more than he won on the races and that the government was trying to prosecute on bank deposits that were not income.

Bankers Identify Accounts.

Irwin D. Ruge of the First National Bank and Trust company, Chicago Heights, where Oliver lives, identified deposit slips and ledger sheets pertaining to checking accounts maintained separately by Oliver and his wife and to a joint savings account. John W. F. Smith of the Foreman State-National bank identified documents relating to a checking and a savings account which Oliver kept there.

The other government witness called yesterday, Charles W. Arndt, income tax official, identified Oliver's delinquent income tax returns filed Aug. 27, 1929, for the years 1926, 1927, and 1928, on which $1,354 in tax and $143.63 in interest was paid.

Mr. Green charged in his opening statement that Oliver listed his net taxable income, in the delinquent returns, as $43,000, whereas, he said, it should have been about $272,000 for the three years.

Oliver is being tried without a jury, at his own request.

ALCOCK SHIFTS 587 DETECTIVES TO PATROL DUTY

Bureau Squad Cars Cut from 35 to 12.

Thomas McFarland to Burnside, William Crot to Morgan Park, Joseph Ronan to West Chicago, John J. Farrell to Wabash avenue, William Cusack to Des Plaines street, Christopher Hughes to Maxwell street, Thomas Mangan to Stockyards, William Davern to East Chicago avenue, George Barker to Hudson avenue, and Patrick O'Connell to Des Plaines street.

Veterans Sent to Stations.

Among the lieutenants transferred McFarland is one of the veterans. He and Lieut. Crot have had charge of the confidence man detail. Lieut. Farrell had command of the stolen automobile division. Lieut. O'Connell recently fought a gun duel with three extortionists, killing all of them. Lieut. Barker headed the bomb squad. Lieut. Davern was in charge of the pawnshop section.

The sergeants transferred from the detective bureau to outside duty are John Griffith, Harry O'Connell, William Cox, Frank McDonald, Thomas Maloney, Charles Heun, and William Hass. Other sergeants, as well as patrolmen, who were working out of the detective bureau although on the rosters of district stations were returned to their former stations without the necessity of an order by Alcock.

That order, issued by Chief of Detectives John Norton, resulted in the night commander of the bureau, Lieut. Richard Barry, being transferred, as he was carried on the rolls of the Irving Park station. A special order by Alcock was needed to keep Barry at the bureau and Alcock issued it.

Arrest Belcastro, Heitler.

Among the last arrests by the outgoing detectives were those by Lieut. O'Connell, who brought in Mike [De Pike] Heitler, a notorious underworld character, and James Belcastro, said by the police to be head of a bombing syndicate. O'Connell saw them at Madison and Halsted streets and he took them in custody in pursuance to the orders to arrest such characters on sight.

The police of New Orleans wired they had seized three Chicagoans, Bernie Thompson, Herbert Matzen and Morris Smith, who refused to give their street addresses. The three were sentenced to twenty days' imprisonment as "dangerous and suspicious characters."

COUNCIL COMMITTEE REQUESTS $55'000 POUND FOR DOGS

A council subcommittee headed by Ald. Oscar F. Nelson yesterday recommended that a $55,000 city dog pound be erected at 34th street and Lawndale avenue. The council finance committee will act on the recommendation next week.

Under this plan the city would furnish about $45,000 of the estimated cost by setting aside all money over $100,000 collected in dog license fees. The remainder will be given by the Anti-Cruelty society, which has held $10,000 in trust for the purpose for several years, according to Charles S. Peterson, city treasurer and president of the Anti-Cruelty society, who attended the meeting.

A group of 25 women attended the meeting and advocated the building of the pound. Mrs. Charlotte Hunt, president of the Humane Education society, which has been active in the movement for the new pound, said that the city picked up 49,000 dogs in 1928 and the Anti-Cruelty society 29,000.

SET AL CAPONE'S MIAMI PERJURY TRIAL FOR JULY 8

Miami, Fla., June 26.—(AP)—July 8 was set today as the date for the trial of "Scarface" Al Capone in Criminal court here on four charges of perjury.

The charges were preferred against the gang leader ten days ago by County Solicitor George McCaskill in connection with a warrant for false arrest which Capone had issued against S. D. McCreary, public safety director of Miami.

The warrant was dismissed when Capone declined to testify under oath that his allegations against McCreary were true.

GIRL, 7, DIES OF AUTO INJURIES; COUNTY TOLL 434

Seven year old Dorothy Emery, 5754 Wentworth avenue, died yesterday at St. Bernard's hospital from injuries received on Wednesday night when struck by an automobile near her home. Thomas Keegan, 240 West 59th place, the driver, is being held by the Englewood police.

This death and two others raised Cook county's motor toll for the year to 434. The victims:

Charles Duffield, 45 years old, 307 Lockwood avenue. Died at the County hospital from injuries incurred on Tuesday when struck by an automobile driven by Joseph Gackem, 3501 South Honore street. The accident occurred at Polk and State streets.

Robert Sheppard, 17 years old, colored, of 4846 South Wabash avenue. Died at the County hospital of injuries received in a collision of two automobiles on June 21.

A man and a woman, both Chicago tailors, were seriously hurt last night in a head-on collision on a rain drenched highway four miles west of Waukegan. M. G. Kaprielian, 45 years old, 2106 North Spaulding avenue, suffered a skull fracture and his companion, Mrs. Charles J. Pettibone, 45 years old, 854 Eastwood avenue, incurred a skull fracture, fractured nose and internal injuries. They were taken to the St. Theresa hospital, Waukegan.

Mrs. Jennie Horton, 29 years old, a housewife of Zion, Ill., suffered a skull fracture and her sister, Miss Grace Carlson, also of Zion, escaped with a wrenched knee when a motorist, Joseph Crosby, 18 years old, his vision blinded by the lights of another car, struck both women in Zion. Mrs. Horton was taken to the St. Therese hospital and Crosby was held.

Blame Electricity in Gas Line for Fire at Airport

An investigation disclosed that the fire which destroyed 36 airplanes in the Universal Air lines and Gray Goose hangars at the Municipal airport early Wednesday, causing damage of approximately $1,000,000, was started by electricity generated by gasoline running through a hose. William Bliss, operations manager of the Universal lines, announced yesterday.

ASSAIL NEW LAW THAT ENDS FREE BORDER PASSAGE

See Threat to Friendly Canadian Relations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—A sweeping new law which would make criminals of thousands of American citizens would be put on the federal statute books under the proposed border patrol unification bill, opponents of the measure charged as it came up in the house today.

Representative John J. O'Connor (Dem., N. Y.) declared that one provision of the bill would make it unlawful for an American citizen to set foot across the border without first reporting at a point of entry, perhaps 50 miles away. Such a law, he asserted, would work "untold hardships" upon persons crossing the line and "put an end to peaceful relations which have prevailed along the Canadian border for more than a century."

Wickersham Proposal.

The bill, a Wickersham commission proposal to tighten up dry law enforcement, was made the unfinished business of the house, for action probably Saturday.

In addition to providing for consolidation of the immigration and customs forces on the Canadian and Mexican borders, the bill would increase the number of armed and uniformed patrolmen from 1,500 to 2,500 and would add 150 new entry stations on the Canadian border.

Says It Makes Criminals.

"The sole purpose of this bill is to try to stop liquor smuggling," said Representative O'Connor. "The treasury department has estimated that only three or four per cent of the liquor consumed in this country comes from abroad. So you are going to make hundreds of thousands of new criminals in order to catch just a little bit more liquor."

Other members attacking the bill included Representative Robert H. Clancy [Rep., Mich.], who said not only would the bill "close the borders" but will add another four million dollars annual government expenditure in "a vain effort to enforce prohibition."

CHIANG ORDERS MASS ATTACK ON NORTHERN FOES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 26.—Reports from Peiping and Nanking tonight agree that the most desperate and probably the decisive battle for the immediate mastery of China is being fought along the Haichow-Tungkwan railroad in the vicinity of Kaifeng in eastern Honan, where Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Nationalist government, has thrown all available forces against the northern coalition forces in an effort to defeat Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang. The rebels greatly outnumber the government troops.

JURY ACQUITS PAIR OF 'SMOKE' LIQUOR CHARGE IN NEW YORK

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Morris and Anna Skigin, proprietors of a paint supply store at 128 Monroe street, and co-defendants in the first of the "smoke" liquor indictments returned recently as a result of the thirty or more deaths on the east side from wood alcohol, were acquitted today by a federal jury of the charge of violating the national prohibition laws.

This case, the first of three hastily returned indictments in which six persons were charged with selling "denatured alcohol containing more than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol," was in the nature of a test of the government's ability to convict establishments selling the ingredients of "smoke," the east side's fatal beverage.

Thirty-five additional indictments have been promised by the government, but the failure of today's case is expected to cut this number down to those in which the furnishing of set-ups, namely, a glass of water, figured.

The defense offered by the Skigins consisted mainly in showing that the cans of denatured alcohol were plainly labeled poison and that the defendants could not know for what purpose purchasers wanted the alcohol.

Dinty Moore's restaurant in West 46th street was ordered padlocked for four months today by Federal Judge John C. Knox for violations of the prohibition law.

The restaurant occupies the first and second floors of the building which furnishes Moore and his family with a home on the third floor.

Judge Knox granted the defendants a "reasonable time" to build a new entrance from the street to the home.

LOOKING THE TAX AMENDMENT OVER.

The tax amendment which has just been approved by the legislature provides that if an income tax is imposed in Illinois the state treasury may retain only 15 per cent of the tax collections under this head from any county unless a two-thirds majority in each house votes to take a larger share for state purposes.

This provision is advertised as a safeguard for Cook county taxpayers in recognition of their under-representation in the legislature. That under-representation is menacing to Chicago when any tax proposal is before the legislature, but it is peculiarly menacing in income tax matters because the income tax does not bite downstate. Nine-tenths of the federal income taxes collected in Illinois are paid in the Chicago region. That does not mean that nine-tenths of the wealth of the state is in the Chicago region, but only that the kind of wealth reached by the income tax is concentrated here in a high degree.

The 15 per cent rule seems to promise that Chicago's share of the costs of running the state government, already disproportionately high, will be made still higher. The largest single source of the state's income now is the general property tax, but only a little more than 6 cents of each dollar in general property taxes paid by Chicagoans finds its way into the state treasury. Under the tax amendment this proportion may be increased 250 per cent so far as income taxes are concerned before Chicago's veto becomes effective.

Such an increase may well mean that Cook county alone will very nearly support the state government. The likelihood is increased when it is remembered that Chicago has no veto at all with respect to income tax rates. The state legislature, by a simple majority vote, may fix rates half as high or twice as high as those of the federal government, and Chicago wage earners and salary earners will have to pay. The rate is a matter of little consequence downstate because only a negligible number of downstaters will pay any income tax, whatever the rate may be. It is a matter of utmost consequence to Chicagoans and they have only a minority voice in the determination.

The downstate majority can, if it wishes to do so, fix the rates at a point which will yield to the state treasury, from its 15 per cent, all the money needed to run all the state institutions. Probably that rate would be so high that the remaining 85 per cent would be far more than enough for the needs of the local governments in Cook county. The wasters in our local governments could ask for nothing sweeter. They could spend beyond their wildest dreams and still have no worries about where the money to pay the bills is to come from.

The tax amendment will certainly mean that Cook county will contribute more heavily than it has, and far more heavily than it should, to the costs of the state government. On the other hand, it is true that the costs of the state government at present are not particularly large, as such matters go. The whole budget of the state, including its expenses for roads, is less than the budget of the Chicago schools. There is reason to fear, however, that, as Chicago will pay the bills, the legislature will find it possible to discover new and interesting expenses to be paid from the state treasury. Just as Chicago is now paying disproportionately for roads downstate, Chicago in future may be made to pay for the support of schools and the building of waterworks and sewage disposal plants for communities downstate.

Perhaps the downstate majority in the Illinois legislature will resist the temptation to milk the Chicago taxpayer, but the fact that downstate has refused to reapportion the state is, in itself, an evidence of downstate's inability to resist a similar temptation.

NEWSPAPER TRAIL-BREAKERS.

The arrival in Chicago of THE TRIBUNE'S new cargo ship, the Thorold, offers the editorial department of this newspaper an opportunity to pin a medal on the men and women of our business department. We have some hesitation in doing so. We will be charged with tooting our own horn, but that does not disturb us; what really gives us pause is the fear that the ladies and gentlemen concerned will advise us that they know how good they are and nothing which we can say can add anything to their accomplishment. And they may be right.

The chronicle need not go farther back than 1912. In that year THE TRIBUNE, through its subsidiary, the Ontario Paper company, built the first paper mill of the modern type. Newsprint mills designed since than have borrowed heavily from the engineering principles incorporated for the first time in that mill.

Equally important advances were made by THE TRIBUNE in newspaper printing. The modern type of press was designed for THE TRIBUNE and first installed in THE TRIBUNE pressroom. The layout of the pressroom, first employed in THE TRIBUNE plant, is now accepted as the standard. Indeed, the entire mechanical plant of this newspaper has been studied and copied by other newspapers all over the world.

THE TRIBUNE introduced rotogravure in color. Having done that, we built our own ink factory and produced a rotogravure ink which was not inflammable.

The Tribune Tower competition gave the world one of its most beautiful buildings and gave a vast impetus to the betterment of architectural design in this country.

To this record must now be added the credit for designing a new type of ship, adapted to the peculiar requirements of the printing industry. Ship design is one of the oldest of the industrial arts, but never before has a ship been built which will load paper as economically as will the Thorold, without sacrificing its value as a carrier of other commodities.

These are the high spots of achievement by THE TRIBUNE'S business management in less than twenty years. THE TRIBUNE'S success as a business enterprise is not an accident. It is the product of imagination, a willingness to risk innovations if they promise well, and a further willingness to make large capital outlays when warranted. The editorial department takes this opportunity to salute the business management for its imagination, its courage and its achievements.

TUESDAY'S CHOICE.

On Tuesday the voters of Chicago will accept or reject a traction settlement ordinance. They rejected a proposed settlement in 1918. Seven years elapsed before another was submitted in 1925, and that, too, was rejected. Five years went by before another ordinance was ready.

If this ordinance is defeated, how long will it take to prepare another? Certainly several years. Chicago's World's Fair will come and go without a single mile of new track, and with only the present inadequate and antiquated transportation system to accommodate the crowds. There will be no subways. Whatever possibilities the fair affords for a revival of the building industry are likely to be defeated by the inadequacy of the city's transportation facilities. The real estate market, accordingly, will probably remain stagnant and there will be little relief for unemployment in the building industry.

Those are considerations which the opponents of the ordinance studiously avoid in their argument.

The obstructionists opposed the enabling legislation upon which the present ordinance was founded. Presumably, if they are successful in defeating it on Tuesday, they will demand new laws at Springfield. That process, as all Chicagoans know to their sorrow, is generally a slow one. It is hardly possible that the legislature which spent long weeks in 1929 in devising traction legislation for Chicago will reopen the subject as soon as the session of 1931. After '31 the next session of the legislature will be in '33. If enabling legislation is enacted in '33 an ordinance based upon it might be submitted in 1934. That seems to be the earliest practicable date.

In face of that probability, the questions which must arise in the minds of voters are these: Will the delay be worth what it will cost in an era of unemployment? Is the next ordinance likely to be so much better than this one that Chicago can afford to delay the program of construction for another four or five years? Will the next ordinance promise so much more that an intervening period of real estate stagnation, crowded cars, and congested streets will be worth the cost?

To these questions we are certain the answer is no. The present ordinance is basically sound. It offers the people of Chicago home rule and an opportunity to get good transportation at a fair price. It assures Chicago up to date transportation not only in the immediate future but in the remoter future as well, for it provides a means or getting rid of equipment which is obsolete though still usable.

A vote for the ordinance is a vote for the healthy growth of Chicago. It is a vote for economical operation, for subways, for long hours saved in getting to and from work. It is a vote for the success of the World's Fair. Any citizen who conscientiously and without prejudice weighs the advantages and disadvantages of accepting the ordinance against the advantages and disadvantages of rejecting it must conclude, we believe, to vote yes on Tuesday.

Editorial of the Day

THE LARGE CITY'S FUTURE.

[Boston Herald.]

Greater Boston has become what Warren S. Thompson, a sociologist who made a long study of population problems, terms "a poly-nucleated city." Writing in the American Mercury for July, Mr. Thompson discusses the future of the large city—largely to its disadvantage. He believes that the imaginary pictures "of the future city with hundred story buildings and two or more levels of streets, moving sidewalks and several levels of tracks for trolleys and trains" will never materialize. Instead he predicts an increasing decentralization of population among the smaller cities or among the far flung suburbs of a metropolis.

The premise for his conclusions is the difference between the steam age, from which we are just emerging, and the electric age, which we are entering. The efficient use of steam power demanded the closest possible concentration of activity. The larger the factory, the more efficient it was, as greater use per unit could be made of its power plant. But the development of electrical power, which can be utilized efficiently many miles from its place of origin, has made possible the decentralization of factories and distributing centers so that they can take advantage of lower real estate values and of proximity to markets and to sources of raw materials. Equally important is the recent transformation of means of communication—the telephone, the automobile and the truck. They not only reduce transportation distances, but even in some instances place a premium on factory sites in small cities or suburbs, where traffic congestion is at a minimum.

This is the basis, Mr. Thompson argues, for "the poly-nucleated city"—the city of many centers and of many industries. The cities will continue to increase, as scientific farming is constantly reducing the need of labor in the rural districts, but the increase will be more in area than in population. They will become, in short, nests of little cities, each with its industrial, retail and recreational centers and its districts of many small homes. The present trend in metropolitan Boston seems to confirm Mr. Thompson's predictions.

FOND FATHER'S FEARS.

They were discussing the education of their children. "What your boy going to be when he finishes at Yale?" asked one.

"An octogenarian, I fear," the other replied.—The Pathfinder.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

A MONUMENT TO A BACHELOR—

Yessir, they dedicated one yesterday. That's going to make the girls mad. They think a man who persisted in remaining a bachelor ought to be buried on the sands by the sea where the waves roll in and blot out all signs of a grave. They say a bachelor is a mean, hateful old thing, and too selfish for words, and he doesn't deserve any kind words or medals or monuments or anything. So the dedication of the monument to a bachelor yesterday, and the President of the United States himself making the principal address, was something unusual. It may have a bad effect; lots of boys will get the idea they ought to grow up and be bachelors and sew on their own buttons and learn to fry eggs and make coffee and get the rest of their food in tin cans from the grocery store.

But this bachelor—his name was James Buchanan—is also noted for being something else besides a bachelor. He was also a President of the United States. Some people say he was the reason we had a civil war. That's an unsettled question, but there's no doubt that he was a greater bachelor than he was a President. But if he hadn't been a bachelor he might never have become President. People would have said: "Well, Mr. Buchanan is a grand man, but, oh goodness, have you seen the horrible hats his wife wears? Think of her a bein' in tha White House!" And then Mr. Buchanan wouldn't have been President and we'd never have had a civil war and today people who were born in Jugo-Slavia and Czecho-Slovakia and the East Side of New York wouldn't have to climb up on the tables and cheer when the jazz band plays "Dixie."

AND NO ONE PUT A VETO ON THAT

I remember the dawn of that cold, rainy day,
Our first time over the top,
How for hours we crouched in the mud of the trench
With our hearts going flippity flop.
And at last the word came, and over we went
Where the bullets whistled and spat,
And shrapnel screamed round like demons from Hell,
And no one put a veto on that.

I remember a night in a thick marshy wood
When the Boche gave a chlorine gas ball;
We couldn't fight back, we were held in reserve,
Had to stay there and take it, that's all.
And thicker and thicker the stinking fumes grew,
While we lay there sprawling out flat,
Choking and cursing, but holding our ground,
And no one put a veto on that.

I remember the night when with pick and with spade
We scooped shallow graves for our dead;
No songs could be sung—there were snipers around,
Not even a prayer could be said.
We had to work fast, for with coming of day
The guns would start in to chat;
Without coffins or blankets we laid them away—
And no one put a veto on that.

S'NUTHIN'! What's nuthin'? Lissen! The daily press informs us that Mike Devlin, Rotary delegate from Ireland, sat up until one o'clock t'other night waiting to hear news of the Southern Cross flying across the Atlantic. It seems that Capt. Saul, the navigator of the airplane, is Mr. Devlin's landlord in Ireland. And we say it's nuthin' because we know lots of people who would gladly sit up until one o'clock if they knew their landlord was flying the stormy Atlantic. And if he had the janitor with him they'd sit up all night. And gladly!

NEW YORK turned out again and made whoopee and threw telephone books and confetti out of the windows. This time it was the arrival of the Southern Cross flyers. Wonder what they do in New York on the days when they're not greeting somebody?

A FIRE CHIEF in Alsedsha, Lithuania, anxious to show off a new fire hose he had just bought, set fire to a big barn on the outskirts of the town and then summoned the fire department. The flames spread from the barn and the whole town burned down. It is said some of the former residents of Alsedsha do not think the new fire hose is as good as it might be.

ST. LOUIS is going to have a celebration over the announcement that Mrs. Lindbergh in signing the birth certificate for the baby said her home was in St. Louis. Well, Lindy flew over the place on his way east to start on his memorable voyage and he's visited there once or twice since then, but little things like that are not going to stop the celebration in St. Louis. Lindy is their home town boy.

THE SPEAKEASY.

The honeysuckle by my door
Has such strange visitors of late;
If this keeps up I'll have to ask
The sheriff to investigate.

From break of day till set of sun
There's such a constant rabble rout
Of bumble bees and humming birds
Comes sneaking in and reeling out.

I'm sure there's something queer afoot
That honest folks can't tolerate—
And if they don't slip me the pass
I'll cite them to the magistrate!

NEW NAMES ON OLD ILLS.

MRS. W. B. B. writes: Will you please write something on treatment for weeping eczema and also suggest diet for the patient? Is milk taboo?

REPLY.

The term eczema bids fair to go into the discard along with the terms catarrh and ptomaine poisoning—not because it or either of them has gone out of existence but because new and better names have been found. The old eczema was a group of skin diseases due to a variety of causes. Catarrh has become sinusitis, and ptomaine poisoning is split into various kinds of food poisoning.

Weeping eczema is a form of chronic dermatitis or inflammation of the skin which is characterized by oozing. In most cases, when the affected person is an adult, the chronic oozing dermatitis is the result of poisoning of the skin by something which touches it. To cure it, the search should be, not for a salve to apply, but for a cause to remove. Poisoning of the skin by reason of the exposures of occupations is the most frequent cause. The severest form of it is poison ivy; in fact, this form of eczema is so irritating and unpleasant that we do not think of it as weeping eczema at all. And yet, its only departure from the requirements of the eczema picture is its severity. Various plants and many woods are like poison ivy in that they can produce dermatitis—milder, however, than that due to rhus. Exposure to soap, to water, to various articles used in the home, the office, and on the farm can cause it. It may be caused by chemicals used to dye gloves and clothing generally.

Obviously, not much can be expected from changing the food if the eczema be due to occupation. Experimenting with eczema salves is just as profitable, and no more so. However, some cases in adults are caused by foods. It is the children who suffer especially from food eczemas. Tetter or cradlecap in milk fed babies is a good illustration. Among them milk is frequently at fault. If a case is caused by milk, and the affected person is an adult, milk should be dropped from the diet. It may be necessary to drop all foods made with milk, or made from milk. If the affected person is a young baby the problem is more difficult. In some cases it is advisable to continue using milk until the baby passes into the second year, wrestling with the latter as well as one can. In others, milk must be dropped and an effort made to find a substitute.

As you see, decision as to change in diet must wait the answer to other questions.

TRAIN HER OUT OF FEAR.

A. G. writes:

1. I am a young mother with a daughter 18 months old. When I was pregnant I was frightened by some dogs. Presumably, due to this, my daughter was born prematurely at 7 months. Now that she is able to understand a little she is very scary of dogs, any size. She always cries when she hears even a soft bark. Does this mean she is fearful because of the shock I received?

2. How can I make her overcome this?

3. I can't give her more than 16 or 18 ounces of milk a day. As for solid food, she will not take it. How she keeps her color, weight, and vitality is beyond me. How can she be made to eat more?

REPLY.

1. It does not. She has been frightened by a dog at some time. In addition, she inherits timidity from one or both parents.

2. You can train her out of this fear. Patiently prove to her that a dog will not hurt her. Then train her to pet one.

3. A child 18 months old must have a mixed diet, including solid food. Train her to eat cereal, bread, meat, egg, vegetable and fruit. This is a matter of patience and firmness. Make use of rewards. A pint of milk daily is enough for her. Unless she gets fruits and vegetables her teeth will suffer.

VACATION MONEY.

Chicago, June 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been working for a firm for one year on a monthly salary basis paid weekly with no pay for overtime, and when vacation time came around they laid me off without paying me for my week's vacation which I had coming. Can they do this or is it compulsory for them to pay me? F. C. M.

While we know of no Illinois authorities on the point, we incline to the opinion that where, by express agreement or uniform custom in the office, the employé will be entitled to a vacation, the employer cannot escape his obligation by discharging the employé without cause.

READ YOUR POLICY.

Zion, Ill., June 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—An insured building burned down several months ago. The agent told us we would receive the full amount but the company should have 60 days' time. Now he says as it was a cottage and not occupied all the time the full amount cannot be paid. Should they not have told us this when the insurance was made out and the payments were made, as we understood that made no difference? G. P.

If the clause was contained in the policy and you did not read it, you have no basis for objection.

LEASE CALLS FOR DRAIN.

Chicago, June 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Our lease issued by the receiver of the property calls for a drain to our refrigerator; to have been installed before October, 1929.

We have notified the receiver that it has as yet not been installed.

The receiver now writes us and says that if we pay half the cost of installing the drain they will pay the other half.

Is this grounds for breaking the lease? J. M. G.

No. Suggest that you give notice that if the wording of the lease is not complied with you will hire the work done and sue for the cost.

WASHINGTON.—President Johnson has issued his proclamation annulling trade restrictions west of the Mississippi river, except in such contraband articles as arms, ammunition, all articles from which ammunition is made, uniform and gray cloth.

CAIRO.—The steamer John Kilgour has arrived with New Orleans dates to the 21st. Mobile was recently visited by a severe storm during which lightning struck a tree in the camp of the 26th Indiana volunteers, Company B, Capt. H. H. Lee, killing Private W. Edwards and severely shocking First Sergeant W. H. McDonald and Privates Thomas Neugent, A. B. Marcus, S. Bailey, George Oliver, Warren Todd, George Montgomery and G. H. Wilcox.

CHICAGO.—The Board of Trade battery has returned to Chicago covered with honor and glory. They arrived at a late hour in the night by the Michigan Central railroad from Indianapolis. A large delegation from the Board of Trade and hundreds of friends welcomed them. Chicago has always been proud of this battery. They fought at Stone river, Elk river, Chickamauga, Farmington, Dallas, Noon Day creek, Kenesaw mountain, Atlanta, Nashville, Salem, and Macon.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The Democratic state convention nominated Samuel Alschuler of Aurora for governor, then adjourned until tomorrow to nominate the rest of the ticket. There was a stampede to Alschuler on the second ballot. Cook county stuck by Adam Ortseifen to the last. The result was a defeat for the Cook county machine. The platform is long and reaffirms the Chicago national free silver platform of 1896, except that it makes no mention of "16 to 1." It denounces President McKinley, imperialism, the currency bill, the trusts and government by injunction.

LONDON.—Report of the partial success of the international forces at Tientsin is counterbalanced by the news that the situation to the south in the vicinity of Canton is decidedly unsatisfactory.

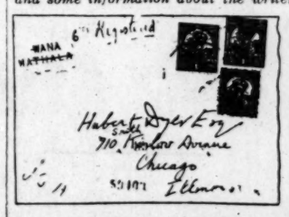
SAN FRANCISCO.—Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, bitter opponent of the league of nations, was refused a seat in the Democratic national convention by the national committee. The vote was 34 to 12. Senator Reed charged "steam roller tactics" and declared he will carry his fight to the credentials committee and to the floor of the convention if necessary.

SAN FRANCISCO.—He's here again with bells on; same old voice, same old smile—same old Bryan. This morning he had the Demon Rum, now defunct, by the tail, swinging it around and threatening it with a second death in the form of a dry plank in the Democratic platform.

INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed and some information about the writer of the letter.



Letter received by Hubert J. Dyer, 710 South Karlov avenue, Chicago:

"The enclosed envelope came to hand this week. The sender is my cousin, Capt. C. J. Dyer, of the 3d battalion, Queen Mary's Own-Baluch regiment, stationed at Wana camp, Waziristan, on the frontier between Afghanistan and India," Mr. Dyer writes. "Wana forms the end of the chain of outposts extending from Quetta to Waziristan, and can be supported either from India by the Gomal pass or from Quetta by the Zhob valley.

"Capt. Dyer writes:

"'Life here is particularly interesting just now, as the trouble with Gandhi, together with that of the mountain tribes among the "hills," compels us to keep our eyes very open. We are surrounded by a five foot wall over which we are sniped at by the fuzzies nightly. We caught two, killed one, and captured another after they had been sniping for three successive nights. We learn that lots of trouble is taking place at Peshawar, to our northeast.'"

GOLFING AT GARFIELD PARK.

Chicago, June 25.—On June 25 the Voice of the People carried a letter signed by A. T. K. in reference to conditions existing in the Garfield park golf course, stating certain attendants collect an extra fee by giving special privileges to the golfers.

For some time I have been making a personal investigation of the various parks and playgrounds, with the idea of giving the public better service, and in order to eliminate just such conditions, on May 29, 1930, a resolution was passed and enforced from June 7, 1930, abolishing the old system of "time registration."

The men in charge of the golf courses are civil service employés and are paid a fairly good wage for the amount of work involved.

The West Chicago park commissioners will not tolerate any such condition in the golf courses or any other place in the system, and as soon as the guilty persons are known to us they will be immediately suspended. The taxpayers and the public are entitled to the courtesy of all park employés. I am sure that this condition will be remedied.

W. R. JAMES,
President, West Chicago park commissioners.

ROUGH WORK IN INDIANA HARBOR.

Indiana Harbor, Ind., June 21.—I have been a resident of Indiana Harbor for the last 15 years, employed by the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company. While coming from work on the night of June 16 a sedan automobile drove up to the curb at Lincoln street and the Pennsylvania railroad crossing and three plain clothes detectives, under the influence of liquor, with drawn revolvers, ordered me into the car, searching and abusing me something terrible.

They drove me to the police station, located at Guthry and Elm streets. The desk sergeant at the police station, seeing the condition these detectives were in, immediately ordered me out of the police station without any questioning. The detectives followed me out into the street and drove the car onto the sidewalk where I walked, threatening in abusive words, then drove away.

I am a law abiding citizen and am proud of my city, but conduct of this kind by our police should be stopped, especially molesting citizens of our fair city of Indiana Harbor, Ind.

LUDWIK RUSINSKI.

REQUESTING LOWER RENTS.

Chicago, June 25.—Practically every commodity has taken a downward slump in prices, but not rents. It is indeed amusing to read some of the so-called indices, published by some of the financial papers, under the caption, "Cost of Living Lower," etc. They lay great stress on a decline of a few cents in the price of pork and beans or some other minor item, yet nary a word about the exorbitant rents we renters are being gouged for. There are many empty apartments in Chicago and it does seem that it is time for the landlords to come down on rents.

RENTER.

A HELPFUL POLICEMAN.

Chicago, June 24.—As a visitor in a great city and knowing of it only by reputation in the east, I was agreeably surprised this noon to see one of the mounted traffic policemen aiding a stalled motorist on Clark street, opposite the Sherman hotel.

The officer was evidently a mechanic and as I passed by had the gasoline feed pipe disconnected and was looking through it with his mouth. His hands were covered with grime, grease and oil as I stood by for ten or fifteen minutes and never heard the officer utter a sound.

This was a strange incident to be confronted with, as I have always been led to believe that Chicago cops were tough, quick with a gun, and never hesitated to tell one to go to hell. You know what I mean.

If the officer in question is an example of the type of policeman in Chicago they are an asset to the city, and anything to be proud of rather than ashamed of.

ROTARIAN.

POLICE MORALE.

Chicago, June 23.—If Commissioner Alcock puts the police force of Chicago under military discipline the citizens will certainly owe him a debt of gratitude. The other day on North Clark I saw a policeman [1] standing, leaning in a doorway; [2] both hands in his pockets; [3] chewing and expectorating with great gusto every once in a while.

Being an Irishman, I just thought of what an ex-sergeant of the old Irish constabulary, or of the Canadian northwest police, would say on making such a discovery like that. He'd probably be confined to a psychopathic ward for the remainder of his life.

Where sloppiness of that kind exists there is evidently not much efficiency.

POLICE DUTIES.

Chicago, June 24.—Why don't the policemen go after the crooks of Chicago instead of acting tough to boys who play ball in the street? Last night I saw the flivver squad kill the better part of an hour chasing boys off streets.

TRAINING CAMPS.

Chicago, June 15.—F. W. C. in today's TRIBUNE deplores the fact that many workers cannot afford a month's absence from regular employment to attend C. M. T. camps to take advantage of the training offered by the government. May I recommend enlistment in the National Guard?

We offer two weeks' field training plus forty-eight drills per year, on a par with anything offered at the training camps, and membership in the nation's first line of defense, consisting of the regular army and the National Guard. Our activities are little known as we have no press agent.

Visit any National Guard unit and talk it over with the members. Our regiment goes into field training at Camp Grant on Aug. 2.

RE SECRECY RS CRITICS LONDON PACT

r Shows That League y-Navy Was Talked.

ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
shington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.] statement on the authority t Lee Jahncke, assistant sec- of the navy, that a mysterious for the creation of a league ions army and navy figured in London naval conference stirred omments of the navy limitation today to renewed demands for ocuments President Hoover re- to submit to the senate.

e question raised by the treaty tion was whether or not the was framed by American and for- internationalists to fit into a for the policing of the world by gue of which the United States a member. It was suggested this project would explain the ation of the freedom of the seas from the London conference. the league is to police the seas freedom thereof will be denied to mbers.

Revealed by Letter.

al the mysterious project reposes secret file of the navy depart- was disclosed in a meeting of house committee on naval affairs Representative James V. Mc- [Dem., Okla.] read the fol- ng letter he received under date Feb. 14 last from Mr. Jahncke, acting secretary of the navy:

With reference to your letter of b. 29, 1930, I find there is in the ential files of the navy depart- a paper entitled 'Proposed plans establishment of league of nations and navy.' There is nothing on to show what action was taken on this paper or what consideration was given to it, but it is perfectly evident that the paper was prepared as a confidential document, that it was never made public, and that it has been held as confidential until now.

"In view of the fact that this paper has been held confidential up to this time, and in view of the further fact that, as its subject indicates, it deals with matters some of which are now under discussion at the naval conference in London, I feel that it would not be consistent with the public interests to permit this paper to leave the department, or to make it public until the London conference is over."

Dates from Wilson Régime.

The plan is said to date from the Wilson administration. Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, who was before the committee when Mr. McClinitic read the Jahncke letter, said that so far as he knew the league navy project was not discussed at London.

"Of course," said Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.], "the whole subject we have been dealing with smacks of the internationalism with which of late years we have become so familiar. Find a league of nations man and there you have an enthusiast for the London treaty. Talk to a league of nations courter and immediately you discover a hysterical London treaty advocate. A league of nations army and navy would have been a quite appropriate subject at London. Of course it would be a 'confidential' matter."

Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.], another treaty opponent, intimated that Mr. Jahncke would be invited to submit the secret document to the foreign relations committee. Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], one of the treaty negotiators, denied the subject was discussed at London and pronounced the matter a mare's nest.

Following the meeting the committee voted to authorize the modernization of the battleships New Mexico, Mississippi and Idaho at a cost of $30,000,000. This will include elevation of the guns to equal the range of British and Japanese battleship guns.

Mr. Adams said the legislation is essential because at present our fleet is crippled by lack of sufficient gun elevation.

The navy secretary repudiated Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson's statement that modernization was included in the American proposals at London as a bargaining point.

WASHINGTON NOTES

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—By a vote of 53 to 0 the senate today went on record in favor of the government selling power at Muscle Shoals to municipalities on the same basis as it is sold to private power companies.

The war department announced that Maj. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss and Maj. Gen. Peyton C. March, both retired, will become full generals on the retired list under an act recently signed by President Hoover.

President Hoover signed a bill creating the great lakes bridge commission and authorizing it to construct and operate a bridge across the St. Clair river at Port Huron, Mich.

Children won't drink water?

Give needed liquids this easy way

CHILDREN seldom like to drink all the water they should. Water is so flat.

Here's an easy way to get children to take the liquid they need—in health-giving abundance. Open a pint of cool "beady" Clicquot Club Golden ginger ale in the morning, and in the afternoon.

It's good for them in every way. Besides the large liquid content, Clicquot Club Golden contains syrups of real fruit flavors, and "invert" sugar to produce quick new energy.

Make Clicquot Club a regular between-meals habit at your house. Quickly you'll see your children's appetites improve, their energy unflagging all day long!

There's a mellow goodness about Clicquot Club that comes from long, patient ageing, which blends the pure Jamaica ginger root and the other ingredients in one rich, delicious flavor.

So many ginger ales are manufactured in haste, because of the great demand for the rich flavor of "golden" ginger ale. Insist on Clicquot Club Golden, the golden ginger ale that is aged six months in the making.

You'll appreciate the purity of Clicquot Club too. Clicquot Club is sold only in clean, new bottles never used before. Full measure pint bottles that offer real economy in buying.

It is hard to get children to drink enough water, because water tastes so flat. They will gladly drink a whole glass of delicious Clicquot Club Golden—and it's even better for them than water!

Try the other Clicquot Club Flavors

If you like a "dry" ginger ale instead of the "golden" flavor, ask for Clicquot Club Pale Dry. For an extra dry ginger ale, try Clicquot Club Sec. An overwhelming favorite in clubs, hotels and the club cars of the great limited trains.

For your pleasure—The Clicquot Club Eskimos—every Friday evening at 9 o'clock, New York Time, over WEAF and associated stations.

Drink Welch's and keep your youthful strength and figure

GOOD NEWS! Here's a cool, delicious food-drink that's NOT fattening. Here's a nectar that tunes you up when you're hot and run down, but adds no inches to your waist measure. Here, at last, is a healthy way of holding down your weight without sacrificing delicious foods, handsome color, or lively pep.

How long since you quaffed a glass of Welch's? Remember that rich, fruity bouquet?—that fragrant, racy sweetness slipping down your throat? Boy, that's a drink! That's a drink that does something for you. It cheers you up. It satisfies that hungry thirst. And listen... it feeds you body-building food without adding one pound to your weight!

For Welch's is nature's own luscious fruit, packed full of "meat" and minerals... but predigested by the sun for easy, non-fattening assimilation. Just the pure, rich juice of ripe Concords—undiluted, unadulterated—processed the Welch way.

That's why doctors recommend Welch's to convalescents and dieters. "Build up your strength with Welch's," they say. And now, a nationally famous dietician, head of the Forecast School of Cookery, tells how Welch's in the diet helps you to reduce gradually, and healthfully, and pleasantly.

"Welch's Weight Control Menus," that's the name of this valuable free booklet you ought to have. No fussy dishes to prepare. No dry, starvation diets. Just the every-day foods that everyone loves and needs... bread and butter, potatoes, mayonnaise, meat ... even ice cream. But so balanced on the menu that non-fattening Welch's supplies a large share of the nourishment.

Drink Welch's for your breakfast fruit. Its cheery bright color, its exciting fragrance, reach right out and capture lazy morning appetites. Serve with cracked ice or dilute with one-third water.

And see how Welch's quick, energizing coolness brings back the life to your party—puts everybody in a lovely humor. After a strenuous hour of swimming or golfing, Welch's snaps you up. When the children come in hot and thirsty, Welch's cools them healthfully. When you're brain-fagged and tired, Welch's rests and recharges you. Between dances, after bridge, when friends drop in, at any hour of the day or night, Welch's gives quick refreshment with a royal flavor.

Keep Welch's always on hand in the refrigerator. Order it at your restaurant or soda-fountain, on your train, at your club.

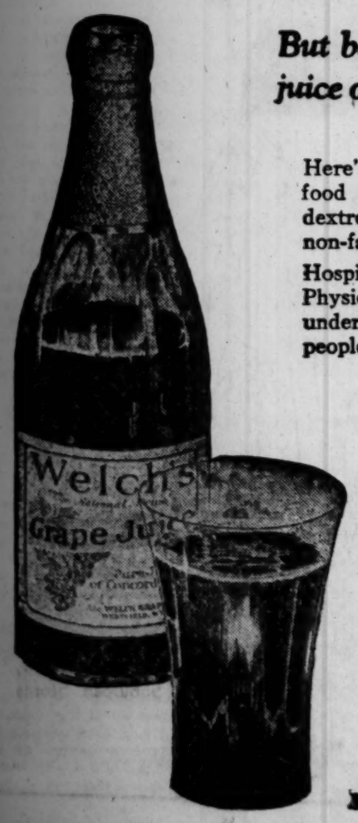
Welch's is an invaluable appetizer and energizer, especially for light-breakfast eaters. Less expensive than oranges... and ready to serve.

for children

Physicians say Welch's compares favorably with milk and oranges in body-building nutriment. And children love Welch's. Dilute to suit the child's taste and needs.

But be sure to say "Welch's"—otherwise you may get a cheap grape juice of inferior quality, and wonder why it doesn't taste like Welch's.



Here's what you get in Welch's, an energy-food in its most easily assimilated form—dextrose sugar, already digested and made non-fattening by the sun.

Hospitals serve Welch's to convalescents. Physicians prescribe Welch's for anaemic, under-nourished, elderly, nervous, run-down people.

The Welch way calls for perfect purple Concord grapes, specially bred to pass Welch Quality standards,—carefully selected and thoroughly washed. Welch's is aged in immaculate glass containers until the flavor ripens. It is then bottled, sealed and pasteurized like fresh milk.

You cannot get such purity of process and safety in cheaper grape juice.

Important

Welch's Grape Juice is full strength. Diluting with one-third to one-half water, as most people prefer it, makes the cost less than 5c a glass

when you entertain

Especially in these days when everybody's dieting or reducing, Welch's is a godsend to the hostess. Delicious as a punch or mixed with ginger-ale or sparkling water. Send coupon for free booklet of party recipes.

STS $108,558 PAYMENTS TO PERTS IN APRIL for Work Last Year, Schmidt Says.

list of payment made to city experts in April for legal, engineering and valuation services was made yesterday with City Clerk Smith in addition to the city council on May 5. The payments according to Controller Schmidt, who compiled the list, totaled $108,558, some of which was paid for services given last year.

The financial troubles of the city during the last few months of 1929 and the early part of 1930 caused the controller bills to be held up in the controller's office. When the city was receiving money from the citizens' committee it was announced that only the regular city employés would be paid. Some of the experts took warrants in payment of their salary claims.

Payments to Experts.

The experts who received $1,000 or more from the city in April, classified according to the service they gave, are as follows:

LEGAL.
J. Yeder	$4,200	L. F. Mason	$2,000
J. Schwartz	3,700	S. L. Golan	1,275
Peter P. Bonn	2,300
ENGINEERING.
J. Krabbe	$11,100	D. A. Wallace	$10,100
Alfred De Leuw & Co.	6,313	W. H. Crumb	6,900
BUILDING VALUATIONS.
J. O'Donnell	$8,400	Max Blatt	$4,600
		W. E. Maas	3,000
REAL ESTATE VALUATORS.
C. Crawford	$6,100	G. W. Kuntsman	$1,875
Henry King	3,000	J. J. Ready	1,875
Harry Goldstine	2,000	Jos. Schwartz	1,700
J. Wolf	2,500	J. F. Powers	1,460

Paid for Investigation.

The W. H. Langley agency was on the list for $1,915 for investigational services; Charles E. Marinier received $1,000, and Fred J. Phillips, an appraiser, $1,050. The list is usually ordered published and filed by the city council without any other acknowledgment of the amounts paid to the experts.

Life Prisoner Hangs Self in Indiana State Prison

Michigan City, Ind., June 26.—[Special.]—Louis Maloney, 43, former local racketeer, serving a life term as Indiana state prison for slaying his New rival, William L. White, on a street here on Dec. 14 last, committed suicide in the prison this afternoon. His body was found at the bottom of a shaft in the power house fan room where it fell after the noose which he had contrived broke from his weight.

Utility Co. Advances Million; Pay Police, Firemen Today

City Controller Schmidt yesterday arranged for the advance of $1,000,000 to the city from the Commonwealth Edison company on its franchise. This, with amounts scraped together from city funds, will be used today to pay the salaries of police and firemen for the first half of June, which were due on June 16.

Officials have obtained approximately $1,650,000, which is $350,000 short of the amount needed to pay all city employés for the June 16 period. Unless the remainder can be borrowed from some city fund the other employés may have to wait until the city can raise money as provided in the financial relief bills.

A conference in Schmidt's office yesterday sought means to raise the $3,500,000 necessary to pay the school teachers today. At the conference were H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the school board; Trustee Lewis E. Meyers; A. J. Keefe, chief clerk of the city treasurer's office; and V. S. Petterson, deputy city controller.

The meeting was told the Cook County Taxpayers Warrant Trust, the citizens' relief organization, would not advance the money, inasmuch as the relief bills have been passed by the legislature. The officials said they are working on a plan to sell school board tax warrants, and believe the teachers can be paid within ten days.

The passage of the relief bills brought good news to employés of the county and south parks board. In the 1930 budgets adopted the employés were placed on a ten months pay basis for twelve months work.

"We probably will pass a resolution restoring the two months' appropriations to the budget at the next meeting," said President Cermak of the county board. "However, employés who have taken time off in addition to a vacation of two weeks will not be given salary refunds. None of the positions left out of the budget will be put back."

Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the citizens' committee, stated that public officials should practice strict economy. He said the city and the school board now will be able to sell tax warrants and bonds to the banks, eliminating the necessity of seeking money from the warrant trust.

H. W. Taft Resigns G. O. P. Post Over Prohibition

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Henry W. Taft, one of the most prominent Republicans in New York City, has resigned as a member of the advisory committee of the New York county Republican committee, as a result of the advisory committee's declaration for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, it was learned today.

Mr. Taft, brother of the late President and chief justice, William Howard Taft, declined to comment upon his resignation.

Murder Charge Is Filed in Deep Lake Torso Case

Max Weiner, described by State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county as "a bootlegger and gangster," was charged with murder yesterday in the Deep Lake torso case. A Chicago lawyer had filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Weiner was booked a half hour before Circuit Court Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of Waukegan was to rule on it. An amended petition for a writ, contending State's Attorney Smith has not established a corpus delicti, will be argued before the Judge Monday.

LACK FUNDS FOR ILLINOIS CANAL UNTIL JULY, 1931

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Unless an emergency appropriation should be made in the meantime, the work on the completion of the Illinois waterway by the federal government will not begin until July 1, 1931, it was learned today.

Senator Charles S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.], in a conference today with Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers, learned that all of the $55,000,000 for waterway improvement and maintenance appropriated for the next fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, has been allotted.

Congress can increase the appropriation for the next fiscal year at any time. President Hoover, however, turned thumbs down on any increase being included in the deficiency appropriation bill now pending.

At the winter session of congress an appropriation might be obtained which would make possible a beginning of the work next spring.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.], one of the leaders of the fight against diversion of lake water at Chicago, stated today that he is ready to join in the undertaking to bring about a speedy completion of the lakes to the gulf waterway.

"I am earnestly in favor of the waterway from Chicago to New Orleans," said Mr. Vandenberg. "To demonstrate my good faith I am ready to join with the Illinois senators in urging priority of allotment of funds for the completion of the channel by the federal government. I think the time has come for the parties to this controversy to quit fighting and do more fraternizing."

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley today issued a permit for the diversion of Lake Michigan water at Chicago beginning July 1 next when the flow will be limited to 6,500 cubic feet per second until Jan. 1, 1935, when it will be reduced to 5,000, and Jan. 1, 1938, when it will be further reduced to 1,500 in accordance with a Supreme court decree.

JOLIET PROTESTS HIGHER BRIDGES FOR WATERWAY

Public hearing on the five new bridges to be built in Joliet in connection with the Illinois deep waterway was held yesterday at the Joliet chamber of commerce. New structures to cost $2,000,000 are planned at Ruby, Jackson, Cass, Jefferson and McDonough streets.

Col. George Spaulding, army engineer in charge of navigation problems in the upper Mississippi river valley, informed city officials and interested property owners that a clearance of 16½ feet would be required at all bridges. This clearance will necessitate bridge approaches at a 7 per cent grade, causing a property damage at Cass and Jefferson streets, near the city's business district, according to city officials. Objections to the 7 per cent grades were made at the hearing by city officials, and committees from the chamber of commerce and Joliet real estate board.

The evidence submitted will be forwarded to the war department for consideration.

BOLIVIAN ARMY BATTLES REBELS TO HOLD CAPITAL

Insurgents Threaten to Seize La Paz, Report.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, June 26.—Reports reaching here today indicated that Bolivian troops were fighting to keep La Paz, the capital, from falling into the hands of insurgents. Most of the government troops are garrisoned there.

Reports stated that heavy firing at La Paz continued last night and that the army was holding the main plaza and the business section, while rebels, aided by cadets of a military school, were in control of the outlying sections of the city. It is reported that former President Siles has sought refuge in the American legation.

Minimize Revolt Importance.

BUENOS AIRES, June 26.—(AP)—Reports of disorders and a critical situation in Bolivia rolled in tonight despite a government communique issued at La Paz, which minimized the importance of a revolutionary movement in Oruro.

The communique confirmed reports that some officials and the camacho regiment of the army at Oruro had taken possession of the city, telegraphing the prefect at La Paz they favored the establishment of a new government under Abianco Galindo, Jose Lanza, Mariaga Pande Osorio and Julio Sanjines, but added:

"The movement lacks importance. The camacho regiment remains isolated at Oruro, without connection with the remainder of the republic, where the garrison commanders have declared themselves firm in their loyalty to the government and the public order."

Mexico Orders Martial Law.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, June 26.—The federal government has hastened to support the governor of the state of Chihuahua, Francisco R. Almada, who was deposed yesterday by Manuel Estrada after an attack on the legislative palace in Chihuahua City. The federal congress charges that the deposition of Gov. Almada was prepared in Mexico City by opposition members of the federal legislature, who wish to control the state legislature in elections ten days hence.

On the orders of the war department, federal troops have dislodged the revolting members of the legislature in the state of Chihuahua and have taken possession of the city, which is now under martial law.

Agents of the federal government flew to Chihuahua today with instructions to investigate the situation. Gov. Almada left Juarez today by airplane for Chihuahua upon receiving pledges of government support.

FRENCH CABINET VICTORIOUS IN "WAR" FUND ROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 26.—The Tardieu government today met its first serious attack since the chamber of deputies reconvened after the Easter recess and came out on top, carrying a vote of confidence by 330 to 262. The attack centered upon the government's program of public improvements and national defense.

The Socialists charged the treasury inadequate to meet the program's demands. The government's foes refused to be satisfied by the finance minister's reassurance and moved to authorize the army's finance committee to probe the treasury's condition and the progress of national defense.

It was on this motion that Premier Tardieu demanded a vote of confidence and the rejection of the resolution.

Vincent Auriol, Socialist challenger, charged that $760,000,000 stored in the treasury through the thrift of Minister of Finance Cheron had dwindled until today there was only $120,000,000 left. The government claimed $200,000,000, but M. Auriol responded by exlaiming that $80,000,000 of this sum was in paper.

SIMON REPORT CAUSES HARSHER METHODS IN INDIA

Natives Plan Boycott of British Banks.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, June 26.—Official India's reaction to the Simon report has been an extension of repressive ordinances, arrests having been trebled, parades suppressed, women leaders jailed, and longer prison sentences awarded. Edicts against wearing Gandhi caps and other manifestations of nationalism are reaching the further provinces.

On the other hand, the people are meeting repression with an extension of the boycott of British products.

Cotton has reached its lowest price in 16 years, while the mills manufacturing khaddar [native cloth] guarantee they will not change their prices for six months as a result of heavy orders. The Bombay Cotton association passed a resolution yesterday that all Indian merchants withdraw deposits from British banks. A nationwide boycott begins Saturday.

Countering this the magistrates are increasing the severity of the sentences for picketing and parading.

The police have been raiding schools and arresting the teachers for showing pupils how to spin. Lawyers are remaining away from the courts and scores have been jailed for contempt.

60 Seized in 20 Dry Raids on Long Island

Long Beach, L. I., June 26.—[Special.]—Sixty prisoners were taken by federal prohibition agents tonight in 20 alleged speakeasies in Long Beach and in the Rockaways in raids on beach front dance halls, drug stores, inns, and restaurants. Most of the prisoners were bartenders, waiters, or speakeasy owners, according to the agents. No patrons were arrested. There were 50 agents in the party that descended on Long Beach. Much liquor was seized. L. D. Jealoff, one of the prisoners, is a Scout master. He was in full uniform when arrested.

RUSSIA CLAIMS SUCCESS OF RED AGITATION IN U. S.

Takes Credit for Gastonia and Illinois Strikes.

MOSCOW, June 26.—(AP)—Coincident with the opening day of the sixteenth congress of the all union communist party, the soviet press prints a long front page review of the achievements of the bolsheviks since the last meeting of the party two years ago.

The statement says the communist regime in the two years has made more progress industrially, socially and agriculturally than during the entire preceding decade.

Admits Activity in U. S.

Reviewing the work of the communist internationale, the newspaper Pravda urges the American communist party to intensify its activities among Negroes and workers of foreign nationalities, as well as the native American laborers in the United States.

Jay Lovestone, who formerly led the American communist party, Pravda says, ignored the instructions of his directors. After his expulsion, however, the newspaper declares, the American communist party under new leadership became much more active, developing its work on a wider scalee and organizing workers into trades unions.

This increased activity, Pravda asserted, was evidenced by the number of strikes carried out in the United States in 1929 and 1930, such as the textile strike at Gastonia, N. C., the miners' strike in Illinois and other labor disturbances.

Aims at Supremacy.

Industrially, asserts the review, soviet Russia within a short period will catch up with and even surpass the foremost capitalistic countries like the United States, this without the aid of foreign loans.

The so called socialized sector or combined state and collective farms, the review declares, which two years ago produced only 2 per cent of Russia's agricultural output today is producing 50 per cent of the marketable grain yield.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 26.—At the end of a muggy, prickly day along the railroad right of way the dusty little red and white pennant of Cornell university went rippling down the Hudson river on the prow of a tiny cedarwood sardine this evening, leading the fleet of nine shells in the great final race of the intercollegiate rowing season. It was Cornell's first victory here since 1915.

A train of flat cars about a mile long, with circus seats rigged in tiers upon their decks and with thousands of enthusiastic martyrs packed in cramped postures on the planks, rattled down the four mile route, setting up a noisy and discordant accompaniment of nine college yells.

Four lengths behind the little Cornell flag came another ship flying the orange pennant of Syracuse university and next behind Syracuse university, about seven lengths away, wracking up the rugged water of the Hudson river with tremendous pride and ambition, came the crew from Massachusetts Tech, the boys who were supposed to have no chance.

California Is Fourth.

California was fourth, a couple of lengths behind Tech, and Columbia's crew came next. Washington finished fifth, a length behind Columbia. Penn was seventh and Wisconsin's eight fastidious young men, the only crew to keep their shirts on, finished eighth.

As Cornell went over the line amid raucous hullaballoo from the yachts and excursion steamers, spectators on the railroad train saw vaguely on the far edge of the course, about a quarter of a mile from the end, a great splashing and threshing in the water. This was the Navy's shell, settling toward the bottom, swamped by the backwash from several very unmanly patrol boats, including one of the navy's own kin, a coast guard ship.

The navy crew settled to their gunwales, splashing like some big, sullen fish on the end of a stout line, until the boys were more in the water than out. Then, mindful of the first tradition of the service to which they are apprenticed, the boys sat quiet in their shell until their launch came alongside and permission was given to abandon ship.

Altogether, Cornell did quite well this afternoon, winning two races and coming second in the other. The Cornell Junior varsity won a three mile race, seven lengths ahead of Washington's scrubs, and their freshmen were second to Syracuse in a two mile race.

In the junior varsity Columbia finished third, with the Navy fourth, Penn fifth, Washington sixth, California seventh, and Mass Tech last.

McMannus' Pate Gleams.

It was easy to distinguish Cornell, not only by the little Red and White flag on the bow, but by the sun-glare on the nude dome of old number five, Mr. P. J. McManus. This Mr. McManus is a big, lean, rangy party who showed up on the river in the Cornell freshman boat last year and set the newspaper boys to prying into his whyfors. Mr. McManus' scalp is as bare as the flat of your hand and it just seemed that there must be some unusual reason for an old bald pappy kind of party rowing among the juveniles in a freshman boat. So the story of Peter J. McManus has been circulated around and the way of it, as they were telling it on the railroad cars this afternoon is as follows:

Peter J. McManus was a farmer on some acres near Poughkeepsie and he used to take much pleasure watching the boys from hither and yon pulling the shells up and down the river at regatta time. So Peter J. McManus bought himself a course of learning in the college of agriculture at Cornell and went out to win a seat in the shell.

Last year he rowed with the freshmen, as stated, and today he pulled a winning oar in the big boat in the greatest race of all, so easily

Badgers Pick Captain

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 26.—(AP)—Louis Oberdeck of Edgarton, Wis., was elected captain of the University of Wisconsin crew tonight after the intercollegiate regatta. Oberdeck will be a senior next year and rowed No. 2 in the varsity boat today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

In their quest for first place the Cubs went in the wrong direction yesterday because of confusion caused by the pitching of that old nemesis, Arthur Dazzy Vance. On the other hand, the pacemaking Robins acted as if they really were serious about their pennant threat, so the present champions had no other choice than to take it on the run by a 7 to 1 score before 25,000.

Now Uncle Robby's outfit, which a few months back was pictured by the jesting experts as a haven for old but deserving athletes, has a two game lead over the pursuing Chicagoans. And as an added complication the Cubs are without a properly rested hurler for today's effort. As a matter of necessity it will be Blake or Bush, both of whom labored a bit two days ago. Brooklyn's mound demonstration probably will be attempted by Señor Adolfo Luque, who so far this spring has been leading a charmed existence.

Root Routed in Second.

Although Mr. Vance is entitled to a special citation for the excellent brand of work he exhibited yesterday, he might not have had so easy a time if Charley Root, who a couple of weeks ago whipped the Dazzler by 13 to 0, hadn't blundered into trouble almost at the jump. He went only as far as the second inning before a little of everything was woven into a five run rally. That knocked the bottom out of the game so far as interest was concerned and at the same time encouraged Vance to do his best. When he's ahead, he's a tartar. Get the jump on him and he wilts.

That the Cubs were not entirely helpless in the way of an attack is attested by nine hits off the veteran right hander. The hitch in the total was that the blows were so widely scattered as to be of little use. The only two that proved of any consequence occurred in the sixth. Cuyler singled and raced to third when Hack Wilson, once a made to order victim for Vance's strikeout skill, uncorked the second of his three safe blows. A moment later Cuyler hiked home on an infield out, thus preventing their tormentor from having the added satisfaction of a shutout.

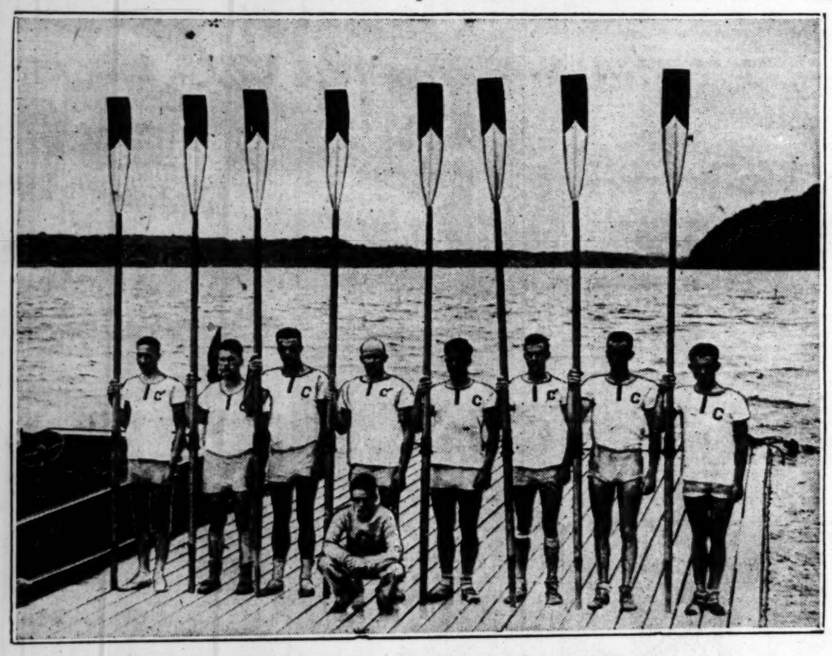
Herman Celebrates Birthday.

Root's distressing second inning began when, with one out, Hendrick hammered a terrific grounder which was scored as an error for Blair. Wright immediately drove the run home with a double. Finn got to base by letting one of Root's speeders nick him on the arm. A hit by DeBerry sent Wright home. Vance then flied to left for the second out, but the trouble was only starting.

Frederick rolled to Blair, who pegged to Grimm apparently in time to get the decision, but Umpire Clark guessed that the runner had beaten the ball. This filled the bases. The Cubs promptly took time out for a verbal display in front of the arbiter. When quiet was restored, Gilbert banged a hit to center, scoring Finn and De Berry. Then Babe Herman celebrated his 27th birthday by singling Frederick home and ending Root's labors. Herman also marked his natal day by committing his first error of the season. He fumbled Wilson's hit in the fourth.

When Root was yanked, the vacancy was filled by Bud Teachout. The youngster did an excellent job until the seventh when a single by Gilbert, a double by Bissonette and single by Bressler scored two more Robins.

VICTORS ON HUDSON



Cornell's varsity crew upset the experts' predictions yesterday in winning the intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson. It was Cornell's first victory at Poughkeepsie since 1915. Lightning Hits Umbrella and Stuns Golfer

Oakmont, Pa., June 26.—(AP)—East and west will meet in the semi-final round of the intercollegiate golf championship tomorrow when Phillips Finlay of Harvard plays Larry Moller of Notre Dame and George Dunlap of Princeton clashes with Winston Fuller of Southern California.

The quarter final matches at 36 holes today produced some good golf and exciting finishes, especially in the upper bracket where Finlay defeated Sam Perry of Alabama, 2 up and 1 to play, and Moller defeated Marshall Forrest of Yale, runnerup in the last championship, by the same score.

The margins were greater in the lower bracket, Fuller defeating Charles S. Eaton of Harvard, 4 and 3, and Dunlap eliminating Sam Parks of the University of Pittsburgh, 3 and 2, but the competition was keen throughout.

Lightning Hits Umbrella.

Moller, Notre Dame, captain, and newly elected president of the Intercollegiate Golf Association of America, suffered a narrow escape from possibly serious injury when lightning struck an umbrella he was holding during the afternoon round. A sudden, violent rainstorm swept the course, accompanied by sharp lightning. Moller had played a chip shot to the eighth green and taken an umbrella from his caddy when suddenly lightning knocked the umbrella from his hand.

For a time Moller reported that his arm was numb, but the feeling of paralysis soon abated and after a few holes he was himself again.

"I guess I was more frightened than anything else," said the Quincy boy after his round, "but that was just a little bit too close for comfort. I am quite all right now."

Contrasts in Style.

The play tomorrow, again at 36 holes, will introduce contrasts in the individual play of the four youths who go to universities in widely separated sections of the country. Finlay has been one of the longest drivers in golf and his ability to recover from the rough where his prodigious shots often leave his ball is amazing.

Moller is a long hitter and a great putter.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

TOO MUCH HITTING?

WAKE: Comments of Helper A. T. L. and yourself concerning the "rabbit" ball strike a sympathetic chord in my own thoughts. Here are some things I have observed:

Errors—Infield bobbles are due mostly to bad bounding balls so fast that infielders are just able to reach but not hold. Speed of ball out of proportion to speed of fielder. Outfield errors also becoming more numerous on ground balls.

Hitting—Rabbit ball has substituted skill or strength with bat for skill with brain. Any punk with a husky pair of shoulders and a clear eye can get by sans brains. I haven't seen a "squeeze" play for ages. I have seen more fluke hits than ever before. Imagine three hits in one game which went over second base after one bound in the infield over the pitcher's head. That's not hitting—that's tennis. Placing hits like Honus Wagner or Ollie Pickering did is a thing of the past. Now a batter tries for a home run or a strikeout.

Injuries—A few days ago I saw six pitchers dodge six batted balls which would have crippled them if they had not ducked quickly. There never was a season in which so many players have been injured.

The "rabbit" ball should be called the magnates' "money ball" and then kicked out of both leagues.

Yours for real baseball, not track meets,
Old Timer.

Just a Battle.

There was one bout on the Stribling-Von Porat card not given enough mention. It was between Ted Ross and Edgar Norman. The Wake never has seen a pair of boxers throw more punches and action and continue the pace for eight full rounds. We have seen amateurs go that fast for three rounds, but never eight.

Strange thing, too, was that the boys seemed to enjoy it. After their fiercest exchanges, with such action that they were almost groggy from weariness at the bell, one or the other gave his opponent a pat of appreciation for the battle he was waging.

The crowd yelled most of the time, and at the end of eight rounds vociferously demanded a "draw," which was just what Ross and Norman were entitled to and received. Each spectator received his money's worth for the whole evening in that fight alone. We dare say every one of them would go again to see those boys mix.

Alexander Routed in First Start as a Minor Leaguer

Dallas, Tex., June 26.—(AP)—A sizzling day proved too much for Grover Cleveland Alexander in his first start for the Dallas Texas league baseball club today. Between the heat and the lusty swinging of the Fort Worth Panthers the veteran star was driven to the showers in the fifth.

More than 8,000 fans turned out to greet the hero of two decades of major league ball. They cheered him when he walked to the home plate to receive a basket of flowers before the game began, and they raised the roof again when he went shuffling off the field in the fifth, looking like a tired old man.

His new teammates came to life after his departure and banged out an 18 to 9 triumph.

Fort Worth nicked "Old Pete" for 11 hits and six runs during his stay on the mound.

RED SOX DEFEAT WHITE IN BATTLE FOR CELLAR, 9-7

Boston Scores Five Runs in Fifth.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 26.—Our hopeless White Sox reached the depths of their mediocrity this afternoon when they took their sixth straight licking from the Boston Red Sox. The score of today's humiliation was Red Sox, 9; White Sox, 7.

If Mr. Comiskey's employés lose tomorrow behind Dutch Henry, they will plunk into last place.

The affair today was typical of so many of the blisterings the White Sox have taken at the hands of the Red Sox. The Chicagoans went out and made a few runs and immediately set up a pose as a skilled ball club. They proceeded with suave, patient mien until they discovered themselves in a hopeless jam. Then they wilted.

Thomas Does Well Until 4th.

Tommy Thomas made another of his series of comeback efforts to start the game and was leading, 3 to 0, at the close of the first half of the fourth. Not a genuine hit had been made off his throws and only one of any description had been registered, a fluke double credited to Miller when Smead Jolley got the seat of his bloomers all dusty attempting to play the ball off an embankment in left field.

In the last of the fourth, however, Miller got a genuine hit off Thomas and stopped at third on Narlesky's double. Rhyne made it three hits in a row with a single to left, scoring the two runners, but was sunk in a double play.

The White Sox made the score 5 to 2 in the first of the fifth on three hits, including a double by Kamm, one of Bill's three hits for a 1000 day.

Then came the Red Sox fifth, which brought forth probably as bad a job of relief pitching as ever was witnessed in the major leagues. Gaston opened with a double and Oliver walked. Todt singled to left, scoring Gaston, Todt stopping at second.

McKain Relieves Thomas.

At this point McKain relieved Thomas. On two pitched balls Scarritt made a single and Webb a double, and on McKain's fourth pitch of the inning Miller added a single. The net of the sessions to this moment was five runs.

Walsh relieved McKain after the four so-called pitches and managed to put out the fire forthwith.

The Bostons made a run in the sixth on Todt's triple and a sacrifice and another in the eighth on Berry's double and an error by Jolley. J. Smead again slid down the embankment on his pants, this time with sufficient lack of grace to get a black mark in the record books.

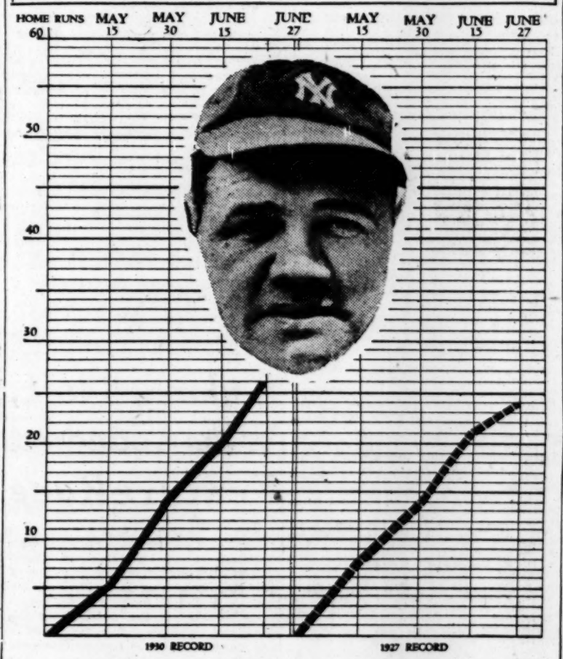
HOW BABE HIT 'EM—THEN, NOW



The chart shows Babe Ruth's home run pace this year and the pace he set in 1927, when he established his record of 60 homers in one season. Starting more slowly this year, with only five in the first month against eight in 1927, he put on steam in the next two weeks and was abreast of his record pace by May 30. He fell one behind in the next two weeks, but in the last twelve days has hit six to go two ahead of 1927.

SPEAKER QUITS AS MANAGER OF NEWARK TEAM

Newark, N. J., June 26.—(AP)—Tris Speaker, former manager of the Cleveland American league team, today resigned as manager of the Newark team of the International league.

This was Speaker's second year as manager of the Newark ball club, which has lost 33 games and won 28. The cause for his resignation has not been made public.

The resignation was accepted by the management of the club to become effective immediately. Speaker gave out the following statement:

"At a conference with the executives of the Newark baseball club today it was agreed that a change in management might be beneficial, so I have made arrangements to leave the club. If I had desired I could have remained."

Jack Onslow, coach, has been put in active charge of the team until a new manager is decided upon.

U. S. Net Stars Sweep Doubles at Wimbledon

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 26.—A clean sweep by Americans in the doubles before the biggest crowd Wimbledon has had this week featured today's play in the 1930 British tennis championships. George Lott and Johnny Doeg, United States champions, advanced to the third round by two victories, while all other American doubles teams went into the second round.

Fifteen thousand watched the day's matches. Although Wimbledon's doubles champions, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, made their first appearance of the season together, they won their match before a duplicate of yesterday's capacity house which watched Bill Tilden play. Teamed with Fräulein Cilli Aussem, the German champion, in the mixed doubles, Tilden today beat F. J. Perry and Miss Margaret Heeley of England, 6-1, 6-4.

Lott and Doeg opened today's play by beating V. A. Cazalet, the British squash champion and parliamentarian, and J. C. Masterman, 8—6, 13—11, 7—5. The second match was a repetition of the opener, the Americans playing laxly to win from F. R. L. Crawford and G. E. M. De St. Croix 6—0, 4—6, 6—4, 5—7, 6—3.

Allison and Van Ryn flashed the best doubles play of the day while defeating E. C. Metcalf and A. W. Vinall in straight sets 6—2, 6—3, 6—4. Another American pair, Berkley Bell and G. S. Mangin, outplayed Count Ludwig Salm Von Hoogstraeten and Victor Burr of England by almost the same margin, winning by 7—5, 6—4, 6—4.

Helen Wills Moody and Miss Elizabeth Ryan showed some of the fire they exhibited in winning the women's doubles in 1927, pairing together again today to trounce the British pair, Mrs. Victor Burr and Miss G. N. Thompson, in two love sets.

Sarah Palfrey, the 17 year old United States junior champion and Miss Edith Cross beat Mrs. L. P. Antrobus and Miss Frances James in straight sets, 6-4, 6-1, in one of the other women's doubles.

YALE SWIMMERS TO MEET PICKED SQUAD TONIGHT

R. L. Stone will be honorary referee, Haskell Noyes, actual referee, and Robert Branford, starter.

ROMANY BAW OUTBUMPS RIVAL TO WIN IN MUD

Favorites at Homewood Have Disastrous Day.

Peabody Entries

A FIELD of 12 was in prospect last night for the running of the $10,000 added Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap, the closing day's feature at Washington Park tomorrow afternoon.

Sun Beau, an arrival at Arlington Park yesterday, will be vanned over to start in the Peabody Memorial, it was announced. His rivals in the stake will be Toro, The Nut, Ironsides, Lady Broadcast, Karl Eitel, Stars and Bars, Chicago, Jean Val Jean, Whiskery, Canaan, Tippy Toe, Brown Wisdom, Paul Bunyan, and Galahad.

Misstep is eligible to the race, but Trainer Lowenstein, it is reported, will keep him out of the mile and a quarter struggle and start him in Arlington's Inaugural at six furlongs on Monday afternoon.

BY FRENCH LANE.

It was a stormy race, the Thomas Hotel purse, which featured the turf program at Washington Park yesterday. Romany Baw, a son of Westy Hogan-Mary Lee, carried the pink and black jacket of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable to victory. Supreme Sweet, the overwhelming favorite, was second and Panchio was third.

About half of those in the crowd of 10,000 were of the opinion that Supreme Sweet had been fouled by Romany Baw in the desperate run down the stretch. And they expressed themselves with hoots and boos. The other half thought Supreme Sweet was bumping Romany Baw all over the track in the final stages. They greeted the decision with three cheers, nine rahs for the judges, and for Romany Baw.

Decision Remains Unchanged.

Jockey Laidley, who rode Supreme Sweet, rushed into the stewards' stand like an enraged tiger after he had unsaddled to lodge a claim of foul. The judges scratched their heads and debated. The verdict was unanimous. The original result was allowed to stand.

There had been bumping, the judges admitted. But Supreme Sweet bumped Romany Baw just as often as Romany Baw bumped Supreme Sweet, according to the official finding. Both horses and both jockeys—Carl Meyer being on Romany Baw—were fighting for a dry strip out near the center of the muddy course as the stretch run got under way.

But after the bumping Romany Baw went on to win by half a length and there was no doubt that the son of Westy Hogan was the better horse. Panchio was an innocent sufferer, for, while all the bumping was taking place, he was back of the rough riders also clinging to the dry strip in the track with no chance to get between or around the two leaders.

Panchio finished third. Hal Price Headley's Squabbler and Congressman Stanley Kunz's Deerfield were the trailers in the small field of five. The track was extremely difficult to negotiate because of the overnight rains and Romany Baw's time for the six furlongs was 1:17. In the mutuels he paid $8.04 to win. It was his second start here since being shipped from New York but his past performance record showed he was a noted muddy track performer.

Bad Day for Favorites.

It was another disastrous day for the players of favorites and, except for Zaila, the choices all bowed in defeat until the Cheltenham purse was decided as the sixth number on the program.

Chariot was the choice here and he had little trouble leading Negodale to the line of finish by a margin of three lengths, with the Keeneland farm stable's Jean LaFitte running fast near the end to be third. Jockey Corbett picked a careful path for Chariot in the run home and the son of Thunderer-Waif never left the result in doubt.

GRIFFITH DRILLS FOR BOUT WITH RISKO WEDNESDAY

Tuffy Griffith, who meets Johnny Risko Wednesday night at the Stadium, went through his training paces yesterday at the Arcade gymnasium. Tuffy says he'll be in the best of condition for Risko and believes if he can stop the Cleveland heavyweight he'll give the fans a reason why he should meet Max Schmeling for the title.

Risko will arrive today accompanied by his manager, Danny Dunn. Johnny will train at Barry's bymnasium.

Paul Swiderski has been matched with Frankie Simms of Cleveland in the ten round semi-windup. Both are heavy punchers, Swiderski dropped Champion Mickey Walker three times on Derby eve in Louisville before losing the decision. Simms' latest conquest was a one punch knockout of Ted Sandwina.

Lon McDonald, Veteran Harness Race Driver, Dies

Cleveland, O., June 26.—(AP)—A heart attack today took from the ranks of America's harness race drivers one of their most colorful characters, Alonzo [Lon] McDonald of Boston.

Ladana, 8 to 1, Wins Aqueduct Feature Race

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—An accident in the paddock to Harry Payne Whitney's Summer Day, one of the choices in the Clover stakes, feature at Aqueduct today, had an important bearing on the outcome of the race and gave race followers one of the most sensational five minute periods that the sport has known. The Clover and its purse of $6,600 went to the Rancocas stable's Ladana, played down from 20 to 1 to 8 to 1.

Summer Day was coupled with a first time starter, Gosling. The entry opened equal choice with George D. Widener's smart pair, Sovietta and Stefana.

As Trainer Tom Healey was tightening the girth on Summer Day in the paddock the filly reared and fell over backwards, striking her head and suffering a hemorrhage. Whether she will race again only time will tell.

A decision was reached that all bets previously made were to stand, leaving the Whitney backers very much the worst of it.

When it came to the running of the race the players were in for another surprise. Ladana, with Laverne Fator showing one of his good performances, broke very fast and went right to the front.

McAtee rushed Sovietta into contention and for a moment or so she was in front. But she was on the far outside all the time, and the effort must have cost her a great deal. She stopped badly and was under the whip a quarter of a mile from the finish.

Meantime Ladana was going along smoothly, with the Wheatley stable's Brusher coming in strongly to land the place, two lengths back of the winner and a length before Dark Magnet, which closed strongest of all to land third. Sovietta was lucky to get fifth place, and Stefana finished tenth. The time for the five furlongs was 1:01 1-5.

Steeplechase Band Arrives at Arlington

Almost a trainload of steeplechasers arrived at Arlington Park yesterday for the summer turf season which opens on Monday afternoon.

The largest shipment included the horses owned by Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark of New York, whose nephews, Albert and Pete Bostwick, are America's most skillful amateur steeplechase riders. Mrs. Clark's consignment of 22 are in the charge of James Healy, a horseman of the old school and one of the most successful developers of flat racers and steeplechasers in the business.

In the shipment were Ice, Dangerous, Evader, Brown Trout, Silver Jay, Lady Genevieve, Van Dyke, Alphis, Sun Clover, Contraction, Wayfarer, Modeola, Stick Around, Jim's Bob, Neverfade, Autumn Bells, Zermatt, Atremony, Kamere, Swivel, and an unnamed 2 year old.

The Bostwick brothers will arrive within the next day or two and their coming will about complete the steeplechase colony, which is one of the most notable assembled at any track in America this year.

Along with the steeplechasers came the flat racers owned by W. E. Caskey. In the band were Phillip, William T, Sylvameade, Brast, and Mynheer.

In the Ralph Beaver Strassburger string of jumpers were the veterans The Ace II. and Ben Hur. Louis Tauber, trainer for Mr. Strassburger, says the stable will be reinforced by four horses imported from England within the next few days.

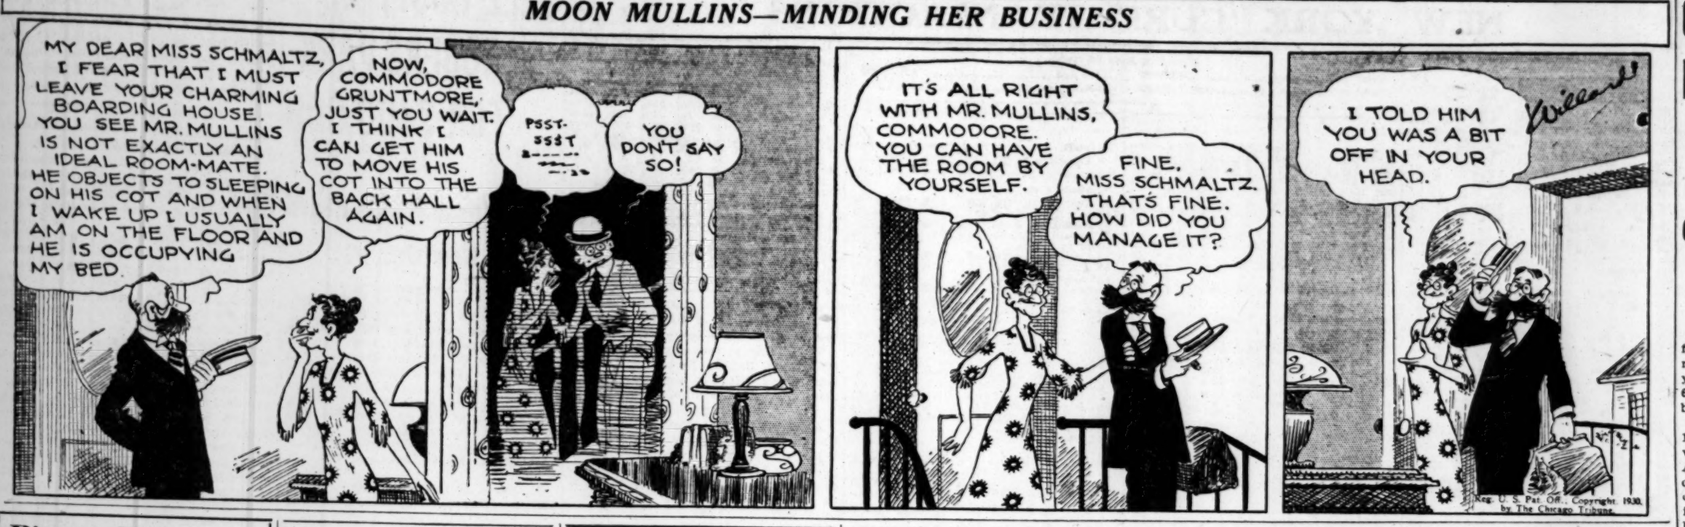
MOON MULLINS—MINDING HER BUSINESS



MY DEAR MISS SCHMALTZ, I FEAR THAT I MUST LEAVE YOUR CHARMING BOARDING HOUSE. YOU SEE MR. MULLINS IS NOT EXACTLY AN IDEAL ROOM-MATE. HE OBJECTS TO SLEEPING ON HIS COT AND WHEN I WAKE UP I USUALLY AM ON THE FLOOR AND HE IS OCCUPYING MY BED.
NOW, COMMODORE GRUNTMORE, JUST YOU WAIT. I THINK I CAN GET HIM TO MOVE HIS COT INTO THE BACK HALL AGAIN.
PSST- SSST
YOU DON'T SAY SO!
IT'S ALL RIGHT WITH MR. MULLINS, COMMODORE. YOU CAN HAVE THE ROOM BY YOURSELF.
FINE, MISS SCHMALTZ. THAT'S FINE. HOW DID YOU MANAGE IT?
I TOLD HIM YOU WAS A BIT OFF IN YOUR HEAD.

Pirates Defeat Phils in Batfest, Pitching Duel

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 26.—(AP)—A pitchers' battle and a slugfest brought the Pirates a double victory over Philadelphia today. The home team took the first game, 1 to 0, and the second, 11 to 5.

The Pirates won the first on a fluke. Collins, Philly pitcher, dropped the ball while winding up for his delivery in the third and Brickell scored before Collins recovered. Grantham hit the only home run of the doubleheader, a smash to the fences in the second contest. Scores:

Cornell Wins at Poughkeepsie; Syracuse 2nd

and yet with such effective might that old Frank Wandle, former coach and trainer of the West Point football team, dropped a deviled egg sandwich, jumped up in his place on the observation train, and yelled:

"Hey! Look at old number five swim that Cornell boat down the line there all by himself."

He's Just Maturing.

The records state that Mr. McManus is 29 years of age and while this is a ripe old age for college athletes most anywhere, Mr. Wandle said old P. J. was just rounding into maturity.

Washington and the Navy were supposed to be rowing a match race in the main contest of the painful afternoon, with seven other boats on the water merely as members of a supporting cast.

When the big race got under way with Tech in front and going away, there was nobody along the shore unprejudiced by sentimental ties to Tech who thought the young men would stay there beyond one brief, brave, killing dash. But when the boats had gone a mile Tech was still leading by almost two lengths with the Navy second and falling back, and Washington was fourth, almost a length astern of the midshipmen.

There were no noticeable cheers for Tech but then the genius hasn't yet declared himself to fame who can compose a college yell about the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

It was just before the two-mile post, that the Cornell boat came swinging along with the blades dipping and rising at a beat of 35 strokes a minute, to slide by Tech and take the lead for good.

Approaching the railroad bridge one mile from the end, Cornell was doing no more than 32 strokes to the minute, but Tech had fallen behind by something more than a full length and Syracuse, now coming up to fight for the race, was third by only half a length.

Two Coaches Claim Foul.

Syracuse caught Tech just before they vanished under the bridge, and when they emerged, going into the final mile, Cornell led Syracuse by two lengths, and Tech was now half a length back. California's boat was out of the fight, a length behind Tech, and Washington was next, half a length from California's bow.

Poughkeepsie doesn't seem to have facilities for a nine boat race, and when the show was done two of the coaches were much upset, claiming that their boats had been fouled by tsh swells from the patriot ships. The foul is gaining prestige.

Scouts to Take Tribune Canoe Test Tomorrow

BY BOB BECKER.

A group of Chicago Boy Scouts who have made application to go on THE TRIBUNE canoe cruise down the Tippecanoe river next month will take to the water tomorrow afternoon to demonstrate their ability as canoe paddlers.

Before he is accepted as a member of the canoeing party which will navigate the Tippecanoe and the Wabash rivers between Winamac and Lafayette, Ind., each youngster must take a canoeing test given under the auspices of the American Canoe association. No boys unfamiliar with the art of paddling are eligible for the trip.

Vincent Smith will conduct the tests tomorrow at the Lincoln Park Boat club, with canoes and paddles furnished through the courtesy of the club.

The examination consists of the following stunts:

1. Launch canoe and embark from dock (two boys).
2. Paddle straight course alone on one side (one boy).
3. Turn to the left and then to the right (one boy).
4. Tandem paddling.
5. Stop under headway (two boys).
6. Beach canoe and land properly.
7. Prepare canoe for lift and portage.

The trip will start July 5, with the party putting in the Tippecanoe at the town of Winamac. From there down to the Wabash the Chicago Scouts will paddle, portage, swim, fish, practice their woodcraft and campcraft, and otherwise enjoy themselves while living as canoe cruisers.

ROBINSON, FETZ WIN IN STATE AMATEUR GOLF

Eldridge Robinson, Olympia Fields, yesterday advanced to the third round in defense of his state amateur golf title, at Riis park. Favorites as a whole came through with victories but a high wind made low scoring an impossibility.

In the first round, Robinson defeated C. W. Stewart, Lincoln park, 3 and 2, and went on to eliminate Ed Blonston, 5 and 4, in the second round. Gus Fetz made short work of two opponents, beating Henry Foley 5 and 4, and swamping Dick Beck, Ridgemoor, 7 and 6, by scoring 33 for a new course record.

Warren Dawson won his morning round from Matt McBride, Jackson park, 1 up, but succumbed to R. H. Albeck, Pickwick, in the afternoon, 2 and 1.

Harold Nilles won from Gene Rapaport, Elgin entry, 1 up, to reach the quarter finals. Al Huskie set the long drive mark of the tourney when he hit a tee shot 320 yards.

Sterling Dawson, Medinah, defeated Mike Kalny, Riis park, 7 and 6, and Clyde Homans, Lincolnshire, beat Jake Kanter, Bunker Hill, 7 and 5.

Monkey Only One Hazard in "U" Club Golf

Ninety-eight golfers found hazardous going yesterday in the second annual campus carnival of the University Golf club. It required fortitude to make the first tee shot when faced by a clown armed with a tin horn. In addition to the usual obstacles on a golf course, the players in several instances were forced to reclaim their ball from a monkey which wandered from green to green.

Low gross honors for members went to M. Pohlmann, with 83—82—165; Dr. A. G. Lyle captured the members' low net, with 78—70—148. Members' morning low gross went to W. G. Grierson, with 90, while B. B. Chittendon won the tombstone tournament in the afternoon, planting his marker as a symbol of his golfing death on the green of an extra hole. Morning low net was won by Phil Davies, 102—27—75.

The lucky members in the blind bogey were H. C. Chase, Dr. L. Ofner, and C. S. Gordon in the order named.

Ray Duggan, Lincolnshire champion, took low gross for guests, with 77—78—155. Guests' low net honors went to R. E. Falk, who shot 73—67—140. Next came W. Langfield, the one armed star, with 73-72—145. Morning low gross for guests went to Duggan, with 77, and morning low net to S. K. Tilton, with 88—16—72.

'29 Women's Golf Champion Plays in Semi-Finals Today

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Four women remained in the running for the Chicago public parks golf championship after yesterday's quarter final matches at Marquette. Of the 75 who started out Monday in quest of the title, only Mrs. Lillian Zech, Mrs. Oscar Horn, Mrs. Rose Marshall, and Mrs. William Wallace survived.

Mrs. Marshall, the defending champion, advanced to the semi-finals by defeating Mrs. F. J. Lubin, 4 and 3. Mrs. Horn beat Mrs. Mary King, 4 and 2; Mrs. Zech beat Mrs. D. Fitzgerald, 5 and 4; and Mrs. Wallace beat Mary Sager, 4 and 3. Today Mrs. Zech will play Mrs. Horn and Mrs. Marshall will meet Mrs. Wallace in the semi-finals.

Greens Are Tricky.

A high wind played tricks with the long shots of the players and soggy greens made their putting uncertain. Mrs. Marshall went one down when she three putted the third, but squared the match when Mrs. Lubin's approach was short of the fifth green. Mrs. Lubin was short again on the sixth and missed an easy putt on the ninth to give Mrs. Marshall a two hole lead at the turn.

Mrs. Lubin then sliced into the bushes and lost the 10th. Mrs. Marshall's birdie took the eleventh and she went five up on the 13th when her opponent was short with her second shot and dubbed her third. Mrs. Lubin's last rally was made at the 14th where two perfect shots put her on the green in position for an easy 4th while Mrs. Marshall was taking a five. The match ended when they halved the 15th, leaving Mrs. Marshall 4 up and 3 to play.

Mrs. Horn Stymied.

Mrs. Horn won the first hole of her match with Mrs. King by getting on the green in three and down in two putts while her opponent was taking a six. She lost her advantage on the fourth by three-putting, and was one down when she was stymied on the fifth. She squared the match with a four on the sixth, and took the next two with fours.

She went three up on the tenth by sinking her first putt, but lost the eleventh by failing to get her approach to the green. She won the thirteenth with one putt and the match ended on the sixteenth when Mrs. King overshot the green.

O'CONNELL TOPS LEJECK; ENTERS NET SEMI-FINALS

Garland, Williams Win in State Doubles.

George O'Connell entered the semi-finals of the Illinois State tennis tournament at the Town and Tennis club yesterday, defeating Charles Lejeck, 6-2, 6-4. The other semi-finalists will be decided in today's matches.

Chuck Garland, a member of the 1920 United States Davis cup team which brought the trophy back to America, and Luke Williams city champion and former national intercollegiate title holder, won their way into the quarter finals of the doubles by beating Gallond and Quinn, 6-1, 6-1. Two Texas youngsters, Quinn Connelly and Joe Bill Bralley, almost defeated Walter T. Hayes and Ellis Klingeman, but the latter pair pulled out at 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Lejeck Team Wins.

The Lejeck brothers defeated Kochs and Nelson, 6-2, 6-4, and Frank O'Connell and Art Franksenstein upset Art Kaiser and W. C. Parkhill, seeded eighth, 6-2, 6-2.

Karl Kamrath of Austin, Tex., eastern and western junior champion, trimmed John Baumann, 6-0, 6-2 to reach the semi-finals of the junior event. He meets his fellow townsman Bralley, who eliminated Frank Gregory, 6-1, 6-0. Earl Bossong of Cincinnati beat Joe Carrigan, Hyde Park star, 6-4, 5-7, 6-0, and meets Jay Cohn, Santa Monica, Cal., national boy champion today. Cohn beat Trevor Weis, yesterday, 6-2, 7-5.

No Upsets in Women's Play.

Play in the women's singles and doubles reached the quarter finals without any startling upsets. Clara Louise Zinke, Cincinnati, number one ranking woman in the west, and Catherine Wolf, Indianapolis, the defending champion.

Top yesterday, $11.75; average, $11.15.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 2,000 cattle, 22,000 hogs, and 5,000 sheep.

Trading in hogs was more erratic yesterday. Packing sows recovered 10@25c of the recent sharp loss, while butchers held steady and light weights ruled steady to 10c lower. Underweights and pigs declined 15@25c.

The extreme top moved down 5c at $9.10, the lowest since Jan. 15, 1929. Only three days since 1929 have seen lower top prices. The general average held steady at $8.70, but was lower than any corresponding day since 1924. Prevailing hog quotations are $1.90@2.00 lower than a year ago and $1.45@1.65 lower than in 1928.

Hog Futures Sell Slowly.

Contracts for hogs for future delivery sold slowly at generally steady prices yesterday. Some sales at the close were 5@10c above the opening level on September mediums. The latter kinds opened at $9.25 and closed at $9.35.

September light weights changed hands at $9.15. August light carried bids of $9.00 at the close. Buyers were willing to pay $9.00 for both July and September contracts for heavy grades.

Cattle showed additional improvement yesterday and the clearance was the best in several weeks. Price gains, however, were due entirely to light supplies, reports from the dressed meat trade indicating a slow movement of beef at all distributing centers. Monday's losses have been recovered and some sales show additional gains.

Prime 1,389 lb steers topped the market at $12.65, the highest since early last week. Bulk of sales at $9.25@11.90 compares with $9.25@11.00 on Monday.

Butcher stock shared in the advance, about 117 baby beef heifers selling at $10.00@10.60. Calves were steady. Stockers and feeders were more active, but steady.

Lambs Sharply Lower.

Lamb prices were pounded lower again, thin light weights getting the brunt of the price cut. Top natives dropped to $11.75, while hundreds of thin culls sold at $5.00@6.00. Sorting was the hardest in several years and some plain quality lambs were still in the pens at the close.

Top grades showed losses of 25c, while others declined 50c to $1.00. Aged sheep and yearlings sold steady to 25c lower. Feeding lambs were scarce, but showed further weakness.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 2,000 cattle, 22,000 hogs, and 5,000 sheep, against 1,320 cattle, 20,039 hogs, and 8,967 sheep on the previous Friday and 1,534 cattle, 13,462 hogs, and 7,338 sheep a year ago.

AUTHORIZE SALE OF $6,000,000 IN SANITARY BONDS

The sale of $6,000,000 in bonds was authorized by the Sanitary district yesterday. The bonds are to be sold to a syndicate headed by the Foreman Trust and Savings bank for $5,898,262 and will bear 4½ per cent interest. Proceeds of the sale will be used to continue work on the Stickney sewage treatment plant and its connecting sewers. Under the Supreme court decision in the lake level litigations the district must expend $176,600,000 for treatment plants by 1938.

President Howard W. Elmore called the attention of the board to the necessity of submitting a bond issue to the voters in the November election. The district had asked the legislature to permit the issuing of $6,000,000 in bonds each year for twenty years without a referendum. The special session of the legislature adjourned without considering the bond proposal. By a unanimous vote the board passed a resolution to submit a bond issue of $6,000,000 to the voters in the fall election.

RADIO WAR NOW BREAKS OUT ON ANOTHER FRONT

Grigsby-Grunow Co. Files Big Suit.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The war between the independent radio manufacturers, led by the Grigsby-Grunow company of Chicago, and the Radio corporation-General Electric-Westinghouse group, broke out on another front yesterday. The Grigsby-Grunow company filed suit in the United States District court in Kansas City, Mo., for $30,000,000 damages against the Radio corporation group. The main charge made in the suit is that the Radio corporation group has illegally created a pool of patents and compelled the Grigsby-Grunow company to pay royalties of almost $1,000,000. It is further charged that Grigsby-Grunow was compelled to buy radio vacuum tubes from the Radio corporation at a high price under a license agreement, and so was illegally prevented from engaging in this branch of the business until this part of the licensing agreement was declared unlawful by the United States District court in Delaware. On this ground damages of $3,000,000 are sought.

Anti-Trust Charges.

The suit charges the Radio corporation group with violating the Sherman anti-trust law. Under the Clayton act the Grigsby-Grunow company is entitled to recover three-fold the actual damages if it wins the suit.

"The issues involved in this suit are nation-wide and reach into every American home," W. C. Grunow, president of Grigsby-Grunow, explained last night. "If the radio trust is permitted to continue its tyranny and piracy, initiative will be destroyed, competition throttled, and individual effort discouraged. These conspirators now are trying to control the air as they have other lines of communication.

"Every owner of a radio set, every dealer, distributor, and jobber in the radio industry and, most of all, the general public, will be greatly benefited if our efforts in the courts prevail. It will break the stranglehold of this illegal combination on the radio industry and art. In spite of the rapid development of the radio industry, it is still in its infancy. Its future development must not be placed under the withering hand of monopolistic control."

LOANS OFF $371,000,000

With the drastic declines in the stock market in the last week, credit used in speculation was deflated with a vengeance. Brokers' loans plunged down $371,000,000, according to the weekly report issued by the federal reserve board yesterday. This is the largest decline since the collapse of securities prices late last year and also one of the largest declines on record.

The extent of the decline came as a surprise to Wall and La Salle streets. Whereas much of the price decline had been attributed to short selling, which would have little effect on brokers' loans, now it is evident that a wave of real liquidation was running. Loans have declined $685,000,000 in the last three weeks, and the total now stands at $3,416,000,000, which is $2,126,000,000 below a year ago.

All Classes Contribute.

All classes of lenders contributed to the last week's decline. The New York banks reduced their own loans by $86,000,000, interior banks withdrew $193,000,000, and other lenders, including corporations, drew down $92,000,000. The New York banks are lending $726,000,000 more than a year ago, but interior banks and other lenders are furnishing $823,000,000 and $2,630,000,000 less, respectively.

The New York federal reserve bank made no change yesterday in its 2½ per cent rediscount rate, and the Bank of England also made no change. The weekly statement of the federal reserve system showed some increase in the demand for commercial credit.

The New York reserve bank reported an increase of $14,075,000 in member bank borrowings, bringing them to $38,153,000. But bankers' acceptances receded $25,511,000. Deposits fell $14,899,000. Reserves expanded $13,771,000 and the reserve ratio rose to 88.9 per cent, compared with 85.9 per cent a week ago. At Chicago, member bank borrowings increased $3,410,000 to a total of $19,033,000. Bankers' acceptances rose $1,608,000. Deposits fell $4,846,000. Reserves declined $13,531,000 and the reserve ratio sagged to 86.2 per cent, compared with 87.2 per cent a week ago.

M. H. KARKER. [Walinger Photo.]

The proposal calls for the organization of Van Camp's Food, Inc., which will acquire all the assets of Van Camp and will receive $2,500,000 in cash, to be raised through issuance of 6 per cent participating cumulative convertible preferred stock of an authorized issue of $3,000,000.

Under the plan, Jewel Tea is to acquire $1,250,000 of the preferred stock, and the remaining $1,250,000 is to be underwritten by Lehman Brothers and Hitt, Farwell & Co., and offered to depositors of the various classes of Van Camp stock.

In addition to the fixed dividend of 6 per cent, the new participating preferred stock will be entitled to one-half of net earnings, after preferred dividends, up to an additional 10 per cent of its par value.

The plan further calls for the conversion of the $1,000,000 6½ per cent convertible prior preference stock into $1,000,000 6 per cent cumulative convertible second preferred stock and the conversion of $2,159,850 of 7 per cent preferred stock, $25 par, on a basis of two shares of common for one preferred, requiring the issuance of 172,788 shares of common stock.

BUYING WAVES REVERSE WHEAT MARKET TREND

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The wheat market reversed its recent action and was as strong yesterday as it has been weak for a number of weeks, prices dipping slightly early only to rally 3⅝@3¾c from the inside figures, the strongest upturn in one day since early in March.

Wave after wave of buying orders came into the pit which swept aside all opposition from the bears, and while the finish was on a slight recession from the top, final sales showed net gains of 2⅝@3½c with the December leading. July closed at 91¾@91⅝c, and September, 95@95⅛c. December was $1.00⅞@1.01 at the last.

While a good part of the effective buying which started wheat values upward was attributed to short covering by a large professional grain and stock operator, there was also buying by Minneapolis, some of which was said to be against liberal sales of flour to the domestic trade, and it was understood that both American and Canadian mills had made good export sales in the past few days.

Canada Needs Rain.

There was a noticeable lack of hedging pressure during the day despite receipts of around 1,400 cars at the leading southwestern markets, and a good part of the wheat was said to be going into store.

Crop comments from the Canadian northwest were much more pessimistic as numerous points have received insufficient moisture for the new wheat crop. Winnipeg gained 3@3¼c for the day and messages from there during the day indicated that a number of professional speculators had deserted the bear side of the market for the time being. Threshing returns from the winter wheat belt indicated that yields generally were running somewhat ahead of expectations. Liverpool showed more strength than expected and closed ¾@⅞d higher with unfavorable crop comments from France and Russia a factor.

Corn Rallies After Break.

Local operators were on the selling side of corn early on favorable weather conditions over the main belt, and were able to force the December off 1⅝c from Wednesday's finish to 66¾c, a new low on the crop. When wheat started upward shorts started to cover and disclosed an oversold condition and the close was ½@⅞c higher, July being 75⅝@75½c, and September, 74c.

Recent hot weather has forced the new crop along at a rapid rate, according to official returns. Movement of old corn throughout the west is small, and the shipping demand good, sales here being 110,000 bu, while the spot basis was steady to ¾c higher as compared with the July.

Oats failed to reflect the strength in other grains, closing unchanged to ⅛c higher with July, 35¾c, and September, 36¾@36⅞c. Houses with northwestern connections and the local element sold, while cash interests were buyers.

Buying of rye against sales of other grains with short covering on the strength in the latter resulted in the rye gaining 2c for the day. July was 46½c, and September, 51⅛c at the last.

IMPROVED TONE IS APPARENT IN BOND TRADING

New York, June 26.—(AP)—An improved tone was apparent in the bond market today and gains exceeded losses for the first time in several days. A wide list of corporation issues, both liens and convertibles, appreciated. Most of the rally came in the late trading.

There was a marked absence of distress selling although advances were not large, except among convertibles in which a definite rally was sustained, the market regained its stability and rising tendencies were the rule. An upturn in the share market and the ½ per cent reduction in the call money rate, now at the lowest point since 1917, contributed to the recovery.

Mechanical Trend Reduces Wheat Production Costs

BY SCRUTATOR.

Mechanical trends in farming indicate that the great basic crops which are sold in the world market will in the future have to be grown on the distant and sparsely settled lands—assuming that location is a large factor in land valuation.

Wheat is the crop which occupies most attention in the public mind. It is grown everywhere in the temperate zones and consumed by the billions of bushels annually. Its downward price tendency in the last year has carried the federal farm board into ventures that seem to have resulted in heavy losses.

A basic reason for the fall in price lies in the attractiveness of producing wheat at the price levels, say, of the spring of 1929. That attractiveness in turn is due to the mechanical aids that have been developed for its economical production. In particular, since 1925 the rise of the combine machine has been spectacular.

Value of Machines.

The United States, which produced only about 5,000 of these in that year, had an output of 25,392 in 1928 and 36,957 in 1929. The total value of the machines produced in these last two years exceeded eighty-six million dollars. Of this about twenty-six million dollars' worth was exported, leaving sixty million dollars' worth of wheat production machinery added in this form alone to the equipment of American farmers.

The combine is a device that not only harvests the grain, performing the work formerly done by the reaper and the harvester but also thrashes it. It is a time and labor saver. It has all but done away with the transient workers who once roamed from the southwest into Canada following the harvest.

It might be said that the combine, with the tractor and multiplows, has taken nearly all the emphasis in the raising of wheat and its preparation for market from human labor in the field and placed it on efficient use of capital.

Relation to Labor.

This machine is adapted to large operations where labor is scarce. Labor is scarce where population is sparse. Argentina and Canada are the big users of the combine outside the United States. Argentinians took more than 9,000 and Canadians more than 6,500 from this country in the last two years. Russia, Algeria, and Tunisia, Uruguay, and British East Africa were the other leading combine buying countries.

In all these countries the combine is making it constantly cheaper to produce wheat. The thickly settled countries of Europe, unadapated to its use, seem destined to be driven gradually out of wheat production, unless tariffs keep out the grain of the low cost, efficient countries. Something almost similar has occurred in the United States, where wheat growing is forced, as a paying proposition, west of the Mississippi.

Human labor can be used extensively only on high priced land. The machine development of agriculture has benefited the low priced lands most, and these in future seem to hold the key to the staple crop prices.

New York, June 26.—The battling bulls got the upper hand once more on the stock exchange today and proceeded to take their friends, the enemy, on a little trip across the hot sands.

The extent of their triumph was recorded in a long series of gains of from 2 to 15 points, distributed without much distinction among the railroads, industrials, public utilities, and favorite specialties.

It was one of the biggest days the forces of construction have enjoyed since the market began going on the blink nearly a month ago. It was the first day, indeed, in all this time that

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES GAIN IN QUIET SESSION

Bendix Aviation Climbs 2 Points Higher.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Further moderate recovery was made by stocks on the Chicago exchange yesterday in one of the quietest trading sessions witnessed here in weeks. Transactions barely exceeded 200,000 shares, a large percentage of which consisted of dealings in a flurry of activity in Bendix Aviation, which developed late in the day, carried the stock up around 2 points. The spurt in the stock was one of the features of the trading which left carried on generally in a listless fashion by the professionals.

Filing of a $30,000,000 suit against Insull Corporation and associated companies by Grigsby-Grunow had little influence on the market action of the company's stock which moved slowly on moderately heavy turnover and closed the day a fraction higher.

Retrieves Loss.

Among the best gainers of the day were General Theaters, Noblitt-Sparks, and Insull Utility. The latter sold off moderately on early trades but recovered all of its loss and finished an even point higher. A single trade of 50 shares was made in Burnham Trading at 4, 3½ points below Wednesday's close. Creditable improvement among the motor and accessory shares was made by Auburn, Reliance Manufacturing, and Modine.

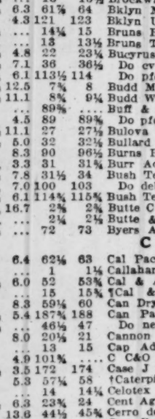
Announcement was made in Indianapolis yesterday that Merchants and Manufacturers Securities company has acquired the business of William A. Zumpfe of that city. The Chicago company will take over a chain of firms formerly operated by Mr. Zumpfe interests in Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and Ohio.

Still another company has a proposal to pass a regular dividend. Directors of the Ground Gripper shoe company have passed the quarterly dividend of 75 cents which is due at this time on the preferred shares.

Bulova Earnings.

Bulova Watch company and subsidiaries report net earnings for the 12 months period ended March 31 of $1,558,231. For the twelve months ended Dec. 31, last, the company reports net profits of $1,584,495, showing that the company sustained a loss of $26,734 during the first three months of 1930.

Earnings for the twelve months period were equivalent to $5.24 a share on the outstanding common stock. The company's balance sheet as of March 31 reveals current assets of $7,843,551 and current liabilities of $1,080,566.



BRYSON SAYS PUBLIC IS NOW IN SAVING MOOD

Stock market excesses and commodity speculation has led to a new spirit of caution in the buying public which should be met with conservative appeal and intelligent advertising, A. E. Bryson, vice president of Halsey, Stuart & Co., told members of the Illinois State Bankers' association in convention at Peoria.

Bryson urged bankers to speed up their promotional activities in advertising, etc., in order to benefit by existing conditions. With the public in a saving and investing mood bankers should prepare to take advantage of the situation, he said.

TIDE TURNS AT LAST IN STOCK MART TRADING

Sweeping Gains Rung Up Throughout List.

they were able to carry their operations forward without a single setback of consequence. True, the bears did launch a selling drive around midmorning, but it was a rather lukewarm little affair and got nowhere to speak of. And it wound up with the shorts taking to the tall timber in all directions. They were still scooting for cover when the gong put an end to the day's slaughter.

Good News Budget.

While there was more than an ordinary budget of good news to stimulate enthusiasm on the side of the rise, the new order of things was probably due as much as anything else to a growing feeling that price deflation has about run its course—for the time being at least.

They have been saying for several days that the market had reached a sold out position, but prices had been settling steadily lower in spite of all the forward looking diagnoses. Today it began to look as if the "experts" might be right after all. Among the news developments of a helpful character were the action of the American Tobacco corporation directors in declaring the stock splitup and "surprise" extra dividend; the lowest call rate in 13 years—1½ per cent; stronger commodity markets, and a series of encouraging dispatches from Washington, particularly those bearing on the unemployment situation, coming from the department of labor. Also, there was an interesting rumor that a new group had taken a bullish position in Radio, and this did no harm, even though the some time pivotal did little to show that any special efforts were being exerted in its behalf today.

Largest Gains.

Among the more spectacular gains during the day were Ingersoll Rand, up 15 points; American Tobacco, up 14; American Machine and Foundry, 12; Allied Chemical and Dye, 8¾; Eastman Kodak, 10; Norfolk and Western, 8¼; Case Thrashing, 8; Peoples Gas, 7½, and Worthington Pump, 7¼ points.

With its much talked about and long awaited dividend cut finally a matter of record, Anaconda perked up briskly, going ahead for a net gain of more than 4 points; other coppers also firmed up noticeably.

Of all the group movements, however, rails made the sharpest recoveries considering the number of shares traded in, which was not surprising in view of their recent acute weakness. Gains among the leaders of the division ranged as high as 7 points and were quite general.

On the whole, the market was a professional affair pure and simple, the turnover declining to 2,272,080 shares—more than a million less than yesterday's total.

ANACONDA COPPER AND 3 SUBSIDIARIES CUT DIVIDEND RATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—Predictions that Anaconda Copper Mining company and its two subsidiaries, Andes and Greene Cananea, would vote to lower their dividend rates were fulfilled today when directors of the leading producers met and announced a quarterly dividend of 87½ cents a share, placing the stock on a $3.50 annual basis compared with $7 a year heretofore.

Directors of Andes Copper declared a quarterly dividend of 37½ or $1.50 a year. As in the case of Anaconda, the new rate was one-half the amount paid previously. Directors of the Anaconda Wire & Cable declared a dividend of 37½ cents, placing the stock on $1.50 annual basis, compared with $3 previously paid.

The largest dividend cut was announced by Greene Cananea Copper, whose directors voted a quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share, equal to $3 yearly. Previously the company had been paying $2 quarterly, or $8 a year.

Directors of the Blue Ridge corporation, formed last summer by the Goldman Sachs Trading corporation and the Shenandoah corporation, announced an initial dividend of 20 cents a share on the common stock, payable Aug. 1 to owners of record July 5.

Directors of Tobacco Products corportation have declared a quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share on the class A stock. Dividends on this stock were passed Oct. 30 last. The directors authorized a statement that the company now is entirely out of debt and that resumption of dividends on the class A stock at the rate of 20 cents quarterly now is possible out of current earnings.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat prices have declined to a level where they are attracting more attention of trade throughout the world and commission houses report that they are receiving numerous inquiries as to the advisability of buying wheat on any further break, or even at present prices. Liquidation has been severe; a good sized short interest has been created, and after a two weeks' break traders are disposed to take a more constructive view.

Sentiment in the corn trade is more divided. Every sale of December, a new crop, is practically a short commitment.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—Print cloths sold today on a basis of 5c for spots of 38½ inch 64x60s, a price stated to be 3c per lb under cost. The liquidation of retail stocks was leading to unusually low prices on some of the more staple lines. Raw silk was weak and the demand light. Silk goods were being sold at clearance sales levels. Burlaps were easy and quiet. Wool goods were in light request.

GRAIN BOARD TO SUSPEND WHEAT SELLING—LEGGE

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—Chairman Legge of the farm board said today the grain trade need have no apprehension of competition from the wheat held by the Grain Stabilization corporation during the coming months when farmers will be moving the 1930 crop to market, unless in the meantime prices rise to the level at which purchases were made.

In no event, he said, will this 1929 "stabilization wheat" be thrown on the market to depress prices.

The chairman made the announcement as a statement coming from George S. Milnor, president and general manager of the Grain Stabilization corporation, at Chicago.

"The Grain Stabilization corporation discontinued the sale of wheat when the new crop began moving, with the exception of a few small lots to millers who were unable to take care of their immediate needs from any other source," the statement continued.

"While the visible supply of wheat in this country is somewhat in excess of that of a year ago—a fact grain traders are emphasizing—the amount of 1929 wheat withdrawn from the market by the Grain Stabilization corporation is approximately three times the amount of that increase, leaving the amount of wheat on the market substantially below last year's figure."

C. B. Denman, farm board member for live stock, in a statement today predicted more stable prices for beef. Denman said he felt reductions in the retail price of dressed beef would lead to the disposal of a temporary surplus and an ensuing price stabilization. He added that in his opinion there was no national surplus of beef cattle.

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine West of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam. Catherine tells him that she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is mysterious about the coming visit because she had received just before sailing a letter from Germaine Cushing, who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and he tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs. He had heard that she was ill.

Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment Catherine is treated coldly by the servants. Then Mme. Bender's maid, tells her that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the day before. The next morning Catherine goes in to see Germaine, who is pathetically glad to see her. She tells Catherine how she had taken poison by mistake.

Geoffrey invites Catherine to dine with him and she tells him of her vague fears. He is disturbed, too.

The next morning Catherine calls on Miss Cushing, who takes her to her milliner, where she sees a man she had noticed hanging around the Bender apartment. Back in the apartment she finds the gallery open for the first time and a number of pictures and statues missing. Jeanne says they were sold shortly before Mr. Bender's death. Catherine feels she is lying. She finds Jeanne is exerting a baneful influence on Mme. Bender. Geoffrey again takes Catherine out to dinner, and she unburdens herself to him. He promptly put an investigator on the case. He asks her to marry him, but she wants to be certain of her feelings. Catherine goes to visit Geoffrey's sister at Fontainebleau.

Geoffrey discovers Blom, the mysterious person seen around the Bender apartment, is being a possible heir to the Bender fortune. Shortly after this discovery Blom's engagement to Mme. Baron, Miss Cushing's milliner, a widow whose maiden name is the family name of Mme. Bender, is announced.

A fire breaks out in Mme. Bender's apartment early in the morning, and she is burned to death. Most of the building is saved. Catherine had returned suddenly to Paris the night before. The servants deny to Geoffrey that she came to the apartment. Geoffrey questions Eduardo, the butler, to Blom's office. He sends for his investigator to watch Blom, then calls on the commissariat de police, who assigns Inspector Bazin to the case. Catherine did return to Mme. Bender's apartment. Before retiring she smells smoke and finds it is coming from her cousin's room. The door is locked. She dashes to get help and arouse Jeanne, who fights with her to prevent her from opening madam's door. She sees the butler carrying a heavy candlestick—and then a crushing blow on the head will rob her of consciousness.

Geoffrey's sister, Elspeth, meets him at the Bender apartment. She looks over Catherine's belongings and finds a hat Catherine wore on her visit at Fontainebleau. Geoffrey receives a telegram signed by Catherine stating she is well and would telephone him on the morrow. After the first shock of joy he becomes doubtful about the message. He sees the inspector to watch, from a room across the street, the Bender apartment building. On regaining consciousness Catherine finds herself in a strange bedroom, bound and gagged. After darkness Jeanne and Eduardo enter, release her and take her outside.

INSTALLMENT LXXVII.

THE WATCH.

Crushed by despair Catherine felt her legs give beneath her, but she was borne up strongly and propelled with haste to an adjacent turning, where in the shelter of overhanging trees stood an empty car. Almost before she could grasp what was happening she found herself upon the deep seat inside, with Jeanne whispering in a tone of triumph,

"There, mademoiselle, that was neatly done, I think!"

A few seconds passed while Eduardo placed the bag and hatbox on the floor at their feet and climbed into the driver's place. The engine started, but they did not move. Instead, in the darkness Catherine felt rather than saw the two servants straining round to look behind them, their attitude full of alert expectancy. Were they waiting for something?

From out of the gloom rapid steps sounded coming towards the car. The girl's heart gave a wild leap. Some one was approaching, a possible rescuer, perhaps. O! if only she could scream or at least make some sign to attract attention! With a mad effort she threw herself forward, her head colliding with the glass in front. Immediately she was violently seized and thrust back again.

"Ah, you would, would you?" There was a smothered imprecation.

The next instant the door at her side was flung open and a man, out of breath from hurrying, got in. There was just sufficient light to discern a dark and white face close to hers beneath the brim of a wide hat, and two eyes fixed upon her with a cold, unwinking stare.

The watchers in the commandant's window sat in almost unbroken silence.

She shuddered with sudden nausea. They were the eyes of Adolph Blom. Simultaneously the car lurched forward. They were off.

. . . . . .

Eleven o'clock had sounded.

The watchers at the commandant's study window sat in almost unbroken silence, their eyes glued to the building across the way. In the window opposite a glow still showed, suggesting that at least one of the occupants of the flat was yet awake.

Suddenly a peal from the telephone ripped the stillness in two. Geoffrey jumped, while the inspector reached his hand towards the instrument. Almost his first words showed that the call was for him.

"You have lost him? Where? How long ago?" Then a pause followed by an exclamation of mingled annoyance and resignation. "Zut! Well, he is gone now. No telling where he has got to by now."

He replaced the receiver and in reply to his companion's glance whispered, "It was one of my men who has been covering the entrance to the detective's bureau. Half an hour ago Blom went out, got into the Metro at the Place Clichy, took a train and made two or three changes. At the Concorde he disappeared in the crowd, so all our vigilance is gone for nothing."

"Do you think he is up to anything in connection with this business?"

Bazin shrugged. "Who knows?" It would not surprise me if he took a hand, for if our conclusions are right he is in a very nasty position. However, we can be very sure of one thing—he did not take any part in getting the young lady away last night. I have proved that he spent the entire evening up till two at the apartment of Mme. Baron, who was giving a party. Consequently, if anything was done it was those two over there who managed it. That is why I am concentrating on the house itself, for in the extremely short time at their disposal they could not possibly have removed her any distance."

Geoffrey grasped his meaning. Alive or dead Catherine must at this moment be somewhere in the immediate vicinity. His harassed eyes explored the facade opposite, vainly striving to fathom the secret of her hiding place.

"Ah, that is the question," remarked the inspector in answer to his unspoken query. "There is not an inch of those premises which has been overlooked. We have searched all the apartments and the servants' quarters above. There is no sign of her or of the bags she brought home."

"Yet she must be there!" muttered Geoffrey. "What about the space between the flooring? There is a gap where the fire burned through."

"I examined it myself."

"And the roof itself? Is it easy to get out on to it?"

"Simple enough by means of the usual trapdoor, but it, too, has been inspected."

Leaning forward, Geoffrey studied the parapet. It extended along a group of five houses, the line varying in height and shape, but continuous. After the fifth house came a break before a second group began.

"I wonder," he said suddenly, "if there are any vacant apartments in that row?"

"Not one. I am informed there has not been an apartment to let in any of those houses for three years."

A groan escaped Geoffrey. In spite of himself it began to look as though they were on the wrong tack after all. Perhaps it was true that, distracted by grief and shock, Catherine had wandered off and found some means of leaving the city. Then the telegram recurred to him and he rejected the idea. Much as he longed to believe that it had come from her, the evidence against the supposition was overpowering. No, the message was patently false, and as obviously contrived to serve a definite purpose. Bazin must be right. The words "but will telephone tomorrow" surely meant that something was planned to take place before that time. Seven hours at most remained. Meanwhile, the minutes were slipping away. . . .

His reflections were broken by a touch on his arm.

"Look!"

Following the direction of the pointing finger he saw that the light opposite had been extinguished. What did it mean? Were the two over there going harmlessly to bed or did they merely wish the outside world to believe they were doing so?

"They can't do anything without getting out first," muttered Geoffrey to himself.

Ten minutes passed, then Geoffrey knew that he could no longer support the maddening inaction.

"I am going out," he said jerkily. "Not far, and I shall keep this window within sight. If you want me, tie your handkerchief to the knob of the casement. I shall be able to see it."

"Very well, monsieur," assented his companion tolerantly. "But use the back exit, and if you cross the street let it be farther along out of range of those windows over there. For all we know they are watching to see if the coast is clear."

It took but a few seconds to descend the dimly lighted stairs and emerge into the side street. With his hat low over his eyes and the collar of his coat well up Geoffrey set out at a brisk pace to make a tour of the neighborhood. Without stopping he inspected the darkened windows along the turning, then after a brief detour came back again, recrossed the avenue lower down and, pursuing an idea that had come to him during the recent conversation, walked boldly into the loge of the house adjoining the corner one.

6 Ft. 4 In. King Opens Ancient Icelandic Rite

Stands on Rock, Seat of Oldest Parliament.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THINGVELLIR, Iceland, June 26—A thousand years almost to the day after its foundation, the Iceland parliament — the Althing — met again this morning on Logberg—the law rock—on the historic plain of Thingvellir. It was the identical spot, where the freemen of Iceland, who fled the tyranny of Harold, the Fair Haired, had convened to hear their law giver recite the Icelandic code. King Christian X. of Iceland and Denmark, who stands six feet four inches, opened the 1930 session from the famous rock on which had been placed the master's chair from a Masonic lodge in guise of a throne.

The plain of Thingvalla is the most romantically situated parliamentary site in the world. The wide plain is hemmed in by snowclad mountains and is divided by the rapid flowing Oxara river. Today the plain is studded with thousands of tents, just as in the old days when the priests and chieftains of Iceland rode from the most remote corner of the island for the Althing and spent weeks in booths built of stone and sod.

It is difficult to get any estimate of the number of people here, but the tents house more than 10,000, including 2,000 Americans and Canadians, mostly of Icelandic descent. The main street of the tent town is like Coney Island. Hot dog stands, soda fountains, banana and orange stands, and full fledged grocery stores are in tents on every side.

The day was opened with divine service in the Almannagji gorge, the great volcanic rift which runs down one side of the plain. The rites were conducted by the bishop of Iceland. King Christian, together with Queen Alexandrine, Crown Prince Gustav Adolf of Sweden, and other dignataries attended the ceremony.

The bishop preached a sermon from a pulpit erected on a volcanic rock 50 feet high with the natural cliff as a sounding board behind him. His voice probably was heard clearly by 5,000 to 6,000 people.

After the service followed a procession to the law rock led by King Christian and Prime Minister Tryggvi Thorhalsson. After a speech of welcome by the prime minister, King Christian in a short speech declared the Althing open, and the prime minister called for cheers for the king. These were the first really hearty cheers the ruler received since his arrival in Iceland. The morning session was concluded by an oration by the president of the Althing, Asgeir Asgerzon, who traced the history of Iceland as a law making, law abiding nation from the year 930 to the present date.

After lunch the Althing convened again to hear short messages from the parliamentary delegations of other countries. Senator Peter Norbeck of South Dakota, speaking for the United States, declared the history of America really began with the colonization of western Greenland by the Icelanders, and stressed America's welcome and admiration for the Icelandic settlers, who have kept alive the link between the new republic and one of the oldest in fact, if not always in form.

New Peoria Bishop Is Installed Amid Splendor of Church

Peoria, Ill., June 26.—[Special.]—Peoria's third Catholic bishop, the Rt. Rev. Joseph H. Schlarman of Belleville, Ill., was installed into office amid all the pomp and splendor of Catholic rituals at St. Mary's cathedral today.

As his eminence Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, placed the symbols of authority of a bishop upon the prelate the ancient "Te Deum," significant of praise and thanksgiving, broke from the bishop's lips and was taken up by the choir.

More than one thousand persons, some of the highest dignitaries of the Catholic church in Illinois, packed the huge cathedral, while hundreds swarmed about the edifice to receive the services through loud speakers scattered about the exterior of the church.

Cardinal Mundelein spoke briefly, stating that he had come here from Chicago to congratulate the clergy and the people of Peoria and to assure them he bespoke the belief of the church, as a representative of the holy father, that every support would be given the new bishop.

The cardinal then conducted Bishop Schlarman to the bishop's throne, conferring upon him the crozier, symbolical of authority and jurisdiction in the diocese.

Father Bergan, on behalf of the clergy of the Peoria diocese as well as the 120,000 members of the Catholic faith, extended a heartfelt welcome to the new bishop.

When the clergy had completed paying homage, Bishop Schlarman addressed the clergy and people.

"I seem to feel the protective hand of my two illustrious predecessors," Bishop Schlarman said. "I want to be a father to you as they were. Their deeds are engraved on the hearts and faces of many people and in letters of gold in the book of life.

"I wish to serve you holding discipline with loving purposes, all actions of authority tempered with meekness. I wish my office to be administered in the service of love."

Bishop Schlarman is a native of Illinois, having been born in Germantown, Clinton county, in 1879. He was ordained as a priest in Austria in 1904 and later became pastor of St. Peter's church at Belleville.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

Is the proposed transit ordinance good or bad?

The Answers.

J. J. Buelting, Bartlett, Ill., accountant.—I favor the ordinance if it will improve transportation facilities in the city of Chicago and create positions for some who at present are out of work and in need. It certainly will do more good than bad and something must be done at once to relieve the situation.

Mrs. Lillian Richards, 1737 North Lawndale avenue, housewife.—I think it will be a good thing for the city from a standpoint of developing property that otherwise would be overlooked and it will certainly relieve our poor transportation facilities. It's going to be very convenient to take advantage of the interchangeable transfers.

E. D. Wolff, 1020 Lawrence avenue, police sergeant for C., M., St. P. & P. R. R.—With the depression in business at the present time, I feel sure the ordinance will, if passed, be one of the greatest things for Chicago that has ever been promoted. There is no question but what the city is constantly expanding and needs the speedy and better transportation that will be provided.

Mrs. Dick Livingstone, 1337 Fargo avenue, housewife.—I am very much in favor of the ordiance. It will relieve the present cramped transportation facilities, give districts that at present are without suitable facilities better transportation and the interchangeable transfers will be another wonderful help. It will also be an aid to the unemployed, and will during the ten year construction period create work for a great army of people.

C. F. Rank, 4342 Parker avenue, mail and express traffic manager.—I favor the ordinance if it will tend to improve transportation facilities for the people of Chicago and make our city more attractive in this respect to transients. It would also furnish work to many of the unemployed and create a spirit of satisfaction among our people.

Children Share Ravinia's Joys with Parents

Concert and 'Aida' Make It a Full Day.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Ravinia did double service yesterday, with a children's concert in the afternoon and a performance of "Aida" in the evening. The children's entertainment comprised on orchestral program played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra and conducted by Eric De Lamarter. It was greatly enjoyed, though squeals of delight from the young audience rose somewhat higher in the second part, when an animal circus with dogs, horses, a mule and a baboon took the center of the proceedings.

"Aida" in the Ravinia version has to make concessions to time and train schedules, so two scenes are omitted, those of the temple and the triumphs. From a dramatic standpoint the cuts are justified, for nothing happens to advance the progress of the piece in these sections, whatever may be done in the way of pageantry and scenic display.

But though attending "Aida" in its complete version is something like being present at a three ring circus, there is also something to be considered when one hears, as one does at Ravinia, Giovanni Martinelli stop the show with his address to heavenly Aida and Elisabeth Rethberg do the same thing with her invocation to her fatherland during the Nile scene. These were examples of just about perfect vocalism, quite the best that have been heard since the last time they sang them.

There were other features that remain pleasant memories, among them the dramatic flame with which Ina Bourskaya as Amneris surrounded the judgment scene, the splendid singing of Giuseppe Danise in his brief part in the Nile scene, a superb performance of the high priest by Virgilio Lazzari and the fine dignity of voice and manner by Louis D'Angelo as the king. These and several others like them make Ravinia's "Aida" distinctly worth while.

MRS. ANNA RAYMOND GIVES U. OF C. THREE LAW SCHOLARSHIPS

The first permanent scholarship fund in the University of Chicago law school was announced yesterday by the university trustees. The gift was $36,000 from Mrs. Anna L. Raymond of Chicago, who stipulated that the scholarships be awarded for strength of character and for personal qualities as well as for unusual ability in law. Income from the fund, to be a memorial to the late James Nelson Raymond, husband of the donor, will be used to create three scholarships a year of $600 each.

"Mrs. Raymond is interested in encouraging the exceptional student rather than the average, therefore she has established three larger scholarships rather than several small ones," Dean Harry A. Bigelow said yesterday.

Previous gifts to the university by Mrs. Raymond were the $30,000 James N. Raymond fund for the law library for the securing of unusual publications, and $100,831 in 1925 to establish a chair in the medical school.

Routine of Life in Antarctic Told by Admiral Byrd

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Daily life in the antarctic was described by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd to the members of the Bond club of New York at a luncheon given in his honor today at the Bankers' club. The admiral's hosts were given a glimpse of the difficulties and problems that confronted the expedition during its long stay in the frozen south. They were told how the relief ship, Eleanor Bolling, was almost crushed by an iceberg, how the dogs stood the cold temperature, about the food and the clothing and the few recreations that the men were able to indulge in.

Admiral Byrd also briefly contrasted conditions in the arctic and the antarctic.

"The south pole," said Admiral Byrd, "is on a great plateau with an altitude of 10,000 feet. The north pole is in a frozen sea and instead of altitude there is a distinct depression. There is no snow during the arctic summer, but the antarctic is never without its mantle of snow. We lived on the Great Ross barrier for 14 months, but there is much that we do not know about it. We did see, however, that it did not end where other explorers had thought."

Underprivileged Children Are Guests at Picnic

Washington Park was filled yesterday with several thousand underprivileged children who were guests of the Volunteers of America at their 35th annual picnic. There were lunch boxes for every one, even for the small toddlers who came with their older brothers and sisters. And there wasn't a busier place in the park than the ice cream and lemonade stands where a lineup continued long after meal time. Col. H. Smith, regimental commander, had charge of the picnic.

Physicians Pick Dr. E. S. Judd as Future Leader

Mayo Clinic Surgeon Wins at Detroit Convention.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., June 26.—[Special.]—Dr. Edward Starr Judd, prominent surgeon of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., emerged president elect of the American Medical association this afternoon in a contested election which gave him but one vote plurality over his leading opponent, Dr. E. H. Cary of Dallas. The five day convention, which has brought together almost 4,000 physicians, will close tomorrow afternoon. Next year it will meet in Philadelphia.

DR. E. S. JUDD.

Dr. Judd was a surprise candidate brought forward only as the nominations were being made from the floor of the house of delegates at the Hotel Statler. He was injected into the fight when two Texas physicians, Dr. Cary and Dr. M. L. Graves, also of Dallas, had both been presented. Dr. Graves' supporters are thought to have thrown their support to Judd and the final vote stood: Judd, 74; Cary, 69; and Graves, 4. Dr. Cary's supporters then moved that the vote be declared unanimous for the winner and it was so ordered.

Just before the delegates bent to their election duties they came forward in a gesture against the part of the prohibition law which forces physicians to place their patient's name and the nature of his disease upon liquor and narcotic prescription blanks.

Objections to this decree were based upon the confidence of the patient to his physician, which the doctors likened to "the confessions of the penitent to his priest and the communications of the client to his counsel." These have been held inviolate from remote ages and have been jealously guarded by the courts and so should diseases treated by liquor, reasoned the delegates. A resolution asking this action was presented Monday by Dr. Jen Vanderver in behalf of the New York State Medical society and received the approval of the judicial council before it passed to the attention of the lawmaking body. Every effort will be made to so amend the dry law.

Action similar to that which they took Tuesday when they rapped the veterans' bill, vetoed today by President Hoover, was taken when the physicians also voted to send copies of a resolution condemning such legislation as the Sheppard-Towner maternity and infancy act to the President and congress.

"Any legislation," read this resolution, "which involves coöperation between the federal government and the several states in the field of public health must, in the interest of efficiency and economy, be administered, in the judgment of the house of delegates, under the joint supervision and control of the United States public health service and the state health authorities."

A major discovery in the field of diagnosis was announced today in the radiology section. There Dr. Arthur Bins of Berlin made known the uses of a new dye, uroseleptan, which is calculated to do away with much of the guesswork hitherto encountered in diagnosing kidney diseases.

Administered by injection, the dye stains the kidneys, and under X-rays they stand out as clearly as the bone structure. It is thus possible for diagnosticians to determine the exact condition of the organs and ascertain, for example, the number and position of kidney stones. For his work in this direction Dr. Bins was made an honorary member of the American Urological association.

Other announcements and papers given before various sections of the associations dealt with hay fever, pneumonia, anemia, and rheumatism.

The word to the hay fever sufferers was principally to avoid marriage to another so afflicted, no matter how strong the bond of sympathy might be. Dr. Leon Unger of Chicago also applied this doctrine to asthma and hives. He advised that the children of afflicted persons be kept on careful diets, be forbidden contacts with animals, fur coats, and house dust.

HOW TO KEEP FROM GROWING OLD

Here's New Plan for Making Pie for Sunday Use

Prepare the Crust on Saturday.

BY META GIVEN.

Week-end planning for many often includes the making of pie for Sunday dessert. Others purposely omit pie from the program because they feel it involves too much work. We have become such discriminating pie eaters in these modern days that we would never think of baking a pie on Saturday and serving it for Sunday dinner, unless it might be mince pie.

For those who object to the making of pie but who enjoy eating it, we are offering a new plan: Make your crust on Saturday, wrap it carefully, put it into a covered bowl and place in the ice box all ready to be rolled out Sunday morning and baked while you are getting breakfast, or better still, bake a crust on Saturday and keep it cool and dry until Sunday dinner. Then fill with some chilled, sweetened fresh fruit—strawberries, raspberries or sliced peaches. Top with sweetened whipped cream into which has been folded some sweetened crushed fruit. Your family will thank you for this new kind of pie. After that you will only be concerned about the making of perfect pastry.

Appearance of Good Pie.

Good pie is light, flaky and delicate with a surface that has a blistered appearance. Poor pie is stodgy, firm in texture with a smooth surface.

The lightness of pastry depends, for one thing, upon including the greatest quantity of the coldest air prior to baking. The air fills small cavities all over the paste. Soft wheat or pastry flour makes the lightest, most tender pastry. Hard wheat flour may be used for making pastry, but unless a large amount of fat is used the pastry will be tough.

There are many cooks who use baking powder in pie crust to make it light, but this is a sign that the cook is not sure of her pastry making. The best pastry may be made without any leavening agent. Lightness may be obtained in two ways: [1] by sifting flour before it is measured. This introduces air. [2] With the use of cold water. The tiny drops of water that hold the flour fat particles together expand in the baking to give the product lightness.

Fat of Pleasing Flavor.

The fat, of course, should be one of pleasing flavor. Any vegetable or animal fat may be used. Some are preferred to others. Until recently butter was favored, but those who have made an experimental study of pastry making find it is more difficult to make a tender crust with butter than with other fats. This is due to the fact that butter is not a pure fat; it is only about 85 per cent fat. The more favored fats are lard and the hydrogenated varieties.

Salt, the other dry ingredient, is necessary to give flavor. Most people prefer more salt in pastry than in other baked products, considering the quantity of flour used. Water is generally the liquid used, but milk may be substituted. Pastry containing milk browns to a richer color than one made with water.

All of the ingredients should be cold—flour, fat, water.

The best way for the inexperienced is to add the cold fat to the flour and cut it quickly into the flour with two knives. Mixing may be done just as well with the hands. There is a tendency, however, for those who are just learning to overmix. The warmth of the hands melts the fat and coats the flour particles with grease, which prevents the absorption of enough water to make the pastry flaky.

I find the best way is to cut the fat into the flour with two knives until particles are about the size of a hazel nut, then finish with the fingers. The appearance of properly mixed fat and flour for pastry is that of dry, coarse cornmeal.

Russia Sets Up Canning Factory for Sweet Corn

Russia is setting up a model corn canning factory this year through installation of American machinery, which makes the Russian government the first outside of the United States and Canada to begin the canning of corn according to information from machinery manufacturers who have sold the equipment.

Several American experts have been hired to oversee this project. It is not expected the factory will be completed in time for operation in 1930.

Capacity of the plant will be between 50,000 and 65,000 cases in a season, or requiring 1,000 to 1,200 acres if the Russian farmers are able to equal sweet corn production of the north central states. In the United States three principal canned foods, peas, corn, and tomatoes, comprise 18 per cent of the gigantic canning industry, producing around $775,000,000 worth of foods per year, according to government figures.

Delicious New Cookie simplifies child feeding

Crisp...crunchy...delectably good to eat!

DON'T coax children to eat! Don't force childish appetites. For scientists at two great universities have made an amazing new health cookie for children that makes harmful "coaxing to eat" unnecessary.

Studied 7,000 children!

These scientists studied the food needs of over 7,000 children! They saw delicate, not-quite-well children transformed into sturdy youngsters that fairly bloomed with health. Just by adding the necessary vitamins and minerals to their diet.

And yet they saw many children denied this perfect health. Because even urging and coaxing often fails to get children to eat the foods which supply all the different vitamins and minerals growing little bodies need.

So they took from wholesome foods the elements so vitally necessary to child health and combined them into a delicious cookie they called "SunWheats."

What SunWheats do

Before SunWheats came, you had to know just what vitamins and minerals various foods contained. Then coax, urge, and often force, childish appetites to make sure they ate all these foods.

By the new method, you give children only as much of wholesome foods as their appetite craves! Then supply deficiencies by allowing them to have all the SunWheats they want. Thus you do away with harmful coaxing. You let SunWheats safeguard health. Start at once to give your child the benefit of this protection. Serve SunWheats with meals, as a delicious dessert, and between meals. Your grocer has SunWheats.

Chicago Eats Millions of Bananas Yearly

Plant Matures in About Fourteen Months.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Less than 100 years ago the pioneers of the middle west knew about tropical fruits only by reading about them in books, while even the elite of the southern city of New Orleans seldom tasted luxuries that now are common in the Chicago market, such as bananas, oranges, grapefruit, and pineapples.

Today Chicago eats nearly 200,000,000 bananas in a year, and those of all classes are able to buy this fruit the entire year, although it comes from plantations approximately 2,500 miles south.

In 1850 clipper ships began carrying partial cargoes of bananas to the United States, and about 1865 Carl H. Franc started the first regular importations from Aspinwall, within the present Panama canal zone. Through a consolidation of several carriers in 1899 ample capital and resources were made available and the importations began coming more rapidly until today there are fleets of refrigerated boats operating between the ports and steam railways on plantations in Honduras, Jamaica, Colombia, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Panama, Nicaragua, Cuba, and British Honduras and the railroad and truck facilities which supply the fruit consuming centers of the United States.

Production and Transportation.

Japan ships some oranges; Cuba sends us tomatoes, grapefruit, and pineapples, and the Argentine has developed some of its trade with this nation by supplying cantaloupes and grapes, but the banana industry, based on a production centered in the tropics because of the temperature and moisture requirements of the plant, has outsped them in shipments into the United States.

Bunches consist of eight or nine "hands" of an average of 10 "fingers," or bananas, each. The bunches, or stems, are cut when still green, handled carefully to prevent bruising or other damage, placed as quickly as possible on board train or boat and watched carefully until the transportation and ripening processes are at an end in retail stores.

The fruit spends four to five days on a boat, if it comes from the Central American plantations, as most of Chicago's bananas do. This is a trip of about 1,330 miles by water to New Orleans. Then they are packed into special fruit cars and are in Chicago in about 55 hours, according to H. R. Johnson of the Standard Fruit and Steamship company of this city. Bunches received here on a Thursday will be ripened and on sale in stores by Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of the following week.

Matures in 14 Months.

More irrigation than in former years is being done in Central America, according to latest reports. The banana is a quickly growing plant, rather than a tree, and matures in about 14 months. The 15 to 30 foot "tree" is cut down when the single bunch of fruit is harvested, but new suckers or shoots spring up almost immediately from the rhizome or root. Rainfall is between 80 to 200 inches per year in Central America.

Small armies of laborers work under engineers, timekeepers, and foremen in cutting away underbrush, setting out the banana plant root stocks, cutting down heavy timber to let it rot where it falls, slashing away the heavy tropical growth so that it does not smother out the young plants, and then harvesting with feverish speed when a boat docks at the nearest harbor. An acre of plants produces 125 to 150 bunches annually in Central America, while in Jamaica the plantations harvest from 200 to 250 bunches because of more intensive cultivation methods.

BRIDGE TABLE SERVICE

Simplicity is the keynote of this bridge table set for four. Dainty luncheon cloth and napkins, the usual glass and silverware and food within the reach of all.

HOUSEHOLD DISCOVERIES

If you have a household hint or unique discovery you are willing to pass on to other housewives, send it to Sally Lunn, Chicago Tribune. Recipes are excluded.

Most every household is troubled with window shades tearing from the rollers, especially after they become a little old. I find that taking all the tacks out of the rollers and fastening the shade to it with strips of adhesive tape placed rather close together makes a firm and satisfactory holding. —H. H. E., Highmore, S. D.

I have reduced my hosiery bill by rubbing paraffin wax on the heels of my stockings where the shoe rubs. —Miss A. B., Chicago.

Hot vinegar will make a paint brush that has become hard and useless, soft and pliable again.—Mrs. A. S. R., Dodgeville, Wis.

When dressing chicken, first chill it through, then plunge it [unjointed] into a pan of hot water [not scalding] into which you have put a teaspoonful or more, of baking soda. Soak from 2 to 5 minutes. The dingy top skin can then easily and quickly be brushed off, or scraped off, leaving the fowl gleaming white and clean.—Miss A. L., Chicago.

If ice cream is delivered at the house before time to serve, wrap the container in a towel dipped in strong solution of salt and water, wrap in a dry towel, and place in the ice compartment of the refrigerator. This will prolong the time during which it will remain in good condition until served.—Mrs. J. S. B., Gloversville, N. Y.

To sharpen the knives of a food chopper grind through small ends of scouring soap.—N. K. V. K., Oak Park, Ill.

The job of picking ducks is always unpleasant because of the down left after the heavy feathers have been removed. I sprinkle melted paraffin over the down. As soon as the paraffin hardens the feathers stick to it and are easily removed.—Z. B., Cabery, Ill.

When dicing warm boiled potatoes dip a sharp knife into water and the potatoes will not crumble.—Mrs. S. F., Chicago.

Hostess Must Keep Cool Even When It's Hot

Elaborate Menus Are Not Necessary.

BY SALLY LUNN.

Do you enjoy entertaining in your own home? Are you one of those women who fuss and fuss all morning preparing, and when the guests arrive are too tired to enjoy their company, or do you delight in preparing a suitable menu that will charm your guests and cost you a minimum of time and labor?

Simple refreshments that reflect your own ingenuity are always appreciated. It is not necessary to make elaborate preparations and serve fancy menus to have a successful afternoon party. To have a delightful menu that will not tax your energy should be the aim of every woman.

Prepared Before Guests Arrive

As hostess you should always look fresh and cool when your guests arrive. You should be able to remain with them and entertain and care for them rather than have to rush back and forth to the kitchen to see if the sauce has burned or the ice cream has frozen. All the food should be practically ready to serve before any one arrives.

Of course, this means that it must be prepared and kept in good condition and ready to place on the plates immediately before serving. Doing all the work that can be done in the morning and leaving just those last few touches for the afternoon will simplify your serving tremendously.

Serve at Individual Tables

In our luncheon as shown in the picture, we have prepared a simple salad that is adequate enough for the main dish of the meal. It is a crinoline salad. Lettuce which forms the base may be washed and kept in the refrigerator until it is ready to be cut.

Pears and pineapple, canned, which are used to trim the salad, may be opened and placed in the refrigerator to chill. Oranges may be peeled and wrapped in paraffin paper, the cheese creamed and the peppers cut—in fact, everything should be ready for action. Just before service the salad may be combined.

Hard rolls, butter, and a simple milk drink, with small cakes, round out the meal. There is no need for hurry in any of these preparations.

We believe also that the luncheon is best served at the individual tables. The cards are removed, an attractive cloth is laid and the luncheon served. Your ease in presenting this simple yet unusual and refreshing menu will go a long way toward establishing your reputation as a successful hostess.

Cow Does a Hurdle Into Menomonee River

Milwaukee, Wis., June 26.—[Special.]—Escaping from pens of the Milwaukee Dressed Beef company under the 16th street viaduct at Muskego avenue, a cow doomed for slaughter today leaped into the Menomonee river. Some one called the fire department, but the animal was rescued by company employés before its arrival.

Sally Selects Her Guests; Watch for Names on Sunday

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Well, boys and girls, I've read your letters and have selected one hundred of you to be my guests next Thursday at our first party of the summer, which will be at White City. I think most of the young people in and around Chicago want to come to this party, and judging from the excellent and interesting letters they wrote they realize just what a marvelous time we're going to have. I shall have to disappoint some of you, of course, because I can take only a hundred, but there are going to be numerous other good times—a party every week—so you have an opportunity to try again.

In some of the letters—and good letters they were, too—the writer neglected to mention his age, one or two omitted their addresses, and there was one without a name. Other candidates asked for invitations for a younger brother, or sister, or best friend. These, of course, I could not consider, because they did not follow the rules. Remember, I said you must tell me your name, address, and age, and I also told you that each child should write his or her own letter.

Being a winner for the White City party does not mean that you will not be invited to any of the succeeding affairs, so whether or not your name is in the winning list you may write a letter for the party which I shall announce in Sunday's TRIBUNE, along with the names of the White City winners.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.] — The British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, went to New York today by plane to greet the trans-Atlantic flyers, Maj. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his companions.

Former Representative William A. Rodenberg of Illinois, who has made his home in Washington since retiring from congress, went to New York today, accompanied by Mrs. Rodenberg, to sail tomorrow for England on the Bremen. They met former senator and Mrs. James A. Reed of Missouri in New York. The latter two will complete their party. They will spend the summer visiting England and the islands roundabout England, and Scotland, and Germany.

The marriage of Miss Marjorie Mondell, younger daughter of former Representative Frank W. Mondell [Wyo.] to Alfons Beaumont Landa, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Landa, took place this afternoon in St. Thomas' church, the Rev. C. Ernest Smith, rector, officiating.

Judge Sees Britain "Shuffling Along" in Divorce Law Maze

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 26.—The necessity of England having to "shuffle along" with its hodgepodge and ancient inconsistent laws was bemoaned in court today by Justice Hill when he was again faced with the difficulties of the English divorce laws.

"There are so many things in the divorce law that I would like to see altered by parliament, but I despair of parliament ever doing anything," the justice said.

"The administration of justice is exceedingly difficult owing to the state of the law, not only in this respect but also many others. At present there is a bundle of detached rules and scraps of legislation, all inconsistent one with the other, and you get no principle out of it. One has to do the best he can with each problem. Since it is the law we must just shuffle along."

Ask City to Mark Grave of Wilson's First Wife

Rome, Ga., June 26.—(AP)—Directors of the chamber of commerce here have asked municipal authorities to assume responsibility of caring for an obscure grave in Myrtle Hill cemetery in which is buried the body of President Woodrow Wilson's first wife. Visitors seeking the grave have complained frequently that they were unable to find it. The chamber of commerce requested that markers be placed in the cemetery pointing the way.

Brother of Japan's Emperor and Bride Greeted in London

LONDON, June 26.—(AP)—Prince Takamatsu, brother of the Japanese emperor, with his bride arrived today on a state visit. The duke of Gloucester and the Japanese ambassador, who had traveled with them by special train from Liverpool, shared an elaborate ceremony at the station, in which the duke of York, Princess Mary, and Premier MacDonald took part.

The Japanese royal pair then were escorted in the state carriage for a reception at Buckingham palace.

Later in the day they deposited wreaths at the cenotaph and the unknown soldier's grave in Westminster abbey.

It was a brilliant scene at Victoria station as the prince, clad in a Japanese naval uniform, alighted on the flower decked platform followed by the smiling princess in a gown of beige colored lace with a wide brimmed hat.

British Thinkers Decide Shaw Has "The Best Brains"

LONDON, June 26.—(AP)—Readers of the Spectator have voted George Bernard Shaw the "best brains" in the country. The journal circulates among a thoughtful class whose opinions of mental ability are regarded by the British as worth considering.

Results of a popular vote were: Bernard Shaw, 214; Sir Oliver Lodge, 183; Lord Birkenhead, 142; Winston Churchill, 95; Dean Inge, 91; H. G. Wells, 86; Lord Melchett, 62; David Lloyd George, 50; Philip Snowden, 48; Sir John Simon, 45.

Ramsay MacDonald, the prime minister, received not a single vote. Stanley Baldwin got 13. Chicago Colony at Charlevoix Plans Events

BY THALIA

The Chicago club of Charlevoix in Northern Michigan, a summer retreat of long standing popularity with a large group of Chicago families, is now housing quite a few of our townsfolk. Mrs. Eugene S. Talbot Jr. of the East Division street and her children have arrived and are ensconced for the season, and young Mr. Conger has had as his guest John Amberg Graham and Nancy Whiting, the son and daughter of Mrs. A. H. Whiting, are at the club, and their mother, who has been abroad to bring home the eldest daughter, Elinor, from her studies in Paris, will be with them a little later.

Mrs. Wheaton Augur is spending a part of time with her daughter, Mrs. Robert C. Orr, and her grandchildren, Peter and Nancy Orr. Mrs. Robert Hart of 4850 Woodlawn avenue arrived the first part of this week, and the children of the Bryan Reids of 1000 Lakeview avenue, Margaret, Bill, and Bryan Jr., are at the Reid summer place near the club. Nancy Otises, daughter of the Joseph E. Otises, has a summer nearby at Harbor Springs, made them a one-day visit last week. The Stanley Rickcords and their daughter, Anne, were among the early arrivals, and the Oscar W. Johnsons of 1343 North State street got there last Monday.

The new Little Harbor club, organized by and for the summer residents of Harbor Point and Harbor Springs, on the lake and across Little Traverse bay from Charlevoix, is to be dedicated with a gay celebration over the Fourth of July week-end. Among the founder members are the James Offields, the Luther Burnets, Mr. and Mrs. William Waller Jr., Mrs. Robert Wheeler, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Pierce, the Byron Giffords, and Mr. and Mrs. Earle H. Raynolds, besides some people from other cities who are accustomed to spending part of the summers in that region.

Mrs. Rensselaer W. Cox is giving a dinner dance at Onwentsia tonight for her son, William Deshler Cox, and his bride, who was Miss Helen Nicholas of Columbus, O., before their marriage in late May. Young Mr. and Mrs. Cox returned yesterday from their wedding trip, and are to be with Mrs. Cox at her residence at 1539 Astor street for awhile.

William R. Moore, president of the Romany club, is giving a dinner party this evening in his garden for his house guests, J. C. Demarest, R. O. Belmont, and Chandler Ireland of New York, and William Walsh of Minneapolis.

Mrs. Forsythe Sherfessee is to sail from France today for the U. S. A., and will go immediately to her country place, Ringwood, at Lake Otsego, N. Y. By mid-July she plans to come to Chicago for some visits in Lake Forest. She is to join Mr. Sherfessee in London in September, and then the two of them will set forth on one of their interesting trips. Via the Siberian railway, they will go into China, and thence to the Philippines and other South Sea islands. They will be gone indefinitely, and are to make a long stay in Peking.

WEDDING

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Hale, daughter of F. O. Hale, vice president of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, to John Hills Beardsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Beardsley of Hartford, Conn., took place at 9 o'clock last night at the Emmanuel Episcopal church at La Grange. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the La Grange Country club. Miss Hale was graduated from Wells college, and Mr. Beardsley from Yale.

Mrs. William Gold Hibbard III. of Winnetka and her children, Lydia and Billy, go east today for a visit with Mrs. Hibbard's mother, Mrs. J. Borden Estee of Montpelier, Vt. Mr. Hibbard is to join them in a couple of weeks, and then he and Mrs. Hibbard are to go to Greenwich, Conn., for a stay with Mrs. Hibbard's brother-in-law and sister, the John R. Dunlaps, leaving the children in the care of their grandmama.

Several Chicago girls are representing their respective schools at the Northfield conference held this week at East Northfield, Mass., under the auspices of the young women's conference. Anne B. Smith, the Harold C. Smiths' daughter, who is at Farmington; Corinne Brewer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Harris Brewer; Margaret McKinley of Winnetka; Louise Neff, daughter of Nettleton Neff, who has been studying at Dobbs Ferry; Adelaide Atkin, daughter of the Godfrey Atkins of Winnetka, and Jean Rumsey, daughter of the Henry A. Rumseys, are among the 400 young women present to discuss religious questions.

Mr. and Mrs. William Warren Case have moved out from their town residence at 39 East Schiller street to their Winnetka place. Their daughter, Miss Emily Case, is remaining in China for another year.

Unemployment Adds to Families' Needs; Can You Send Aid?

"My dad hasn't worked for the last 18 months and the way things look now he won't be able to work again. I read about THE TRIBUNE'S free ice fund, and I am wondering if you couldn't help us out by sending us ice."

Thus a 17 year old boy, the eldest of seven children and the main support of his family, wrote to the ice fund yesterday. His was among the many entreaties for aid that have come both to the ice fund and the Camp Algonquin fund in the last few days—heartbreaking letters pleading for a little lift to carry over the hard times and the subsequent impoverished conditions in the tenement areas.

In the same mail came another letter from the father of four children who says that he has been unable to find employment for several months, and asks that two children who have been ill and are undernourished be sent to Camp Algonquin. And still another letter arrived from a twelve year old girl begging for Algonquin vacations.

Because so many heads of households are out of work, the burden thrown upon the two funds is just that much heavier. Ice to keep fresh what food they have may mean their very life to many tenement families. And that two weeks at Camp Algonquin may mean a new grip on life to many others. So you see, reader, the responsibility that rests upon you who are more fortunate.

The names of many old friends appear in today's acknowledgement of gifts—friends who come back every year with their aid, some of them three or four times during the season.

Wales Flies to Pageant Honoring Cardinal Wolsey

IPSWICH, Eng., June 26.—(AP)—The prince of Wales today flew to Ipswich to see a pageant of a thousand actors commemorating the 400th anniversary of the birth here of the famous statesman, Cardinal Wolsey. This pleasant east Anglican town is proud of its associations with the great cardinal, though it has few relics of him. Wolsey was contemptuously referred to as "the butcher's son."

HARRY C. STUTZ DEAD; NOTED AS AUTO DESIGNER

Appendicitis Operation Results in Death.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 26.—[Special.]—Harry C. Stutz, 53, widely known designer and builder of pleasure and racing automobiles, died today at the Methodist hospital here, where he had been operated Monday evening for appendicitis. Infection followed the operation. Stutz had driven to Indianapolis from Orlando, Fla., and was stricken as he arrived here.

Noted Automotive Designer.

Stutz was the designer and builder of the car bearing his name which ran in the first 500 mile race here in 1911, and he also designed the Marmon that won that race. Later Stutz won the race several times. From this beginning the Stutz Motor Car Company of America was founded, and developed into one of the largest manufacturers of fine automobiles in the world.

Stutz was born Sept. 12, 1876, at Ansonia, O., near Dayton. As the operator of a small machine shop in Dayton he became interested in automobiles, and in 1897 turned from manufacturing farm pumping engines to building the new contrivances.

Started with Axle Improvements.

He came here in 1903 in the axle business, and inventions which improved rear axles of automobiles first won him recognition in the automotive field. He later was a G. & J. tire and Schebler carburetor executive, designed the American underslung automobile, was with the Marion Auto company and then with Marmon. After he sold Stutz to Charles Schwab and others he manufactured the H. C. S. auto and taxi. Stutz resigned from the company bearing his name several months before the corner in Stutz stock was engineered by Allan A. Ryan in 1920.

He married first Miss Clara M. Dietz at Dayton, Oct. 25, 1898. They had one child, a daughter, Mrs. Emma Belle Horn, who lives here. Divorced a few years ago, he married Miss Blanche Clark, divorced wife of Herbert J. Miller, former assistant manager of the Indianapolis Athletic club in December, 1925, and moved to Florida. Funeral services probably will be held here Saturday.

SENATOR SMOOT REFUSES TO TELL IF HE'LL WED

Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, coauthor of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, who arrived here en route to Salt Lake City yesterday, declined to confirm or deny reports that he was going there to be married in the Mormon temple. The senator arrived with his son, Ernest W. Smoot, and left immediately for Utah. Reports name Mrs. Alice Sheets of Salt Lake City as the prospective bride. Senator Smoot is 68 years old and a grandfather.

"I will marry no woman whom I have not asked to marry me," Senator Smoot said. "And I haven't asked any woman to marry me. I am weary of having this question put to me. I will not say that I am going to Utah to marry and I will not say that I am not going to Utah to marry."

A reporter asked the senator not to answer the question like a politician.

"When I get ready to marry I shall be only too glad to tell the country and the world about it," Senator Smoot replied.

The senator said he planned to visit Honolulu to rest from the strain of the protracted debate on the tariff.

FARM BUREAU ADOPTS REPORT ON TARIFF LAW

Analysis Shows Gain in Protection.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Agriculture gets three and a half times as much increase in protection as does industry in the new tariff law, according to a report adopted yesterday by the directors of the American Farm Bureau federation.

The report dwelt on the idea of tariff adjustments that may enable the farmers to "buy themselves rich" as well as sell themselves wealthy. The report was in the form of a mathematical analysis of the duties in the Hawley-Smoot tariff act, compiled by Chester H. Gray, the federation's Washington representative. Without passing judgment on the measure and whether it fulfills farm relief expectations, the officials pointed out the report compares the new rates on agricultural products and industrial products.

"The increase of protection on agricultural products in the act of 1930 compared to the act of 1922 is 11.57 points and on industrial products 5.48 points," says the report.

The directorate of the federation adopted the tax recommendations suggested the day before by the farm bureau conference, urging the development of new tax sources to reduce the tax burden on farms and real property. In its final form, this program embraces six items:

1. Coordination and reallocation of taxing powers between the federal government and the states.
2. Extension of the principle involved in the protection of state inheritance taxes by the federal government to other forms of taxation where necessary.
3. The obligation of liberal appropriations by state and national governments to assist local communities in maintaining equal educational opportunities.
4. Increased participation by state and national governments in the cost of improving public highways.
5. The cooperation of all business groups in securing the most rigid economy in public expenditures.
6. The use of taxes derived from new sources to reduce general property taxes.

Politeness Is More than a Repetition of Courtesy Words

"If you want to enjoy nature with your children, write to Mrs. Bevans for a list of books on the outdoor life, which will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"In a letter from a young mother of a young son—a little over two—is this:

"I like to observe and study and find out 'why' — whether these things are my son's or the characteristics of childhood as a whole—and to watch his growth as an individual. I like to notice that he has developed and grown differently from several other children his age among our friends' families. Whether it is the child, or the parents' method, and who has the best method, and all that—I wonder.

"One couple has always insisted on 'please' and 'thank you' from their little boy. We haven't. We use them ourselves, but I would rather wait until he can understand their meaning. As long as his manner is quietly accepting, why insist on the 'please'? How often I have heard 'please' tacked on in a rough, ungracious request, even as an afterthought, and the request granted merely because said 'please,' though the spirit wasn't there at all. Surely, my husband and I, both believe that it matters not so much what you say as the spirit in which it is done. And I think this applies to children.

"I would rather they asked politely time and never said 'please,' than as some children I have observed. And I would prefer a little favor or thing graciously given than a great deal given grudgingly. Duty can have two more] meanings. First, an obligation as one's share or part of a household, and, second, 'because one has to please somebody all the time.'" This is all true and well put. The most important thing for little children's manners is for them to be exposed to the contagion of the spirit of courtesy.

If they hear the sound of a "please," with or without the word, in the voice of their father or mother, they're almost sure to echo it in their own voices when they ask for something. And if they do this, it is not necessary to insist so upon the use of the word "please" on every single occasion.

If the feeling is right the words "please" and "thank you" don't matter so much when the children are small. If they hear them used about them constantly they'll be sure to pick them up, sooner or later. A gentle reminder is the most they should have during those early years when they are so much to learn. Later it is different—they need to use the language currency of the world of the well mannered.

With little children, a stern insistence on the mere words often defeats the true purpose of "thank you" and "please," which should be symbols of graciousness, not empty form.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Tell Him the Ban's Lifted.

"Dear Miss Blake: A fellow I love asked me to go out with him, but I was too young. Now that I can go he does not ask me. DOT."

Can't you tell him the ban has been lifted and you're free to accept invitations from boys now?

Often Made Mistake.

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I love nearly has lost interest in me. Is it time to keep on showing him how much I care? PRETTY."

He lost interest because you showed your feelings too plainly. It's a mistake many girls make.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Barbara, who objected to having her face washed, remarked one day when her mother was washing her, "I don't see why little girls' faces have to be washed and ladies only powder theirs." M. W.

Little Jimmie had been instructed before going visiting with his mother not to ask for a second piece of cake, if they had cake for dessert.

The dessert proved to be pie. After Jimmie had finished his piece, he called across the table to his mother, "Mother, no second piecers for pie, no?" Mrs. H. G.

Milady Ties on a Tunic for Afternoon Parties

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Paris frocks that tie on, wholly or in part, with a big soft bow, are being given a grand rush by the smartest women this summer. You know the old fashioned allover apron that tied on with a bow around your waist? This is the first ancestor of the present styles that are bound up by a tying process. Some of the most fashionable dresses seen here in Paris bear a strong family resemblance to that apron. Many elegant afternoon dresses get their distinction from a tied-on tunic, which is the simplest and most practical version of the fashion. You can wear the tunic or leave it off. This is the idea, at least, though I have never known a lady to omit tying her tunic on when she has one.

The Chantal dress sketched here is an example of the vogue, and a good one. This frock for the summer afternoon is made of tulle marquisette, a fine, strong net that lends itself well to such a tailored model. The skirt tunic has a hip yoke made of two curved bands ending in ties which attach it to the dress at the center front. It is plaited from the knee regions to the hem. The simple dress has a plain skirt with a plaited godet at the center front, which shows even with the tunic in place. The blouse is perfectly plain except for a clever arrangement at the neck line. This detail consists of a band of pink tulle marquisette that forms a V at the back of the blouse, disappears, and emerges at the front of the round neck, where it is tied in a flat tailored bow, leaving a bit of the skin showing below.

Bathtub Beauty Route Is Safe, Sane and Sure

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It does seem kind of silly, if not a bit insulting maybe, to be talking bathing to an American audience, what with the humblest of homes boasting its good plumbing and two bath rooms being almost imperative in a real estate house transaction. In addition, aren't we greeted on every apartment-to-lease-sign with news of anywhere from three to eight or ten baths?

Allee samee, the bathtub beauty route could be more heartily adopted for what there is in it. You can't much beat that water route, whether it is exquisite daintiness you're seeking or just clearer complexions, smoother skin or whatever your needs are.

The bath is not only a cleansing operation. It's a complexion beautifier, a daily rejuvenator, a reviver of drooping spirits and a number of other good things. It, more than any other beauty operation you can name, has the greatest psychological benefits. You can have your hair shampooed and waved, and never experience quite that same revival of interest in the dozen personal details you have with a bath.

You can have a facial and not be inspired to thread the "combies" with fresh ribbon or don a pair of freshly laundered stockings. Neither with hair waved or face massaged do you have quite the same sense of all's right with the world that you have when you know you are in a condition of perfect cleanliness from which there is small chance of offense from odors of body or clothes.

It is not only for the sake of cleanliness that baths recommend themselves. It's all the other uplift work performed. Of course, there is no glibbing over the extraordinary value of a reputation for daintiness and sheer feminine charm that strict bathing habits provide. If, along with the basic sweetness of person, one becomes adept in the use of bath or other perfumes that lend a faint, delicate fragrance, she becomes irresistibly appealing. And this is an appeal to be gained by the many at comparatively small cost.

The warm, sudsy, cleansing bath at night and the morning shower, aside from their cleansing virtues, are actual skin beautifiers, refining texture, and contributing velvety smoothness and youthful beauty to it.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

F. S.: MILK USED EXTERNALLY to improve the complexion will not cause the growth of hair. After the skin has been thoroughly cleansed apply the milk liberally and allow it to dry on. Do this at night. In the morning remove with tepid water, followed by a cold rinse.

Paid for His Embarrassment.

It was April Fool's day. I walked into the office and noticed one of the boys wearing glasses. Now I had worked there for four years and I knew he had never worn them before, so, thinking it was an April fool joke, I walked up to him, pulled off the glasses, threw them on the floor and hollered "April fool."

Imagine my embarrassment when I found out they were not celluloid as I expected but real ones and that he had just paid $25 for them. It was an expensive joke for me as I had broken them. B. S.

Doris Says It's the Hard Working Father That Needs a Vacation

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The grown sons and daughters in the house are probably poring over vacation folders about this time, or else they know already exactly what they are going to do with their two weeks' vacation period.

Sitting on the sidelines in many a home are mother and father, agreeable listeners to their children's vacation enthusiasms, though playing no active part in the plans. When father's two weeks come round, he can putter around the garden or fix up some of the house leaks and mother can watch him, get his meals for him and be at her usual post. At least, father gets a change of work, if not a change of scene.

Now, the world of sons and daughters is as it always was. There are generous children toward parents, self-sacrificing ones, if need be, and also those sons and daughters who believe the world and its pleasures were made for them only. Hard working mother and father, patient, uncomplaining, a bit too self-sacrificing for their own or their children's good, may, so far as the latter type boys and girls are concerned, go on endlessly without benefit of new scenes, new food, new contacts. Vacations for them are as unnecessary as dancing pumps, so the self-centered young ones think.

If any one of the family group needs a vacation it is the hard working male parent whose life is bounded by office or factory and home, with little or none of the amusement features of life to relieve the monotony. Even more so, does the mother whose life is confined to the getting of meals, making of beds, looking after the clothes of her sons and daughters and their company's pleasure.

Youth can have its pleasure along the way. So if anybody has to curtail on vacation expenses, the young ones might give a thought or two to where mother and dad would like to go for a change. It is thoughtlessness often that parents are left out of vacation plans. Also, that parents are grown used to being left out of them, a habit developed when the children were young and there was no alternative.

We're only just offering a hint, because if everybody gets away for a little change, there'll be more fun in the household later exchanging experiences. Mostly, however, we want to see mother get out on a little spree of her own where there'll be no dishwashing and meal planning for a couple of weeks. It's coming to her.

AMUSEMENTS.
